Russia Puts Seven Men Into Orbit; Space Station Likely

Cosmonauts Circle In Three Vehicles

Soyuz 8, piloted by two veteran spacemen, blasted off from the Baikaonur cosmodrome in Soviet central Asia earlier in the day to join Soyuz 6 and Soyuz 7, sent aloft on Saturday and yesterday.

In keeping with the usual Soviet practice on space flights, official announcements were vague about the Soyuz trio's mission. But semiofficial sources said the spacecraft would link up after Soyuz 8 had been checked out by its crew.

Two space flight veterans, Col. Vladimir Shatalov, 41, and engineer Alexei Yeliseyev, 34, are flying Soyuz 8. They both took part in the Soviet Union's last flight in January when for the first time two manned spaceships were linked together.

A SPACE PRO

The presence of the experienced Shatalov in over-all command, and Yeliseyev looked like further evidence that the ships are to be used to make a station. Some of the cosmonauts presumably could stay behind to man this while others returned to earth. Later new crews could be sent up as relief.

Soyuz 6 has special welding equipment on board apparently meant to be used for construction work. How much material and equipment will be left behind in space after the mission is completed is unknown.

The maximum number of men that Soyuz can carry has not been divulged.

The Soviet Union lacks booster rockets as powerful as the U.S. Saturn 5 and seems unable to match a direct moon flight such as that made by Apollo 11. U.S. experts have been saying for some time that the Soviets would have to combine a number of launches to assemble in orbit the rockets, spacecraft and fuel supplies needed for outer space flights.

PURPOSE OF SERIES

Soviet officials made clear in earlier statements that the Soyuz series was aimed at building manned orbiting platforms.

The first Soyuz launched in April of 1967 was obviously meant to get the program started. Its crash and the death of cosmonaut Vladimir Komarov caused a long delay and helped the United States win the moon race.

U.S. experts expected the Soviet Union to be ahead with a space station, predicting it for sometime this year or 1970. The United States itself does not plan to have its own station until 1972, concentrating instead on further flights to the moon.

Soviet space scientists argue that permanent orbiting stations, as laboratories and

Gun Giving Denial By Police Boss

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chicago's police superintendent, denying he had given confiscated guns to Maj. Gen. Carl C. Turner for personal use, said today Turner urged him to destroy records of the transfer when federal investigators started checking.

Turner, who was the Army's provost marshal general at the time, shook his head in denial as Supt. James B. Conlisk Jr. gave that testimony before the Senate investigations subcommittee.

Turner has testified that although he signed receipts stating that he was receiving the weapons for Army use, they actually were given to him for his personal use. He said Conlisk told him the receipt was only a means of clearing police records.

But Conlisk testified today: "I want to stress that at no time in any of the conversations with General Turner did I say, or imply, that the weapons he had selected were for his private use, or for the private use of any other person."

Conlisk said he first larned the guns were not used for an Army museum when Internal Revenue Service investigators asked to examine police records.

"On at least two occasions subsequent to the first visit by Internal Revenue Service investigators," Conlisk said, "General Turner telephoned me and asked that I order the receipts of the transfer of weapons to him destroyed. I informed Gen. Turner that this would not be done."

Called to the witness table alongside Conlisk after the police officer had finished his prepared statement, Turner repeated his earlier assertions that the

THREAT TO DEMOCRACY

Nixon Sounds Alarm On Taking Issues To Street

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon, refusing to bow to the planned Vietnam moratorium demonstration Wednesday, said today that "to allow government policy to be made in the streets would destroy the democratic process" and invite anarchy.

He said he cannot abandon his present policies in Vietnam "merely because of a public demonstration."

He spoke out in a letter to a Georgetown University student, Randy J. Dicks, who had written to challenge Nixon's news conference statement that he would under no circumstances be affected by the protest demonstration.

Nixon said he is convinced that "we are on the road to peace" and that the course of action he is following is the right one.

"On Oct. 15, I understand, many will be simply saying: 'I am for peace.' I ardently join with all Americans in working toward that goal," Nixon said.

He added that the administration is already well aware that many Americans are deeply concerned about the war, that some consider U.S. participation immoral, that many want U.S. troops withdrawn immediately and unconditionally.

He said the administration is already well aware that this sentiment is widespread and "therefore, there is nothing new we can learn from the demonstrations."

"The question is whether, in the absence of any new evidence or any new arguments, we should be turned aside from a carefully considered course," the President said.

Earlier, Secretary of State William P. Rogers raised the possibility that dissenting Americans may have shattered the chances of a quick negotiated peace.

"There is so much dissent here, and there are so many voices being heard that I think they (the North Vietnamese) must have the feeling that the President doesn't have the amount of support necessary to carry on for a long time," Rogers said yesterday.

Nixon declared the policies he is following are based on exhaustive study and considered judgment and "to abandon that policy merely because of a public demonstration would therefore be an act of gross irresponsibility on my part."

Dicks' letter, made public by the White House, said Nixon's news conference statement "is ill-considered to say the least."

Suggesting that Nixon reconsider his comment, Dicks said "It has been my impression that it is not unwise for the President of the United States to take note of the will of the people."

Nixon replied that "there is clear distinction between public opinion and public demonstrations. To listen to public opinion is one thing; to be swayed by public demonstrations is another. . . . If a President—any President—allowed his course to be set by those who demonstrate, he would betray the trust of all the rest."

Such action, he added, "would give the decision not to the majority, and not to those with the strongest arguments, but to those with the loudest voices. It would reduce statecraft to slogans. It would invite anarchy."

Nixon said he respects the right of each American to express his own opinion. But the President, he added, must consider the consequences of each possible course of action.

The letter was brought to Nixon's attention, Ziegler said, and the reply expresses the President's point of view on the demonstrations. No further presidential comment is expected, Ziegler indicated.

Concerned Tam High Opens Racial Dialogue

A group of about 550 concerned parents, faculty and students explored ways of easing racial tension and related problems at Tamalpais High School today in a day-long meeting sparked by a series of racial incidents at the school last week.

The school's faculty was to meet this afternoon to hammer out plans of attack on various problems raised by group discussions this morning.

In several of the 16 discussion groups, some parents questioned whether last week's initial incidents and previous incidents at the school were attributable to race. One parent said "Kids will be kids, and kids will fight."

Asst. Principal Henry Marshall, who is black, said however, that the question of race influences the "overall atmosphere" of the school and should not be ignored. "This is not a new problem here . . . it has been swept under the rug before," he said.

Marshall added that the tendency of the school and the district's parents in the past has been to say, "We've got a monster we think we want to domesticate in some way," but the "domestication has been only on a superficial basis.

He also said that a major part of the problem is that white parents expect black administrators to solve the "black problem."

He told parents and students: "I don't have all the answers . . . I do have some. One of the problems is that you (white parents) say 'he's a black man, talk to him about the black problem."

Marshall and others raised the problem of incidents at the school being distorted and blown out of proportion by the time reports of them reach parents and the general community. One of the solutions suggested to this problem was establishment of a rumor center.

Other problems raised by parents in the meetings included the attitude of teachers in classes toward blacks; a "double standard" in some disciplinary areas; drugs; the school's disciplinary program; intimidation of students, and lack of black parents involved in school activities.

Fairfax In Merger Talk At Congress

By ALAN JONES

Civic affairs panelists surprised Fairfax's second annual Congress for Community Progress by recommending a study of possible political merger of Fairfax and San Anselmo.

The proposal appeared to fly in the face of public opinion, which ran three to one against merger in questionnaires sent out before the congress. But panel chairman John Barrows, assistant county adminiserator, explained the recommendation was only for study not necessarily pro-merger. Without a study to learn possible changes in services and costs, arguments for and against merger are meaningless, the panel said.

Several Fairfax residents spoke strongly against the study, but the recommendation carried by 30 to 20 on a show of hands, with only half the audience voting.

The study will be a waste of money, Mrs. Carol Graham said. She said questionnaires showed many people moved to Fairfax to live in a small town, so the cost question is not a factor.

The congress adopted the merger study and seven other recommendations argued out in three workshop panels in the five-hour session. All will be sent to the city council for possible action.

Only two councilmen attended Saturday's congress, Mayor Francis J. O'Connell and Adelaide P. Wilson. Most top level city officals were there except Police Chief James R. Orr.

The most immediate result was produced by the human needs panel, which drew an audience of 55 to 60, by far the largest of the three. The panel

Two-Hour Moratorium Vigil On Wednesday At Courthouse

A two-hour vigil protesting the Vietnam War and mourning its victims will be held from noon to 2 p.m. Wednesday at the Marin County Courthouse in San Rafael.

The vigil, part of the nationwide Vietnam War moratorium, will include reading the names of the more than 2,000 California men who have been killed in the war.

A wreath in the shape of a peace symbol will be placed at the World War I memorial statue by sponsoring organizations.

A peace march from the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo will begin at 10:30 a.m. and is scheduled to end at noon at the courthouse.

Sponsors of the vigil list four major aims of the moratorium day observance: Mourning the California war dead; registering dissatisfaction with the current policy of "tokenism in partial troop withdrawals from Vietnam while expanding the war to Laos;" asking that all troops be brought home from Vietnam, and calling for an end to all manifestations of militarism in the country, including the draft and warfare research.

Sponsors include the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, Americans for Democratic Action, St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church and several individual clergymen.

Observances are also planned at most local schools, with the College of Marin Associated Students planning an all day convocation.

Various speakers are scheduled beginning at 10 a.m. in the Fine Arts Building, followed by a free lunch and showing of films at noon.

The observance of Oct. 15 as the date for the nationwide war protest has been questioned by at least one Marin resident who points out Oct. 15, 1965, was the date the Viet Cong called for a general strike to demonstrate their popular support.

Episcopalians Give Youth Vote

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Resolutions favoring voting rights and a greater voice in church affairs for 18-year-olds were approved at the 59th annual convention of the Episcopal Diocese of Northern California.

The 400 delegates at the conference which ended Sunday voted to establish a seat representing young people at the next convention, and to ask the legislature to lower the voting age to 18.

Southern Sonoma Voting On $12.7 Million School Bonds

Residents of Petaluma, Rohnert Park and Cotati will go to the polls tomorrow to decide on a $12.7 million bond issue and state loan for the Petaluma High School District.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. A total of 16,547 voters will be eligible to cast ballots in the election seeking approval for $3.6 million in bonds and $9.1 million in state loans to finance a 10-year building program for junior and senior high schools.

Petaluma polling places include Cherry Valley, Grant, McDowell, McNear, Valley Vista, Old Adobe and LaTercera schools, Petaluma City Hall and the George Pontiac-Buick showroom.

Polling places in Coatati and Rohnert Park include Cotati John Reed and Waldo Rohnert schools. Rural polling places are Penngrove, Cinnabar, Dunham, Liberty, Two Rock, Waugh, Wilmar schools, the Peter J. Giacomelli home, 4915 D Street Extension, Petaluma, Laguna and Lincoln schools.

State Lifts Ban On Open Burning

The State Division of Forestry lifted the ban on open burning permits at midnight last night, Chief Louis J. Bloom of the Marin County Fire Department said today.

No-Strike Pledge Is Balloted Out

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The biggest organization of California state employees defied Gov. Ronald Reagan today and voted to eliminate its 10-year-old no-strike pledge.

Bitterly unhappy with the Republican governor and his state employee job cutbacks, delegates to the California State Employees Association convention dropped the pledge by a vote of 630-192.

"The right to withhold our services is the difference between slavery and the right to be a free man," said Max Turchen of Los Angeles, one of those who advocated dropping the pledge.

Haynsworth Gets Bar Boost Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Judge Clement F. Haynsworth's nomination to the Supreme Court has been boosted by a second endorsement from the American Bar Association's Judiciary Committee.

The influential committee, a group of 12 lawyers, announced in New York last night it had reinspected Haynsworth's nomination in the light of conflict of interest charges and found no reason to change its earlier endorsement.

The exact vote was not disclosed. Committee chairman Lawrence E. Walsh, noting the original report favoring Haynsworth had been unanimous, said only that a substantial majority voted to reaffirm their original finding. He testified at Senate Judiciary Committee hearings Sept. 18 the ABA considered Haynsworth to be "highly qualified."

Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., a chief supporter of the nomination, said the continued approval of the bar committee "will be a tremendous boost to the confirmation of Judge Haynsworth" to fill the seat vacated by the resignation of Justice Abe Fortas.

However, a leading critic of Haynsworth, Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., maintained the outcome of the bar committee's reassessment "is not particularly surprising or unexpected but I think it puts the bar association in a very unfortunate and inconsistent position."

Haynsworth, chief judge of the Fourth U.S. Court of Appeals, gained the approval of the Senate Judiciary Committee, 10-7, but faces a tough fight in the full Senate.

The Senate's vote probably is at least two weeks away. Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana anticipates a lengthy debate. "This is not going to be finished in a day or two," he has said.

Lennon Killer Suspect Found Dead In Auto

SONORA (AP) — Tuolumne County sheriff's investigators have identified a body found in a car trunk, as that of a man sought in the slaying of the father of the singing Lennon Sisters.

Marvin Major, 38, had shot himself with a rifle after trying unsuccessfully to commit suicide by carbon monoxide poisoning, Sheriff Miller Sardella said. Major, a former mental patient, once wrote a letter to Peggy Lennon proposing marriage.

The Los Angeles police department had issued a first degree murder warrant for him 10 days after William Herbert Lennon, 54, was shot and killed at the Marina Del Rey Golf Range Aug. 12.

The car containing the body was spotted Saturday by two hunters in a patch of brush off a logging road 24 miles east of here.

Papers found in Major's car included a letter to Peggy Lennon and a large number of newspaper and magazine clippings about the Lennon Sisters and members of their family, Coroner Ray Antonini reported.

Among papers found was a letter addressed "to whom it may concern" in which Major said "he shot Bill Lennon," Antonini added.

Sheriff Sardella said Major apparently climbed into the trunk and committed suicide a week ago, probably Oct. 5, the date of the last letter.

The name Chet W. H. Young of Alameda was found on the dead man's driver's license. Major was known to have used the aliases Chet Young and C. W. Young.

Sardella said pictures furnished by Los Angeles police aided in the identification, and a ballistics check on the rifle used in the suicide established it as the weapon used to shoot Lennon.

Sonja Henie, 57, Dies Of Leukemia

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Sonja Henie, who put ice skating into show business and made millions, will be buried in her native Norway.

Miss Henie died last night aboard an ambulance plane bringing her home from a vacation in France with her third husband, shipping magnate Niels Onstad. She was 57 and had been suffering from leukemia for nine months, but the public and most of her friends did not know.

SONJA HENIE
Just 'slept away'

CONDITIONS WORSENS

The condition of the three-time Olympic gold medalist suddenly worsened in Paris and a doctor who was called in advised Onstad to take her home.

"We had been flying only an hour and she just slept away," the husband said.

Miss Henie kept up her skating—and her 110-pound, 5-foot-2 figure—after she stopped performing in the mid-1950s, but after her marriage to Onstad in 1956 she devoted more and more time to the outstanding collection of modern art which he had started.

In 1958, the Onstads gave Norway 250 of their paintings, housing them in the $3.5 million Hoevikodden Art Center which they built outside Oslo. Miss Henie's many skating trophies have been on display in the art center since last year, and recently she announced plans to build a retirement home next to the museum.

U.S. CITIZEN

An American citizen since 1941, Miss Henie kept a mansion in the Holmby Hills section of Los Angeles and she and Onstad also maintained an estate near Oslo and an apartment in Lausanne, Switzerland.

Her success story began with a family Christmas gift of skates in 1920, when she was a chubby 8-year-old blonde. The following year she won Oslo's junior skating championship, and three years later competed in her first Olympics—finishing last.

She won her first world figure skating championship in 1927, and new titles came in quick succession: her first Olympics gold medal in 1928, again in 1932 and 1936; the European championship every year from 1929 through 1936.

She turned professional in 1936, making a tour of the United States in an ice show. Her skill and showmanship, her flashing smile and brilliant technique, and her lavish productions of dance on ice captivated the public and packed arenas across the country.

She told interviewers that she wanted to go into the movies, "to do with skates what Fred Astaire is doing with dancing." When her show reached Hollywood, the story goes, her manager breathlessly reported that producer Darryl Zanuck was at the arena.

"What shall I do?" he asked.

"Sell him a ticket," Miss Henie answered.

STALLS CONTRACT

Zanuck offered her $10,000 a picture, but she held out for $100,000. Negotiations stalled briefly, then Zanuck's aide let her know that the producer wanted to see her.

"Then let Mr. Zanuck call me," she replied.

Miss Henie's first husband was millionaire sportsman Dan Topping, whom she divorced in 1946 after a five and one-half year marriage. She married Winthrop Gardiner Jr., scion of an old New York family, in 1949. They were divorced in May 1956, and she married Onstad the next month.

Trial Adjourns

JERUSALEM — The trial of Denis Michael Rohan, accused of trying to burn down Jerusalem's Al Aksah Mosque, was adjourned today until Oct. 30 after his defense counsel announced plans to bring in psychiatrists to testify on the Australian's mental state.

Attorney Yitzhak Tunik told the court he needed the time "to conclude psychiatric tests" on Rohan.

Tunik said the medical witnesses might include doctors from overseas — probably from Rohan's homeland.

Premier Leading

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Turkey's "peasant premier," Suleyman Demirel, has led his conservative Justice Party to another four years in power with a robust country boy style new to Turkish politics.

With approximately half the vote counted today, unofficial tabulations gave Demirel's party 51.3 per cent of the vote, slightly less than the 52.9 per cent it won in 1965, and more than 250 of the 450 seats in the National Assembly.

The unofficial figures gave the chief opposition, the leftist Peoples Republican Party, 36 per cent and more than 140 seats, and divided the rest among six smaller parties. The election was marred by shooting in four rural communities in which five persons were killed and six wounded.

Lebanon Pledge

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The United States has assured Lebanon it would view with the "greatest concern" any threat to its independence and territorial integrity.

The United States also has denied it is acting as "Israel's lawyer" in Middle East talks with the Soviet Union. American participation in the talks is based on the "considered judgment" that, left to themselves, Israel and the Arab States could not achieve peace in the Middle East, said a statement issued Sunday by the U.S. Embassy.

The statement was interpreted by Lebanese today as a firm American guarantee of their country's borders.

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli jets streaked across the Jordan River today to attack an Arab guerrilla stronghold 15 miles northwest of Amman, the Jordanian capital, the Israeli military command announced.

He said nothing about damage done in the raid.

Arab guerrillas in Jordan had made a bazooka and mortar attack during the night on two Israeli army positions along the river 15 miles south of the Sea of Galilee, reliable sources said. The Israeli troops answered with mortars and suffered no casualties or damage, the sources said.

Haynsworth Gets Bar Boost Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Judge Clement F. Haynsworth's nomination to the Supreme Court has been boosted by a second endorsement from the American Bar Association's Judiciary Committee.

The influential committee, a group of 12 lawyers, announced in New York last night it had reinspected Haynsworth's nomination in the light of conflict of interest charges and found no reason to change its earlier endorsement.

The exact vote was not disclosed. Committee chairman Lawrence E. Walsh, noting the original report favoring Haynsworth had been unanimous, said only that a substantial majority voted to reaffirm their original finding. He testified at Senate Judiciary Committee hearings Sept. 18 the ABA considered Haynsworth to be "highly qualified."

Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., a chief supporter of the nomination, said the continued approval of the bar committee "will be a tremendous boost to the confirmation of Judge Haynsworth" to fill the seat vacated by the resignation of Justice Abe Fortas.

However, a leading critic of Haynsworth, Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., maintained the outcome of the bar committee's reassessment "is not particularly surprising or unexpected but I think it puts the bar association in a very unfortunate and inconsistent position."

Haynsworth, chief judge of the Fourth U.S. Court of Appeals, gained the approval of the Senate Judiciary Committee, 10-7, but faces a tough fight in the full Senate.

The Senate's vote probably is at least two weeks away. Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana anticipates a lengthy debate. "This is not going to be finished in a day or two," he has said.

Wilson Puts Young Men In Key Jobs

LONDON (AP) — Striving for a new and vigorous look in advance of the general election, Prime Minister Harold Wilson dipped into his Labor Party's rank and file for younger men and made a number of changes among junior ministers yesterday. He reorganized the upper brackets of the government a week ago.

Two ministers of state, eight Parliamentary secretaries and three Parliamentary whips were dropped, and 13 new men were brought into the govern ment. Altogether there were 31 new appointees who averaged 38 years age. The average age of those leaving was 60.

Edward Rowlands, 29, was appointed Parliamentary undersecretary at the Welsh office and is the youngest member of the government. Another backbencher, Evan Luard, replaced William Whitlock as Parliamentary secretary at the Foreign Office. Whitlock was generally considered to have mishandled the Anguilla uprising earlier this year.

The changes reduced the size of the government from 105 ministers to 97.

War Lull Is Seen Until Hanoi, Cong Launch Annual Offensive

SAIGON (AP) — The lull in the Vietnam War, now in its sixth week, is expected to continue, a U.S. estimate said today, but only until the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese are ready to launch their winter-spring campaign.

An official assessment for the Third Military Corps Zone, which includes Saigon, reported: "Except for scattered attacks by fire (rockets and mortars) and light ground probes, the enemy is expected to prolong his period of reorganization and refitting while awaiting political developments and preparing for his next campaign."

The estimate gave no timetable for the start of the next campaign, but some U.S. officers have said the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese plan a winter-spring campaign beginning in November.

"Intelligence obtained from prisoners and documents has consistently indicated that the objective of the (enemy's) fall campaign was to prepare for the winter-spring offensive," the assessment continued." The enemy's actions to date seem to bear out these intentions.

Other sources said the enemy troops are being extensively resupplied with weapons and ammunition. Paratroopers from the U.S. 82nd Airborne Division uncovered one stockpile last night 25 miles northwest of Saigon. Underground tunnels yielded 90 Chinese rifles, 21 light machine guns and more than 200 mortar shells.

The U.S. Command said American forces killed 48 North Vietnamese troops in four clashes near the Cambodian border north of Saigon. Three Americans were wounded.

Other North Vietnamese troops moving behind a mortar barrage attacked a combined action platoon of U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese militiamen in night bivouac 75 miles southeast of Da Nang. The attackers were beaten back, U.S. headquarters said. Three Marines were wounded, and South Vietnamese casualties were light. Enemy losses were not known.

The U.S. Command disclosed that it had scaled down B52 bombing missions across South Vietnam during the past six weeks, apparently in response to the low level of enemy activity.

Some members of the U.S. Command, meanwhile today contested the report by Secretary of State William P. Rogers yesterday that "infiltration is way down. Replacement of enemy losses is way down. Their net reduction of troop strength the last few months has been 25,000 to 30,000 men.

A military source said that enemy combat strength is now estimated at 230,000 men, about the same figure as this time last year. One officer explained that infiltration from North Vietnam went up at certain periods, during the Tet offensive in 1968 for example, then tapered off again.

Tremors Rock Border Town

IOANNINA, Greece (AP) — Earth tremors rocked this picturesque town near the Greek-Albanian border at 3 a.m. today, injuring 18 persons and damaging scores of homes and farm dwellings.

Police said falling ceilings caused most of the injuries.

Novato, Bolinas Funds Gaining

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — Federal grants to study flood control on Novato Creek and navigation into Bolinas Lagoon have been passed by the House of Representatives as part of the public works appropriation bill, Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-First District reported.

The bill, which went to the Senate for its approval, included $55,000 for the creek study and $10,000 for the lagoon study, Clausen said.

The creek study is to determine what flood control measures are needed, including levees, pumping facilities and channel improvements, he said.

Wilson Puts Young Men In Key Jobs

LONDON (AP) — Striving for a new and vigorous look in advance of the general election, Prime Minister Harold Wilson dipped into his Labor Party's rank and file for younger men and made a number of changes among junior ministers yesterday. He reorganized the upper brackets of the government a week ago.

Two ministers of state, eight Parliamentary secretaries and three Parliamentary whips were dropped, and 13 new men were brought into the govern ment. Altogether there were 31 new appointees who averaged 38 years age. The average age of those leaving was 60.

Edward Rowlands, 29, was appointed Parliamentary undersecretary at the Welsh office and is the youngest member of the government. Another backbencher, Evan Luard, replaced William Whitlock as Parliamentary secretary at the Foreign Office. Whitlock was generally considered to have mishandled the Anguilla uprising earlier this year.

The changes reduced the size of the government from 105 ministers to 97.

War Lull Is Seen Until Hanoi, Cong Launch Annual Offensive

SAIGON (AP) — The lull in the Vietnam War, now in its sixth week, is expected to continue, a U.S. estimate said today, but only until the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese are ready to launch their winter-spring campaign.

An official assessment for the Third Military Corps Zone, which includes Saigon, reported: "Except for scattered attacks by fire (rockets and mortars) and light ground probes, the enemy is expected to prolong his period of reorganization and refitting while awaiting political developments and preparing for his next campaign."

The estimate gave no timetable for the start of the next campaign, but some U.S. officers have said the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese plan a winter-spring campaign beginning in November.

"Intelligence obtained from prisoners and documents has consistently indicated that the objective of the (enemy's) fall campaign was to prepare for the winter-spring offensive," the assessment continued." The enemy's actions to date seem to bear out these intentions.

Other sources said the enemy troops are being extensively resupplied with weapons and ammunition. Paratroopers from the U.S. 82nd Airborne Division uncovered one stockpile last night 25 miles northwest of Saigon. Underground tunnels yielded 90 Chinese rifles, 21 light machine guns and more than 200 mortar shells.

The U.S. Command said American forces killed 48 North Vietnamese troops in four clashes near the Cambodian border north of Saigon. Three Americans were wounded.

Other North Vietnamese troops moving behind a mortar barrage attacked a combined action platoon of U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese militiamen in night bivouac 75 miles southeast of Da Nang. The attackers were beaten back, U.S. headquarters said. Three Marines were wounded, and South Vietnamese casualties were light. Enemy losses were not known.

The U.S. Command disclosed that it had scaled down B52 bombing missions across South Vietnam during the past six weeks, apparently in response to the low level of enemy activity.

Some members of the U.S. Command, meanwhile today contested the report by Secretary of State William P. Rogers yesterday that "infiltration is way down. Replacement of enemy losses is way down. Their net reduction of troop strength the last few months has been 25,000 to 30,000 men.

A military source said that enemy combat strength is now estimated at 230,000 men, about the same figure as this time last year. One officer explained that infiltration from North Vietnam went up at certain periods, during the Tet offensive in 1968 for example, then tapered off again.

Tremors Rock Border Town

IOANNINA, Greece (AP) — Earth tremors rocked this picturesque town near the Greek-Albanian border at 3 a.m. today, injuring 18 persons and damaging scores of homes and farm dwellings.

Police said falling ceilings caused most of the injuries.

Novato, Bolinas Funds Gaining

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — Federal grants to study flood control on Novato Creek and navigation into Bolinas Lagoon have been passed by the House of Representatives as part of the public works appropriation bill, Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-First District reported.

The bill, which went to the Senate for its approval, included $55,000 for the creek study and $10,000 for the lagoon study, Clausen said.

The creek study is to determine what flood control measures are needed, including levees, pumping facilities and channel improvements, he said.

Stealthy Thief Loots Visiting TV Crewmen

Seven members of a film crew, in Marin County to shoot a TV pilot about a crime-fighting district attorney, got a taste of real life crime Saturday morning when their motel rooms were robbed of cash and merchandise valued at more than $4,400.

The men, all employees of 20th Century Fox, told police their rooms at the San Rafael Holiday Inn were entered during the night as they slept by a stealthy thief who did not even disturb their slumber.

San Rafael police found no signs of forced entry on the rooms' doors, although the men all indicated they had locked them before retiring.

Robert Watson, a camerman from Los Angeles, told police he was robbed of two cameras, four lenses and a man's gold watch for a total value of $3,075.

Another cameraman, Thomas E. Heyes of Thousand Oaks, lost a gold watch, gold cufflinks, four light meters and a leather pipe case and 10 pipes. He estimated the value of his property at $950.

Taken from Harry M. Templeton, a Los Angeles director, Was $103, stolen from a Mexican money clip on his dresser. Edward F. Del Boccio, Trazana, lost $130 in cash and Furward H. Lewis, Los Angeles, reported $60 stolen. Max Paulsen of Hawthorne, told police he was robbed of $40 in cash. A wallet containing $60 in cash and two credit cards was taken from Boris R. Madden of Hollywood.

According to the victims, the thefts occurred between 1 and 8:30 a.m. Saturday. The men told police they had heard and seen nothing, but awakened to find their property missing.

SPACE

Dr. Anatoli Blagonravov, a prominent Soviet scientist, said earlier this year: "The launching of heavy satellites assembled on earth would post an extremely difficult problem involving deployment of giant-sized booster rockets. Therefore, it is clear that the way to tackle this problem is to assemble such satellites in orbit part by part.

"The day is not far off when a permanent laboratory will be orbiting the earth, with researchers going up there to work under normal conditions with all the comforts."

The success of the triple Soyuz flight would enable the Soviet Union to claim that it had caught up with and perhaps overtaken the United States in the manned space race.

Once a space platform is functioning more flights to outer space might follow in impressive numbers, since the weak booster rocket problem would be solved.

Until the launching of Soyuz 6 Saturday, the Soviet Union had orbited only 12 manned spaceships for a total flight time of 866 hours and 10 minutes. Sixteen cosmonauts had gone aloft, only one of whom—the ill-fated Komarov—made a second trip.

The United States had launched 21 manned flights and had run up more than 4,500 hours in space.

In a message to leaders of the Soviet Communist Party and government, the seven cosmonauts said, Our spirits are high and we feel fine."

"Our friendly space group is confident that the planned program of space exploration will be carried out in full."

A message of congratulations from Soviet Communist Party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and President Nikolai V. Podgorny hailed the mission so far as "this outstanding achievement in the field of space navigation."

A videotape of the Soyuz 8 takeoff was shown on Soviet television. As the spacecraft lifted from its platform, the television commentator said with excitement: "There they go, higher and higher and higher. The historic flight has begun. Soyuz 8 is on its way . . . Goodby, comrades, till we meet again on earth."

Allen Resigns Water Position

Charles H. Allen, Stinson Beach County Water District director, has resigned because he is moving from the district, Secretary Harriet M. Greene reported today.

Mrs. Greene said directors, meeting Saturday, agreed to name someone to replace Allen at the board's 10 a.m. Nov. 8 meeting. In the meantime, Mrs. Greene said, applications are being accepted for the term which will run until January 1971.

The board also agreed to change its meeting time to the second Saturday of each month at 10 a.m. at the Stinson Beach Community Center.

A resolution urging acquisition of remaining lands for the Point Reyes National Seashore also was approved, Mrs. Greene said.

year have been sparked by black girls who attended Sausalito's Martin Luther King School last year where they claimed a "pattern of intimidation" had been developed.

School administrators and students generally agreed at the meetings that only a very small number of the school's 1,800 students were involved in last week's incidents and most of them were girls.

Autos Looted $400 In Items

Thieves escaped with more than $400 worth of goods in two separate auto burglaries in San Rafael this weekend.

Willie Kelley of San Francisco reported a woman's black leather coat, valued at $165, and two stereo tapes were taken from his auto sometime Sunday night while the car was parked at the Bermuda Palms Motel.

A $100 stereo tape deck, $140 worth of stereo tapes and a purse containing $20 was reported stolen sometime Friday night by Wallace C. Morore of Santa Rosa. He told police the items were taken from his auto while it was parked in a lot at 777 Francisco Boulevard.

Forgery Suspect Is Booked

A 42-year-old Mill Valley man was booked into Marin County Jail Friday night on suspicion of forgeries said to total thousands of dollars.

Donald E. Mehrtens, of 2 Shelly Drive, was arrested at his home after employees of Lachman Bros. Furniture, San Rafael, identified him as the man who had cashed a bogus check at that store on Oct. 2.

Police said Mehrtens, using the name Donald Edward Burton, cashed checks drawn on fictitious accounts at two San Francisco.

The arrest culminated a three-month investigation by the San Rafael, Mill Valley, Tiburon and Sausalito police departments and the Marin County Sheriff's Department. The investigation was headed by Lt. Earl Cummesky of the sheriff's department.

According to police, the first complaint against a D. E. Burton came in July as a result of a bogus check written to Barney's Shoes, San Rafael. Last week, Lachman Bros. reported a man with the same name had purchased a $461 bedroom set and paid with a worthless check.

Cummensky, a handwriting expert, declared the writing on similar to that on a worthless check to United Airlines, written earlier this year.

The furniture store employees identified Mehrtens from a photograph.

Police traced Mehrtens and discovered he had been living is Sausalito until a month ago and had moved to Mill Valley.

Portion Of 101 Work Is Near Completion Date

Work will then begin on the southbound lanes and is expected to take several days, a division spokesman reported.

Hospital Use Before Planners

Echoes of a two-year-old civic fight may be heard when the Larkspur Planning Commission meets at 8 p.m. tomorrow in city hall.

The Tamalpais, a multi-story retirement residence, will ask for an amended use permit to allow use of its convalescent hospital facilities by nonresidents as well as residents.

The city council approved plans for the Tamalpais in 1967 after wrangling over zoning and height limits.

The commission also will consider architectural plans submitted by the Belardo Company for 12 apartments at 441 Via Casitas.

The second car, registered to Angeline Barrett Ulam of Ventura, was found abandoned 573 feet away, Ross police reported.

Fifteen feet of fencing at the Lerwell home was also damaged in the 11:50 p.m. accident.

FAIRFAX

recommended setting up regular meetings year-round to discuss community problems, then went a step further and set up the machinery for the meetings.

More than 40 people signed up to attend such meetings. Gary and Carol Graham of 105 Forest Avenue agreed to hold smaller meetings at their home, with large meetings to be held monthly at the Fairfax Woman's Club.

The third panel, on downtown business and growth, produced a surprise of its own. The panel recommended the Lions Club, as the city's only organized group, explore federal financing available for revitalizing downtown, and make a community audit as required for Small Business Administration aid.

The panel recommended the Lions try to form a Chamber of Commerce to take over revitalizing downtown, and recommended the city move as soon as possible to lower the landscape the central parkade as proposed in the city general plan.

In the human needs workshop, panelist Albert Garvey pointed at Sausalito as a "honky tonk Coney Island" example Fairfax should avoid. Sausalito was ruined, Garvey said, by the belief that a "good solid substantial tax base" is the highest good for the city.

The human needs panel's other recommendations were for an immediate cleanup of litter and debris in town, particularly in parks and playgrounds, and that teen-agers be recognized and treated as human beings.

The congress also approved the civic affairs panel's recommendation for better communication by giving more publicity to city council meetings and to next year's congress.

Keynote speaker Peter H. Behr, former supervisor, advised the audience to seek "communication rather than confrontation," saying that consensus "doesn't drop like ripe fruit from a tree."

Supervisor Peter Arrigoni Jr. was moderator for the final general assembly at which the panel recommendations were approved. In a three-screen slide presentation, Lewis Stewart of Pacific Gas and Electric Company showed the town's strong points and eyesores, from summer hill scenery to mounds of litter and lounging, scrounging dogs.

One slide showed Lord Fairfax, for whom the city was named, sporting a flowing mustache, Van Dyke and hair over his ears and neck. He might feel right at home in Fairfax today, Stewart suggested.

Larkspur Slates Lawsuit Discussion

The Larkspur city attorney will report the status of a lawsuit against the city by the One World Family of the Messiah when the Larkspur City Council meets at 8 p.m. Wednesday at city hall. The family is challenging a city ordinance which would oust the 16-member group from its house in a single-family district. No action is scheduled.

The council also will discuss a proposal by Mayor Neil R. Brixon to restrict parking at Dolliver Park.

Petaluman Treated For Crash Injuries

A Petaluma man, Patrick J. Matthews, was treated for a cut lip Saturday at Marin General Hospital after his car hit a tree on Lincoln Avenue in San Rafael.

Stealthy Thief Loots Visiting TV Crewmen

Seven members of a film crew, in Marin County to shoot a TV pilot about a crime-fighting district attorney, got a taste of real life crime Saturday morning when their motel rooms were robbed of cash and merchandise valued at more than $4,400.

The men, all employees of 20th Century Fox, told police their rooms at the San Rafael Holiday Inn were entered during the night as they slept by a stealthy thief who did not even disturb their slumber.

San Rafael police found no signs of forced entry on the rooms' doors, although the men all indicated they had locked them before retiring.

Robert Watson, a camerman from Los Angeles, told police he was robbed of two cameras, four lenses and a man's gold watch for a total value of $3,075.

Another cameraman, Thomas E. Heyes of Thousand Oaks, lost a gold watch, gold cufflinks, four light meters and a leather pipe case and 10 pipes. He estimated the value of his property at $950.

Taken from Harry M. Templeton, a Los Angeles director, Was $103, stolen from a Mexican money clip on his dresser. Edward F. Del Boccio, Trazana, lost $130 in cash and Furward H. Lewis, Los Angeles, reported $60 stolen. Max Paulsen of Hawthorne, told police he was robbed of $40 in cash. A wallet containing $60 in cash and two credit cards was taken from Boris R. Madden of Hollywood.

According to the victims, the thefts occurred between 1 and 8:30 a.m. Saturday. The men told police they had heard and seen nothing, but awakened to find their property missing.

SPACE

Dr. Anatoli Blagonravov, a prominent Soviet scientist, said earlier this year: "The launching of heavy satellites assembled on earth would post an extremely difficult problem involving deployment of giant-sized booster rockets. Therefore, it is clear that the way to tackle this problem is to assemble such satellites in orbit part by part.

"The day is not far off when a permanent laboratory will be orbiting the earth, with researchers going up there to work under normal conditions with all the comforts."

The success of the triple Soyuz flight would enable the Soviet Union to claim that it had caught up with and perhaps overtaken the United States in the manned space race.

Once a space platform is functioning more flights to outer space might follow in impressive numbers, since the weak booster rocket problem would be solved.

Until the launching of Soyuz 6 Saturday, the Soviet Union had orbited only 12 manned spaceships for a total flight time of 866 hours and 10 minutes. Sixteen cosmonauts had gone aloft, only one of whom—the ill-fated Komarov—made a second trip.

The United States had launched 21 manned flights and had run up more than 4,500 hours in space.

In a message to leaders of the Soviet Communist Party and government, the seven cosmonauts said, Our spirits are high and we feel fine."

"Our friendly space group is confident that the planned program of space exploration will be carried out in full."

A message of congratulations from Soviet Communist Party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and President Nikolai V. Podgorny hailed the mission so far as "this outstanding achievement in the field of space navigation."

A videotape of the Soyuz 8 takeoff was shown on Soviet television. As the spacecraft lifted from its platform, the television commentator said with excitement: "There they go, higher and higher and higher. The historic flight has begun. Soyuz 8 is on its way . . . Goodby, comrades, till we meet again on earth."

Charles H. Allen, Stinson Beach County Water District director, has resigned because he is moving from the district, Secretary Harriet M. Greene reported today.

Mrs. Greene said directors, meeting Saturday, agreed to name someone to replace Allen at the board's 10 a.m. Nov. 8 meeting. In the meantime, Mrs. Greene said, applications are being accepted for the term which will run until January 1971.

The board also agreed to change its meeting time to the second Saturday of each month at 10 a.m. at the Stinson Beach Community Center.

year have been sparked by black girls who attended Sausalito's Martin Luther King School last year where they claimed a "pattern of intimidation" had been developed.

School administrators and students generally agreed at the meetings that only a very small number of the school's 1,800 students were involved in last week's incidents and most of them were girls.

Autos Looted $400 In Items

Thieves escaped with more than $400 worth of goods in two separate auto burglaries in San Rafael this weekend.

Willie Kelley of San Francisco reported a woman's black leather coat, valued at $165, and two stereo tapes were taken from his auto sometime Sunday night while the car was parked at the Bermuda Palms Motel.

A $100 stereo tape deck, $140 worth of stereo tapes and a purse containing $20 was reported stolen sometime Friday night by Wallace C. Morore of Santa Rosa. He told police the items were taken from his auto while it was parked in a lot at 777 Francisco Boulevard.

Forgery Suspect Is Booked

A 42-year-old Mill Valley man was booked into Marin County Jail Friday night on suspicion of forgeries said to total thousands of dollars.

Donald E. Mehrtens, of 2 Shelly Drive, was arrested at his home after employees of Lachman Bros. Furniture, San Rafael, identified him as the man who had cashed a bogus check at that store on Oct. 2.

Police said Mehrtens, using the name Donald Edward Burton, cashed checks drawn on fictitious accounts at two San Francisco.

The arrest culminated a three-month investigation by the San Rafael, Mill Valley, Tiburon and Sausalito police departments and the Marin County Sheriff's Department. The investigation was headed by Lt. Earl Cummesky of the sheriff's department.

According to police, the first complaint against a D. E. Burton came in July as a result of a bogus check written to Barney's Shoes, San Rafael. Last week, Lachman Bros. reported a man with the same name had purchased a $461 bedroom set and paid with a worthless check.

Cummensky, a handwriting expert, declared the writing on similar to that on a worthless check to United Airlines, written earlier this year.

The furniture store employees identified Mehrtens from a photograph.

Police traced Mehrtens and discovered he had been living is Sausalito until a month ago and had moved to Mill Valley.

He is free on $3,100 bail and is scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court tomorrow for arraignment.

FAIRFAX

recommended setting up regular meetings year-round to discuss community problems, then went a step further and set up the machinery for the meetings.

More than 40 people signed up to attend such meetings. Gary and Carol Graham of 105 Forest Avenue agreed to hold smaller meetings at their home, with large meetings to be held monthly at the Fairfax Woman's Club.

The third panel, on downtown business and growth, produced a surprise of its own. The panel recommended the Lions Club, as the city's only organized group, explore federal financing available for revitalizing downtown, and make a community audit as required for Small Business Administration aid.

The panel recommended the Lions try to form a Chamber of Commerce to take over revitalizing downtown, and recommended the city move as soon as possible to lower the landscape the central parkade as proposed in the city general plan.

In the human needs workshop, panelist Albert Garvey pointed at Sausalito as a "honky tonk Coney Island" example Fairfax should avoid. Sausalito was ruined, Garvey said, by the belief that a "good solid substantial tax base" is the highest good for the city.

The human needs panel's other recommendations were for an immediate cleanup of litter and debris in town, particularly in parks and playgrounds, and that teen-agers be recognized and treated as human beings.

The congress also approved the civic affairs panel's recommendation for better communication by giving more publicity to city council meetings and to next year's congress.

Keynote speaker Peter H. Behr, former supervisor, advised the audience to seek "communication rather than confrontation," saying that consensus "doesn't drop like ripe fruit from a tree."

Supervisor Peter Arrigoni Jr. was moderator for the final general assembly at which the panel recommendations were approved. In a three-screen slide presentation, Lewis Stewart of Pacific Gas and Electric Company showed the town's strong points and eyesores, from summer hill scenery to mounds of litter and lounging, scrounging dogs.

One slide showed Lord Fairfax, for whom the city was named, sporting a flowing mustache, Van Dyke and hair over his ears and neck. He might feel right at home in Fairfax today, Stewart suggested.

Larkspur Slates Lawsuit Discussion

The Larkspur city attorney will report the status of a lawsuit against the city by the One World Family of the Messiah when the Larkspur City Council meets at 8 p.m. Wednesday at city hall. The family is challenging a city ordinance which would oust the 16-member group from its house in a single-family district. No action is scheduled.

The council also will discuss a proposal by Mayor Neil R. Brixon to restrict parking at Dolliver Park.

Petaluman Treated For Crash Injuries

A Petaluma man, Patrick J. Matthews, was treated for a cut lip Saturday at Marin General Hospital after his car hit a tree on Lincoln Avenue in San Rafael.

Matthews, 22, of 24 Bachelor Terrace, told San Rafael police he apparently fell asleep at 5:30 a.m. while driving. His auto was heavily damaged.

guns were given him for his personal use.

"Are you absolutely certain the superintendent said . . . 'give this to him personally,?" asked Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill. "Now your recollection of the one word 'personally' is very important. Is it possible you could have been mistaken?"

"I don't think so," Turner replied.

Conlisk was asked about Turner's statement.

"General Turner and I did not have any such conversation. His quoting me as saying that is the way we clear our records—that is not true," said Conlisk.

Both men were testifying under oath.

Pressed on his testimony, Turner raised his voice, hit the table and insisted : "That is my testimony.

"And I say it before this committee. And may God be my judge. That is the truth!"

Turner's rebuttal did not immediately get into Conlisk's report of two phone calls asking destruction of the receipts.

Turner, who was appointed chief U.S. Marshal before he was forced to resign last month in the face of the impending Senate hearings, went to Chicago last year to represent the Army chief of staff during rioting.

Also figuring in the investigation are weapons Turner said he got from the Kansas City police department and military authorities at Fort Bliss, Tex.

Turner has already testified he disassembled some of the weapons for parts, destroyed others, sold "the cream of the crop" to a North Carolina gun dealer, pocketed the money and did not mention it in his 1968 income tax return.

The thrust of the Senate probe has been shifting back and forth between Turner's weapons dealings and a broader investigation of graft in the operation of noncommissioned officers clubs in the United States, Germany and Vietnam.

Thursday June Collins, an attractive booking agent who packages shows for the Armys' club system in Vietnam, told the subcommittee that sergeants who managed the clubs demanded kickbacks from entertainers who were billed in their facilities.

Other witnesses have told of slot machine "skimming" practices in which club managers pocket some of the proceeds from the gambling devices.

Turner's name has cropped up in this phase of the probe for allegedly covering up charges against former Sgt. Maj. of the Army William O. Wooldridge, who had been linked with "skimming" and other criminal activities.

Talk Is Due On Sign Ordinance

A proposed sign ordinance will be discussed by the Tiburon City Council at a public hearing at 8 p.m. tomorrow in city hall.

Judge Delays Action On Father Groppi

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—Judge F. Ryan Duffy Jr., today ordered the Rev. James E. Groppi held without bond for one week pending a hearing to determine whether the priest violated the terms of his probation.

The Milwaukee County judge said his court calendar was too crowded to permit him to conduct the heaing today. He scheduled it for Oct. 20 at 9 a.m.

Duffy noted that Father Groppi had sought sanctuary in a church at Madison after the court had issued a bench warrant for his arrest as a possible probation violator. He said the court would order the priest held without bail to assure his presence at the probation hearing.

Duffy told Father Groppi's attorney, William Coffey, "Even last week, even after you assured me that he (Groppi) would be produced voluntarily, he by his own admission sought sanctuary in a church."

That indicated, Duffy said, that the priest could not be relied upon to appear in court in this instance, either. Coffey had asked that Groppi be released without bail.

Liberal Bishops Hit Pope's Synod Agenda

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Progressive cardinals shook the first working session of the Roman Catholic synod of bishops today with a challenge to Pope Paul VI and the Roman Curia, the church's administrative body.

In the Pope's presence, the liberals attacked the agenda of the meeting as partially "distorted" and asked that the synod's decisions be made binding. The Pope, who is president of the synod, opened the meeting Saturday with an affirmation of his absolute primacy in the church but promised a wider role in the church government for bishops.

Julius Cardinal Dopfner of Munich, who led the attack on the agenda set up under the direction of the Pope, wanted the meeting to go beyond a discussion of authority in the Church hierarchy and take in priestly celibacy and other pressing Church matters.

Vatican briefing officers said Cardinal Doepfner's challenge followed the inaugural address by the Vatican Curia's top authority on doctrine, Franjo Cardinal Seper of Yugoslavia. Cardinal Seper's address was "almost exclusively a reflection of what Pope Paul VI said on Saturday," informed sources reported.

The Pope did not address the 146 prelates at the meeting today but smiled occasionally and took notes.

The liberal forces arguing for more of a share by bishops in church decisions look to Belgium's Leo Joseph Cardinal Suenens for leadership.

Pope Paul, in any case, however, has the final word. Just as he rejected the advice of his own study commission on birth control and banned contraception for all Catholics, so he may reject the recommendations of this synod. It is a purely advisory body.

Meanwhile, there was a scuffle in St. Peter's Square last night below Pope Paul's window. The argument arose during a "prayer vigil" called by dissident Italian laymen to urge the synod to discuss "relevant" church problems such as assistance for the poor.

The one and one-half hour dispute was without precedent in the square that symbolizes the center of world Catholicism. The Pope's shutters on the fourth floor remained closed.

State College Views On Moratorium Split

By ALAN KORNFELD

SAN FRANCISCO — Despite warnings by campus administrators, antiwar teachers and students at San Francisco State College have announced plans to conduct "no business as usual" on campus Wednesday.

Requests that the school be closed in observance of the nationwide moratoirum against the Vietnam war have been denied by President S. I. Hayakawa of Mill Valley.

"Our faculty and staff have obligations to the students to provide instruction," Hayakawa explained. He added that students "not receiving the instruction to which they feel they are entitled should, of course, bring this fact to the attention of their school deans."

Nevertheless, many teachers have announced they will support the moratorium either by dismissing classes for the day or by devoting class time to discussion of the war.

Erwin Kelly, economics professor and American Federation of Teachers Local president, and Academic Senate Chairman Frederick Terrien — said they were "disappointed" at Hayakawa's denial.

A mass rally was scheduled for today culminating in a march to the administration building with a petition to Hayakawa to close the school.

"I will support this with all my resources," moderate student body president Harry Lehman of Novato, announced.

Tomorrow, 3,000 battlefield crosses will be planted on the campus lawn to dramatize the California war dead total. An honor guard will stand by two flag-draped caskets.

Rev. Eugene Boyle will conduct services at 5:30 that evening at nearby Temple Judea.

The organizing Student Mobilization Committee plans no campus action Wednesday so as to encourage participation in downtown demonstrations that day.

Students with memorial black armbands began distributing leaflets on the campus last week to publicize the moratorium. Antiwar films are being shown in the new dormitory, Joe Verducci Hall.

Support from extreme radicals on campus, however, has been mixed. Leaders of the small Progressive Labor faction announced they would not support the "liberal gesture."

"Imperialism cannot be talked, marched or rallied out of Vietnam. It must be driven out of Vietnam and this requires more, much more, killing — and a much longer war," Progressive Labor spokesman Gordon De Marco said.

Pope Planning Capital Envoys

DOYLESTOWN, Pa. (AP) — John A. Volpe, secretary of transportation, says Pope Paul VI plans to send emissaries to Washington to keep in touch with the Nixon administration.

Volpe, here to receive a Catholic Man of Action Award yesterday from the Delaware Valley Knights of Columbus, said he discussed communications between Washington and the Vatican during a recent visit to Rome.

The secretary said he told he Pope that President Richard M. Nixon planned frequent visits to the Vatican by Cabinet officials.

Judge Delays Action On Father Groppi

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—Judge F. Ryan Duffy Jr., today ordered the Rev. James E. Groppi held without bond for one week pending a hearing to determine whether the priest violated the terms of his probation.

The Milwaukee County judge said his court calendar was too crowded to permit him to conduct the heaing today. He scheduled it for Oct. 20 at 9 a.m.

Duffy noted that Father Groppi had sought sanctuary in a church at Madison after the court had issued a bench warrant for his arrest as a possible probation violator. He said the court would order the priest held without bail to assure his presence at the probation hearing.

Duffy told Father Groppi's attorney, William Coffey, "Even last week, even after you assured me that he (Groppi) would be produced voluntarily, he by his own admission sought sanctuary in a church."

That indicated, Duffy said, that the priest could not be relied upon to appear in court in this instance, either. Coffey had asked that Groppi be released without bail.

Liberal Bishops Hit Pope's Synod Agenda

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Progressive cardinals shook the first working session of the Roman Catholic synod of bishops today with a challenge to Pope Paul VI and the Roman Curia, the church's administrative body.

In the Pope's presence, the liberals attacked the agenda of the meeting as partially "distorted" and asked that the synod's decisions be made binding. The Pope, who is president of the synod, opened the meeting Saturday with an affirmation of his absolute primacy in the church but promised a wider role in the church government for bishops.

Julius Cardinal Dopfner of Munich, who led the attack on the agenda set up under the direction of the Pope, wanted the meeting to go beyond a discussion of authority in the Church hierarchy and take in priestly celibacy and other pressing Church matters.

Vatican briefing officers said Cardinal Doepfner's challenge followed the inaugural address by the Vatican Curia's top authority on doctrine, Franjo Cardinal Seper of Yugoslavia. Cardinal Seper's address was "almost exclusively a reflection of what Pope Paul VI said on Saturday," informed sources reported.

The Pope did not address the 146 prelates at the meeting today but smiled occasionally and took notes.

New Careers Coordinator Due Hiring

The Marin County Board of Supervisors will meet behind closed doors tomorrow at 9 a.m. to hire a coordinator for the county's New Careers Program.

The coordinator, who will draw between $892 and $1,084 per month, will help bring inexperienced persons into county jobs as vacancies occur. The aim is to give New Careerists job experience and an opportunity for professional study.

At 10:30 a.m. the supervisors will reconvene in open session for their regular agenda to discuss a proposal by San Rafael that the present Courthouse site be used for temporary metered parking spaces until the county can sell the square.

Doctor's Ambulance Service, which has been providing emergency ambulance service to the county for the past year, will seek a raise in the county's fees for unpaid calls.

The county administrator's office has negotiated with the ambulance company and suggested that the rate be raised from $14.95 to $18, and the guarantee for mentally ill and medically indigent patients from $24.95 plus 99 cents per mile to $30 plus $1.20 per mile. Doctor's Ambulance also wants a $1,000 per month subsidy to cover losses incurred in operating the Novato ambulance station.

Retired county employees will ask the board for a cost of living increase in retirement benefits.

In the afternoon, Parks and Recreation Director Pierre W. Joske will recommend purchase of 55 acres at Tom's Point for a park for $70,000. The property, owned by Marie Voight, is on the northeast side of Tomales Bay.

County Planning Director Paul C. Zucker will present an application for $279,743 in housing and urban development funds to redevelop Kentfield Corners.

Final item will be a hearing on the specific development plan for Richardson Bay from the Sausalito City limits to Richardson Bay Bridge.

Fish Protection Society Looking For Live Fossil

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI)—The Society for the Protection of Old Fishes (SPOOF) isn't kidding when it says it is looking for a live coelacanth.

A coelacanth (pronounced seel' a-kanth) is just about as old a species of fish as there is either in or out of the water. This creature is so ancient some ichthyologists refer to it as "a living fossil."

Furthermore, it just may be a first cousin to that vertebrate that crawled up out of the sea millions of years ago and eventually evolved into Homo sapiens and other mammals.

That's why SPOOF is anxious to capture a coelacanth alive. A specimen would be a living laboratory, a fish that hasn't changed for 320 million years.

For a long time, scientists believed the coelacanth had become extinct 70 million years ago. At least that was what the fossil records indicated.

Then 30 years ago an ichthyologist in South Africa by the name of J.L.B. Smith announced that a coelacanth had been pulled in from the ocean in a fisherman's net.

Since then 59 more specimens of the fish have been taken on hook and line, but all died within a short time.

Consequently, SPOOF was organized by Dr. George W. Brown Jr., assistant professor of fisheries at the University of Washington in Seattle. It is incorporated in this state and although it had only about 50 members, the rolls include nearly all the primitive fish experts in the world.

Their aim to take a coelacanth alive and keep it that way.

SPOOF also is interested in other primitive fish such as rays, sharks and the lung fish.

"We believe that living organisms of a primitive nature may reflect what was going on biochemically in the organisms of millions of years ago," explained Brown, who is a biochemist.

Among those attending the second annual meeting of SPOOF in Seattle this summer was the wife of the man who identified that fisherman's catch at a coelacanth 30 years ago.

"I reckon it's just a matter of money," said Mrs. Margaret Mary Smith. We have the expertise."

She is an honorary member of SPOOF.

The coelacanth is an ugly fish. It weighs about 80 to 90 pounds and is so well armored it is almost impossible to spear one.

"They call it gombessa," Mrs. Smith said.

Some fishermen call it "four-legs" because its pectoral and pelvic fins look like legs as the fish is pulled in.

Life Of Top U.S. Diplomat Is Threatened

BRASILIA (AP) — Anonymous callers have threatened the life of the top U.S. diplomat in this Brazilian capital, it was learned today.

He said threats had been received before but that the latest series of calls have been taken more seriously in the light of U.S. Ambassador C. Burke Elbrick's abduction last month by a terrorist gang. Low is the ranking U.S. diplomat in Brasilia. Ambassador Elbrick and the major part of his staff remain in Rio de Janeiro, which although no longer the Brazilian capital, remains the seat of the Brazilian Foreign Ministry and all foreign diplomatic missions.

Fire Dept. Museum Is Dedicated

A San Rafael Fire Department museum, constructed by members of the volunteer force, was dedicated in Gerstle Park Saturday and turned over to city officials.

The museum contains a variety of memorabilia, including old hand carts, uniforms, antique fire alarm boxes, an old bell, leather hats and a replica of a piece of fire-fighting apparatus built by the present volunteer fire department.

The museum, built with materials donated by local marchants, is entitled, "Retired Relics."

"We were losing so much of the old equipment because we had no place to keep it," said Fire Capt. John Diego. "That's how the museum idea orginated."

Paid San Rafael firemen — most of whom also belong to the volunteer department — joined in the effort.

First Vote On Disavowing Of Communist Ban

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The University of California faculty has taken the first step toward revoking its 19-year-old policy against allowing Communists to teach on U.C. campuses.

The Academic Assembly, representative body for faculty members on the nine campuses, voted 43-2 to "disavow" the policy adopted in a 1950 resoultion.

The assembly also voted unanimously for a resolution recommending that no political tests be applied in hiring or retaining faculty members.

Dr. Francis Sooy, assembly chairman and an ear-nose-throat specialist at the U.C. Medical Center in San Francisco, announced the votes after a "long and arduous" six-hour closed door meeting Saturday.

Fairfax Traffic Before Council

Future traffic patterns through Fairfax, particularly the feasibility of using Center Boulevard as a major thoroughfare, will be discussed at a meeting of the Fairfax City Council at 8 p.m. tomorrow.

The recommendations to be studied are from the Peat. Marwick. Livingston traffic study which has several suggestions for linking Center with Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in east Fairfax.

The council will also consider an ordinance regulating the closing hours of all businesses and hear a proposal for annexation of Deer Park.

Nobel Laureate Pauling Hits Nixon's Decision On Vietnam

By CHARLES YOAKUM

America's only double recipient of the Nobel Peace Prize lashed out against this country's foreign policy in general and the Vietnam War in particular Saturday night before an overflow crowd in College of Marin's Olney Hall.

Dr. Linus Pauling was scheduled to speak on "The Scientist's Responsibility," but spent the better part of his hour-long talk hitting the U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

Pauling, now a professor at Stanford University, received the Nobel prize in 1954 for his work in chemistry and again in 1963 for his efforts in behalf of a nuclear test ban treaty.

He likened President Richard M. Nixon to a "big bully" and accused the government of prolonging the war to "keep the world open for economic exploitation."

Pauling's appearance was sponsored by the Marin branch of the International League for Peace and Freedom, and he didn't let it down. He strongly endorsed Wednesday's nationwide "war convocation," which is strongly supported by the league.

"We must force a change in policy through pressure groups," he said. "It is the only way we can make ourselves heard."

"We got President Lyndon B. Johnson out of the White House with a war protest and we can get Nixon out in three more years. But we must stop the war before then," he continued.

Pauling said he was "ashamed of the U.S." for its participation in a war which ". . . is solely to benefit a tottering, unstable government that I'm not at all sure represents the people."

He charged that the United States "scuttled" the 1956 Geneva agreement on Vietnam because we wanted to keep the area open for our own exploitation.

Pauling also had some harsh words for the recent adoption of the controversial antiballistic missile system.

"Congress approved that even after every scientist they called in told them it was a waste of money," he said.

He also saod that the deciding vote for approval was cast by Oklahoma Sen. Henry Bellmon, a Republican, who sold his vote just to get a 33-year-old lawyer in the justice department fired.

He also said the the United States and Russia have reached an "unofficial treaty" and will never go to war.

"We both realize that it would do neither side any good to destroy each other, so they just say 'let's make noises and scare each other once in awhile' "

He said it wouldn't do any good to get rid of nuclear weapons because then the two countries would begin fighting with conventional weapons all over again.

Pauling said that the Nixon administration had been "captured by the rich" who want to see the war continue for their own profit.

Pauling shared the podium with his wife, Eva, who said it was "imperative that women get involved in helping to end the war in Vietnam."

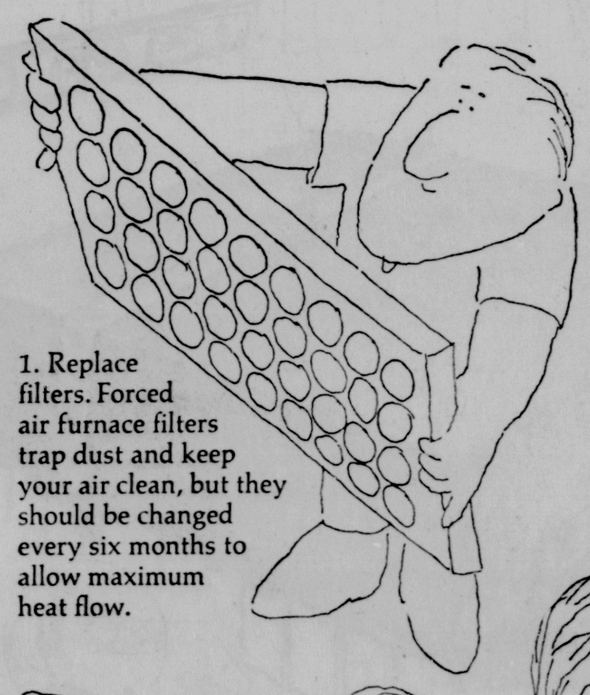
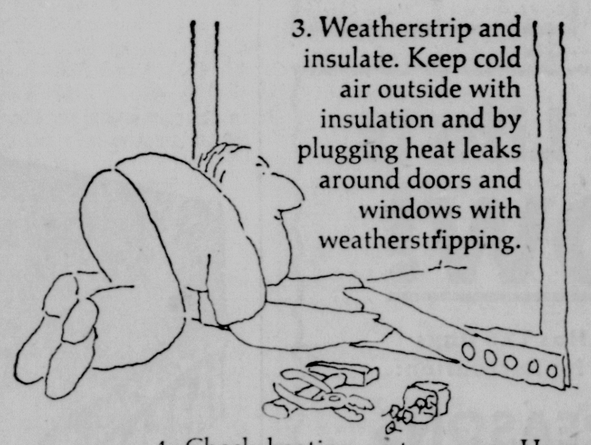
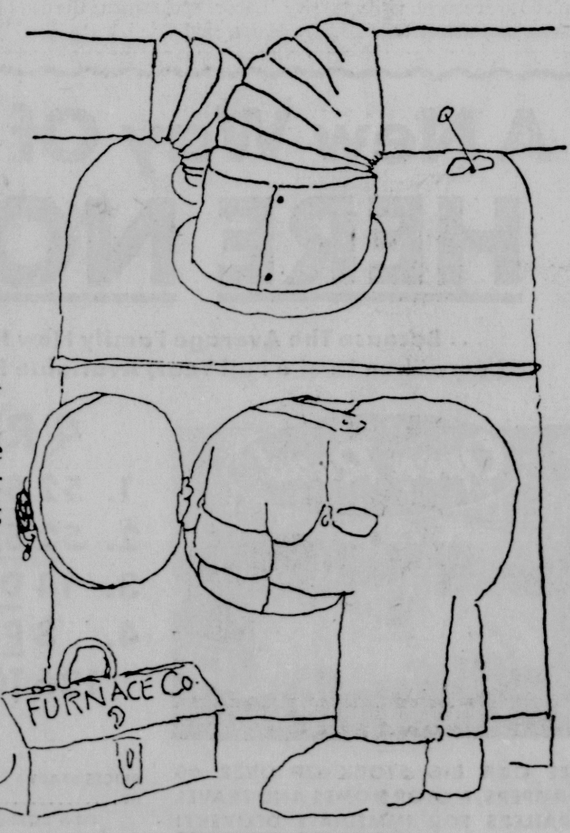
How to beat the rising cost of winter.



1. Replace filters. Forced air furnace filters trap dust and keep your air clean, but they should be changed every six months to allow maximum heat flow.

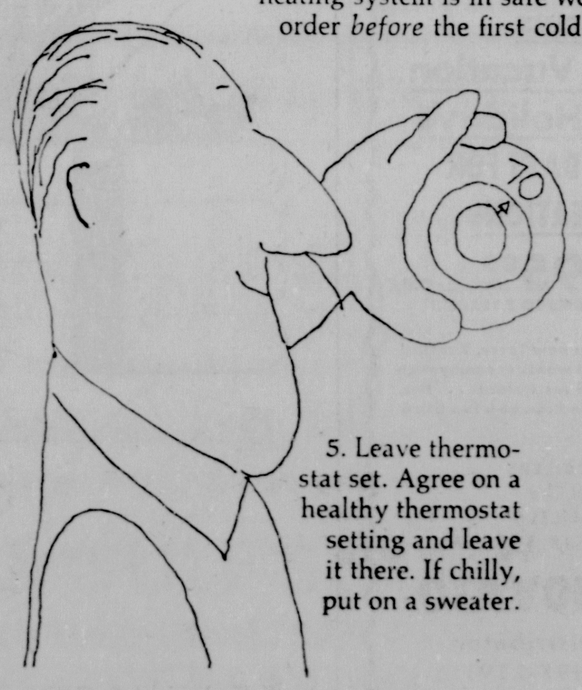


3. Weatherstrip and insulate. Keep cold air outside with insulation and by plugging heat leaks around doors and windows with weatherstripping.



4. Check heating system now. Have your furnace man make sure your heating system is in safe working order before the first cold snap.

2. Close damper when your fireplace is not in use and stop heat escaping up your chimney. Close drapes and stop up to 16% of heat loss.



5. Leave thermostat set. Agree on a healthy thermostat setting and leave it there. If chilly, put on a sweater.

Winter PG&E bills are higher than summer bills because you eat more hot meals, watch more tv, need more heating, more lighting and use more appliances. However, typical PG&E gas and electric rates have gone down 13.9% since 1935, while the cost of living has gone up 183%. Even with the gas rate increase we've had to request, a typical gas and electric customer would get more for his money than he would have 34 years ago.

Then 30 years ago an ichthyologist in South Africa by the name of J.L.B. Smith announced that a coelacanth had been pulled in from the ocean in a fisherman's net.

Since then 59 more specimens of the fish have been taken on hook and line, but all died within a short time.

Consequently, SPOOF was organized by Dr. George W. Brown Jr., assistant professor of fisheries at the University of Washington in Seattle. It is incorporated in this state and although it had only about 50 members, the rolls include nearly all the primitive fish experts in the world.

Their aim to take a coelacanth alive and keep it that way.

SPOOF also is interested in other primitive fish such as rays, sharks and the lung fish.

"We believe that living organisms of a primitive nature may reflect what was going on biochemically in the organisms of millions of years ago," explained Brown, who is a biochemist.

Among those attending the second annual meeting of SPOOF in Seattle this summer was the wife of the man who identified that fisherman's catch at a coelacanth 30 years ago.

"I reckon it's just a matter of money," said Mrs. Margaret Mary Smith. We have the expertise."

She is an honorary member of SPOOF.

The coelacanth is an ugly fish. It weighs about 80 to 90 pounds and is so well armored it is almost impossible to spear one.

"They call it gombessa," Mrs. Smith said.

Some fishermen call it "four-legs" because its pectoral and pelvic fins look like legs as the fish is pulled in.

Life Of Top U.S. Diplomat Is Threatened

"We're taking normal precautions and we're certainly being alert," Low told a newsman.

He said threats had been received before but that the latest series of calls have been taken more seriously in the light of U.S. Ambassador C. Burke Elbrick's abduction last month by a terrorist gang. Low is the ranking U.S. diplomat in Brasilia. Ambassador Elbrick and the major part of his staff remain in Rio de Janeiro, which although no longer the Brazilian capital, remains the seat of the Brazilian Foreign Ministry and all foreign diplomatic missions.

Fire Dept. Museum Is Dedicated

A San Rafael Fire Department museum, constructed by members of the volunteer force, was dedicated in Gerstle Park Saturday and turned over to city officials.

The museum contains a variety of memorabilia, including old hand carts, uniforms, antique fire alarm boxes, an old bell, leather hats and a replica of a piece of fire-fighting apparatus built by the present volunteer fire department.

"We were losing so much of the old equipment because we had no place to keep it," said Fire Capt. John Diego. "That's how the museum idea orginated."

Paid San Rafael firemen — most of whom also belong to the volunteer department — joined in the effort.

First Vote On Disavowing Of Communist Ban

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The University of California faculty has taken the first step toward revoking its 19-year-old policy against allowing Communists to teach on U.C. campuses.

The Academic Assembly, representative body for faculty members on the nine campuses, voted 43-2 to "disavow" the policy adopted in a 1950 resoultion.

The assembly also voted unanimously for a resolution recommending that no political tests be applied in hiring or retaining faculty members.

Dr. Francis Sooy, assembly chairman and an ear-nose-throat specialist at the U.C. Medical Center in San Francisco, announced the votes after a "long and arduous" six-hour closed door meeting Saturday.

Fairfax Traffic Before Council

Future traffic patterns through Fairfax, particularly the feasibility of using Center Boulevard as a major thoroughfare, will be discussed at a meeting of the Fairfax City Council at 8 p.m. tomorrow.

The recommendations to be studied are from the Peat, Marwick, Livingston traffic study which has several suggestions for linking Center with Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in east Fairfax.

The council will also consider an ordinance regulating the closing hours of all businesses and hear a proposal for annexation of Deer Park.

By CHARLES YOAKUM

America's only double recipient of the Nobel Peace Prize lashed out against this country's foreign policy in general and the Vietnam War in particular Saturday night before an overflow crowd in College of Marin's Olney Hall.

Dr. Linus Pauling was scheduled to speak on "The Scientist's Responsibility," but spent the better part of his hour-long talk hitting the U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

Pauling, now a professor at Stanford University, received the Nobel prize in 1954 for his work in chemistry and again in 1963 for his efforts in behalf of a nuclear test ban treaty.

He likened President Richard M. Nixon to a "big bully" and accused the government of prolonging the war to "keep the world open for economic exploitation."

Pauling's appearance was sponsored by the Marin branch of the International League for Peace and Freedom, and he didn't let it down. He strongly endorsed Wednesday's nationwide "war convocation," which is strongly supported by the league.

"We must force a change in policy through pressure groups," he said. "It is the only way we can make ourselves heard."

"We got President Lyndon B. Johnson out of the White House with a war protest and we can get Nixon out in three more years. But we must stop the war before then," he continued.

Pauling said he was "ashamed of the U.S." for its participation in a war which ". . . is solely to benefit a tottering, unstable government that I'm not at all sure represents the people."

He charged that the United States "scuttled" the 1956 Geneva agreement on Vietnam because we wanted to keep the area open for our own exploitation.

Pauling also had some harsh words for the recent adoption of the controversial antiballistic missile system.

"Congress approved that even after every scientist they called in told them it was a waste of money," he said.

He also saod that the deciding vote for approval was cast by Oklahoma Sen. Henry Bellmon, a Republican, who sold his vote just to get a 33-year-old lawyer in the justice department fired.

He also said the the United States and Russia have reached an "unofficial treaty" and will never go to war.

"We both realize that it would do neither side any good to destroy each other, so they just say 'let's make noises and scare each other once in awhile' "

He said it wouldn't do any good to get rid of nuclear weapons because then the two countries would begin fighting with conventional weapons all over again.

Pauling said that the Nixon administration had been "captured by the rich" who want to see the war continue for their own profit.

Pauling shared the podium with his wife, Eva, who said it was "imperative that women get involved in helping to end the war in Vietnam."

How to beat the rising cost of winter.

1. Replace filters. Forced air furnace filters trap dust and keep your air clean, but they should be changed every six months to allow maximum heat flow.

2. Close damper when your fireplace is not in use and stop heat escaping up your chimney. Close drapes and stop up to 16% of heat loss.

3. Weatherstrip and insulate. Keep cold air outside with insulation and by plugging heat leaks around doors and windows with weatherstripping.

4. Check heating system now. Have your furnace man make sure your heating system is in safe working order before the first cold snap.

5. Leave thermostat set. Agree on a healthy thermostat setting and leave it there. If chilly, put on a sweater.

Winter PG&E bills are higher than summer bills because you eat more hot meals, watch more tv, need more heating, more lighting and use more appliances. However, typical PG&E gas and electric rates have gone down 13.9% since 1935, while the cost of living has gone up 183%. Even with the gas rate increase we've had to request, a typical gas and electric customer would get more for his money than he would have 34 years ago.

UNEASY BELFAST—A British officer uses a wrecked car for a barricade during a weekend crisis in Belfast which left three persons dead. Rioting was finally quelled today with use of tear gas and a show of force by British troops.

British Units Check Belfast Rioters

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) —British troops quelled 1,000 rioting Protestants in Belfast early today with tear gas and a show of force. The rioters fought back with stones and sporadic shots.

Newsmen at the scene said all the shooting came from the rioters. One soldier was slightly wounded, adding to a weekend casualty list of at least three dead and scores injured.

The Protestants threw a triple barricade across Shankill Road and for more than four hours faced the strongest force assembled since the British Army began policing Northern Ireland during the Catholic-Protestant warfare in August.

Armored cars spearheaded the force of several hundred troops with automatic and semi-automatic weapons. But the army used only tear gas on the crowd, which was protesting the shakeup over the weekend of the police force and the appointment of a Briton, Sir Arthur Young, as police chief.

On Saturday night a Protestant mob raged down Shankill Road toward a Catholic apartment block. British soldiers opened fire after they were the target of snipers and bomb throwers.

The government said three persons were killed, including one policeman. But some soldiers said seven persons were killed.

Most of the shooting at the army was the work of a single sniper.

"He shoots to kill and he does not miss," said one soldier.

The weekend rioting was the worst since last Aug. 15-16, when eight persons were killed. But this time no Catholics were involved.

In a television broadcast, Prime Minister James Chichester Clark said the Protestant community feared the reorganization of the police force would weaken the defense of Northern Ireland.

"Nothing is further from the truth," he said.

Early this morning, after 48 hours of continual duty, the soldiers on Shankill Road were bedded down in damp, windswept streets with only a sleeping bag between them and the sidewalk or the concrete floors of makeshift billets. Many of them are griping about their routine—nine days of duty followed by three days in the barracks with no leisure time.

Boy, 18, Arrested In Harbor Thefts

An 18-year-old Terra Linda youth was arrested yesterday on suspicion of burglary and possession of stolen property after police were informed that the had taken several articles from a boat in Lowrie's Yacht Harbor early in the morning.

Stanley Robert Wagner of 1080 Las Ovejas Drive was released from Marin County Jail after posting $625 bail. He will appear in Marin Municipal Court Wednesday.

Sheriff's deputies who went to his home yesterday said that Wagner showed them a radio and speakers and stereo equipment in his bedroom which had been reported stolen from a boat owned by Eugene Y. Orloff of San Rafael.

Officers reported that Wagner said he had given a missing television set to a friend in Novato.

Cyclist Sustains Cuts In Accident

A 26-year-old Ignacio man sustained numerous cuts Saturday afternoon when his motorcycle skidded across the pavement and into an embankment on Novato Boulevard near San Marin Drive.

Larry D. Nixon, of 35 Rancho Rafael, was treated at Novato General Hospital after the accident which occurred at 1:15 p.m., according to the California Highway Patrol.

Truck Stop Looted

Batteries, trading stamps and china were stolen yesterday from the Richfield truck stop and service center, 1721 Lakeville Highway, Petaluma. Police said the batteries were valued at $55.

Burglar Case To Higher Court

Two Marin City men have been bound over to Marin Superior Court on charges of burglarizing a Larkspur residence Sept. 30 after a preliminary hearing in municipal court.

Donald Ray Turner, 20, and Morlin Smith, 22, who are being held in jail, are to appear in court for arraignment tomorrow.

They were arrested along with a 17-year-old youth after a high speed chase through three cities, police said.

Officers reported that Turner and Smith jumped out of a car driven by Kenny Ray White, of no known address, and were captured fleeing on foot in Larkspur. White was arrested by Mill Valley police after his car smashed head-on into another vehicle in Mill Valley.

5,000 Join Protest March At Fort Dix

FORT DIX, N.J. (AP)—Some 5,000 demonstrators against the Vietnam War, Army justice and the treatment of racial militants swarmed on this post yesterday in a confrontation with 1,000 military policemen.

The impromptu invasion was finally repulsed with jets of tear gas which drove the racially mixed group, many coughing and wheezing, off a field near the base family housing area.

There were no arrests and, except for the effects of the gas, no reported injuries.

"We have made our point," Herb Dryer, a demonstration leader, shouted through a bullhorn to the retreating crowd.

The demonstration brought together members of such varied organizations as the Catholic Peace Fellowship, the Black Panther Party, the Puerto Rican Young Lords and students from Princeton, Columbia, New York and other universities in the area.

The demonstration was organized at a coffee house in nearby Wrightstown which has served as a meeting place for dissident Ft. Dix personnel.

The protesters marched to Fort Dix under the banner of the "Committee to Save the Fort Dix 38"—reference to a group of servicemen accused of fomenting a riot while imprisoned in the base stockade last June.

While military police barricaded road entrances to the base, the demonstrators, mostly young and including a number of helmeted young women, veered off the highway into the empty field.

Within minutes hundreds of gas-masked MPs arrived to repel the marchers.

The wo groups confronted each other at close quarters with the demonstrators inches away from the troops' bayonets. Many shouted, "We're on your side!" and "The brass lives high and GIs die!"

After repeated appeals to the demonstrators to leave, Col. Bernard Carr, post provost marshal, gave the order to fire the tear gas.

Despite a wind which blew much of the gas back toward the troops, the stinging smoke took effect, and the protesters retreated across the field to the public highway.

IS CHEESE CHEAPER THAN MEAT?

Even when cheese is $1.25 per pound, it is a cheaper source of protein than many meats. This is because cheese contains more protein than meat does. Figure 5½ servings per pound of cheese, and 4 per pound of lean, boneless meat.

Cottage cheese is cheaper still. One pint will provide three adequate servings of protein food, at about 10c per serving. Have you ever served pancakes for supper, spooned over with cottage cheese and sugared strawberries or peaches? Delicious!

TODAY'S ACTIONS

Miranda's Conviction Is Upheld By Tribunal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court let stand today the kidnap-rape conviction of Ernesto A. Miranda, the Arizona truck driver whose case led to the celebrated Miranda decision.

This time the court sustained the Arizona Supreme Court, which ruled last February that Miranda's conviction was legally proper.

Miranda had been retried, convicted again and sentenced to 20 to 30 years in prison following the court's 1966 ruling that police had obtained an invalid confession from him.

With the same ruling, the court required police everywhere to advise suspects under interrogation that they have a right to remain silent and a right to have a lawyer's assistance.

Appealing the second conviction, Miranda's attorneys claimed it also was invalid because the trial judge allowed him to be questioned in court about the confession and had Miranda restate the confession.

The conviction was for the kidnap-rape of an 18-year-old girl in Phoenix in 1963. Miranda has been in prison ever since his arrest in March of that year.

DRAFT CASES

WASHINGTO (AP) — The Supreme Court agreed today to hear a dispute over whether nonreligious objectors to the Vietnam war have a right to be exempt from combat.

Two cases that bear on this question will be heard at a date yet to be set. Both are tests of the conscientious objector provision of the 1967 draft law.

The law grants exemptions only to men who oppose war because of "religious training and belief."

In one case the government is appealing a ruling by Federal Judge Charles E. Wyzanski Jr. of Boston that this distinction amounts to unconstitutional discrimination.

In the other case, a Los Angeles computer engineer, Elliott Ashton Welsh II, is appealing a three-year prison sentence for refusing Army induction.

WELFARE LIMITS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court agreed today to hear arguments on whether states can set limits on a family's welfare assistance.

The court will consider an appeal from Maryland, where a $250-a-month family maximum was ruled illegal last March by a federal court in Baltimore. more.

At the same time the high court took on an appeal that questions a $10 million a month reduction in welfare assistance to families in New York state.

Atorneys for 10 welfare clients say the reduction, begun last summer, conflicts with a congressional command that Aid to Families with Dependent Children payments be increased to reflect an increase in welfare living costs.

The two appeals, granted review as the court got down to business for the new term, expand the already searching inquiry the court will make this year into the rights of the poor.

State officials said these are the limits for a mother, living with her children but without a husband: One child, $148 a month; two, $173; three, $221; four, $263. If the mother must support 15 children, she would get $424 a month, with $6 a month more for each additional child.

For families where the father is home, but injured or unemployed, the limits are one child, $166 a month; two, $191; three, $239; four, $282. With 15, it is $443 a month, with $6 for each child thereafter.

An official of the state Department of Social Welfare said officials were aware of the suit, but declined immediate comment. He said the department might file a brief in the case later.

VOTE STATUS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Whether a state may deny voting rights to persons living in a federal reservation or enclaves in that state is at issue in a Maryland case which the Supreme Court agreed today to review.

In assuming jurisdiction in the case from Montgomery County, Md.—which has wide application—the high court asked the U.S. attorney general to submit his view of the matter.

The case arose in 1968 when Montgomery County removed from its voting rolls names of a group of citizens living on the grounds of the federally owned National Institutes of Health.

This action was taken on a contention that residents of reservations under the exclusive jurisdiction of the federal government are not residents of Maryland and hence are not eligible to vote in state elections.

The citizens involved obtained a preliminary court order allowing them to vote in the 1968 election. At the same time they asked for a three-judge U.S. district court review of the matter.

PHONE TAX

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court refused today to order a $4.92 refund for a California philosophy professor who had claimed his telephone was taxed illegally to support the Vietnam war.

Donald Kalish, the defeated litigant, paid the tax under protest in 1967. He sued to recover, arguing Congress continued the 10 per cent excise tax on telephone service in 1966 to finance an unconstitutional war.

The government took the position there was no evidence Congress had the war in mind when it continued the tax. The U.S. Circuit Court in San Francisco sided with the government and ruled against Kalish last April.

UNION DUES

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court agreed today to decide whether the government may force companies to check off workers' union dues.

The court will hear an appeal by a Virginia steel fabricating plant that contends the National Labor Relations Board is without legislative authority to force checkoffs.

The case, to be heard later in the term, shapes up as a major test of NLRB powers. The NLRB has been almost regularly successful in winning endorsement of its powers from federal courts to this point.

In the Virginia case, the H.K. Porter Co.'s Danville plant was forced to yield to a union demand that it check off union dues.

The company told the court that if the NLRB could order it to agree to such a provision in its contract with the unions "There is nothing to prevent it from ordering agreement with regard to wage rates, fringe benefits and other terms and conditions of collective bargaining agreements."

H. K. Porter was ordered to yield on checkoffs during negotiations with the Steelworkers Union, AFL-CIO, in 1967. The circuit court found the company could be compelled by the NLRB "to purge the stain of bad faith that has already soiled its position" during negotiations with the union.

In fact, the circuit court said, "it is possible that in an appropriate case the board could simply order the company to grant a checkoff."

CIGARETTES

WASHINGTON (AP) — Major tobacco manufacturers and broadcasters failed today in the Supreme Court to defeat a government rule requiring antismoking messages on radio and television.

In a series of appeals the manufacturers and broadcasters contended the Federal Communications Commission had overstepped its legal authority and that the rule conflicts with the Constitution's freedom of speech guaranty.

The court made no comment on these claims as it refused to review a decision by the U.S. Circuit Court for the District of Columbia upholding the rule.

The FCC requires stations which carry cigarette commercials to provide "a significant amount of time for the other viewpoint . . ." This could take the form of public service announcements by the American Cancer Society or the Department of Health, Education and Welfare on the possible ill effects of cigarette smoking on health.

Samuel Will Resign As Oakland Symphony Leader

OAKLAND (UPI)—Conductor Gerhard Samuel submitted his resignation today as music director of the Oakland Symphony Orchestra, effective after the 1970-71 season.

Samuel said he was resigning because he wanted to be free to accept guest conducting assignments in Europe and the United States.

Edgar F. Kaiser, chairman of the Oakland Symphony Orchestra Association, said Samuel had signed a new contract for the next two seasons.

He said the association would begin a search for a successor, with association director Harry Lange as chairman of the "conductor search committee."

"The association accepted the two-season agreement with respect for Maestro Samuel's decision that, after 12 successful seasons as our musical director, he should be free to accept other professional challenges in the furtherance of his own musical career," Kaiser said.

Samuel came to Oakland in 1959 after several years as associate conductor of the Minneapolis symphony.

He built the Oakland Symphony from a community orchestra into a professional symphony hailed by San Francisco area critics for its performances of contemporary works.

He also acts as musical director of the San Francisco Ballet Company, is guest conductor for San Francisco Spring Opera, and founded the Cabrillo Music Festival.

TODAY'S ACTIONS

Miranda's Conviction Is Upheld By Tribunal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court let stand today the kidnap-rape conviction of Ernesto A. Miranda, the Arizona truck driver whose case led to the celebrated Miranda decision.

This time the court sustained the Arizona Supreme Court, which ruled last February that Miranda's conviction was legally proper.

Miranda had been retried, convicted again and sentenced to 20 to 30 years in prison following the court's 1966 ruling that police had obtained an invalid confession from him.

With the same ruling, the court required police everywhere to advise suspects under interrogation that they have a right to remain silent and a right to have a lawyer's assistance.

Appealing the second conviction, Miranda's attorneys claimed it also was invalid because the trial judge allowed him to be questioned in court about the confession and had Miranda restate the confession.

The conviction was for the kidnap-rape of an 18-year-old girl in Phoenix in 1963. Miranda has been in prison ever since his arrest in March of that year.

DRAFT CASES

WASHINGTO (AP) — The Supreme Court agreed today to hear a dispute over whether nonreligious objectors to the Vietnam war have a right to be exempt from combat.

Two cases that bear on this question will be heard at a date yet to be set. Both are tests of the conscientious objector provision of the 1967 draft law.

The law grants exemptions only to men who oppose war because of "religious training and belief."

In one case the government is appealing a ruling by Federal Judge Charles E. Wyzanski Jr. of Boston that this distinction amounts to unconstitutional discrimination.

In the other case, a Los Angeles computer engineer, Elliott Ashton Welsh II, is appealing a three-year prison sentence for refusing Army induction.

WELFARE LIMITS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court agreed today to hear arguments on whether states can set limits on a family's welfare assistance.

The court will consider an appeal from Maryland, where a $250-a-month family maximum was ruled illegal last March by a federal court in Baltimore. more.

At the same time the high court took on an appeal that questions a $10 million a month reduction in welfare assistance to families in New York state.

Atorneys for 10 welfare clients say the reduction, begun last summer, conflicts with a congressional command that Aid to Families with Dependent Children payments be increased to reflect an increase in welfare living costs.

The two appeals, granted review as the court got down to business for the new term, expand the already searching inquiry the court will make this year into the rights of the poor.

State officials said these are the limits for a mother, living with her children but without a husband: One child, $148 a month; two, $173; three, $221; four, $263. If the mother must support 15 children, she would get $424 a month, with $6 a month more for each additional child.

For families where the father is home, but injured or unemployed, the limits are one child, $166 a month; two, $191; three, $239; four, $282. With 15, it is $443 a month, with $6 for each child thereafter.

An official of the state Department of Social Welfare said officials were aware of the suit, but declined immediate comment. He said the department might file a brief in the case later.

VOTE STATUS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Whether a state may deny voting rights to persons living in a federal reservation or enclaves in that state is at issue in a Maryland case which the Supreme Court agreed today to review.

In assuming jurisdiction in the case from Montgomery County, Md.—which has wide application—the high court asked the U.S. attorney general to submit his view of the matter.

The case arose in 1968 when Montgomery County removed from its voting rolls names of a group of citizens living on the grounds of the federally owned National Institutes of Health.

This action was taken on a contention that residents of reservations under the exclusive jurisdiction of the federal government are not residents of Maryland and hence are not eligible to vote in state elections.

The citizens involved obtained a preliminary court order allowing them to vote in the 1968 election. At the same time they asked for a three-judge U.S. district court review of the matter.

PHONE TAX

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court refused today to order a $4.92 refund for a California philosophy professor who had claimed his telephone was taxed illegally to support the Vietnam war.

Donald Kalish, the defeated litigant, paid the tax under protest in 1967. He sued to recover, arguing Congress continued the 10 per cent excise tax on telephone service in 1966 to finance an unconstitutional war.

The government took the position there was no evidence Congress had the war in mind when it continued the tax. The U.S. Circuit Court in San Francisco sided with the government and ruled against Kalish last April.

UNION DUES

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court agreed today to decide whether the government may force companies to check off workers' union dues.

The court will hear an appeal by a Virginia steel fabricating plant that contends the National Labor Relations Board is without legislative authority to force checkoffs.

The case, to be heard later in the term, shapes up as a major test of NLRB powers. The NLRB has been almost regularly successful in winning endorsement of its powers from federal courts to this point.

In the Virginia case, the H.K. Porter Co.'s Danville plant was forced to yield to a union demand that it check off union dues.

The company told the court that if the NLRB could order it to agree to such a provision in its contract with the unions "There is nothing to prevent it from ordering agreement with regard to wage rates, fringe benefits and other terms and conditions of collective bargaining agreements."

H. K. Porter was ordered to yield on checkoffs during negotiations with the Steelworkers Union, AFL-CIO, in 1967. The circuit court found the company could be compelled by the NLRB "to purge the stain of bad faith that has already soiled its position" during negotiations with the union.

In fact, the circuit court said, "it is possible that in an appropriate case the board could simply order the company to grant a checkoff."

CIGARETTES

WASHINGTON (AP) — Major tobacco manufacturers and broadcasters failed today in the Supreme Court to defeat a government rule requiring antismoking messages on radio and television.

In a series of appeals the manufacturers and broadcasters contended the Federal Communications Commission had overstepped its legal authority and that the rule conflicts with the Constitution's freedom of speech guaranty.

The court made no comment on these claims as it refused to review a decision by the U.S. Circuit Court for the District of Columbia upholding the rule.

The FCC requires stations which carry cigarette commercials to provide "a significant amount of time for the other viewpoint . . ." This could take the form of public service announcements by the American Cancer Society or the Department of Health, Education and Welfare on the possible ill effects of cigarette smoking on health.

Samuel Will Resign As Oakland Symphony Leader

OAKLAND (UPI)—Conductor Gerhard Samuel submitted his resignation today as music director of the Oakland Symphony Orchestra, effective after the 1970-71 season.

Samuel said he was resigning because he wanted to be free to accept guest conducting assignments in Europe and the United States.

Edgar F. Kaiser, chairman of the Oakland Symphony Orchestra Association, said Samuel had signed a new contract for the next two seasons.

He said the association would begin a search for a successor, with association director Harry Lange as chairman of the "conductor search committee."

"The association accepted the two-season agreement with respect for Maestro Samuel's decision that, after 12 successful seasons as our musical director, he should be free to accept other professional challenges in the furtherance of his own musical career," Kaiser said.

Samuel came to Oakland in 1959 after several years as associate conductor of the Minneapolis symphony.

He built the Oakland Symphony from a community orchestra into a professional symphony hailed by San Francisco area critics for its performances of contemporary works.

He also acts as musical director of the San Francisco Ballet Company, is guest conductor for San Francisco Spring Opera, and founded the Cabrillo Music Festival.

Traffic Near Normal At Mexico Crossings

TIJUANA, Mexico (AP) — Traffic across the international boarder inched closer to normal today as the United States eased antinarcotics controls, but Mexican businessmen reported commercial activity "far below" usual levels.

Washington announced Friday the termination of Operation Intercept, designed to curb the inflow of narcotics from Mexico.

The action followed criticism by U.S. congressional and Mexican government leaders that the operation was harming relations and trade between the two countries.

"It's still too early to say what effect Operation Cooperation will have on tourism," said Manuel Leyva, operator of one of Tijuana's largest liquor stores. "But right now business still is down by some 50 per cent."

This appeared to be the consensus among businessmen catering to American tourists here and in other Mexican border cities.

Cars were still being inspected as they crossed the border, although not as thoroughly as during Intercept. Searches appeared to be averaging about 30 seconds here Sunday afternoon.

Meanwhile, Mexico's defense minister said troops discovered and burned an estimated 65 tons of marijuana worth around $4 million on a 250-acre farm owned by an unidentified American.

Gen. Marceline Garcia Barragan said Saturday in Mexico City that the farm, in the state of Guerrero on Mexico's southwest coast, included a landing strip. He said the owner apparently escaped to the United States.

Traffic across the border was reported "light" at Laredo and El Paso, Tex., with no crossing jams as in the past. In Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, loudspeakers continued to urge Mexicans to do their shopping on their side of the border.

Generally, Mexican businessmen here appeared elated with the lifting of Operation Intercept, but were concerned about the future effects of Operation Cooperation.

"California residents are not allowed to take any liquor into the U.S.," said one liquor store owner. "In the old days it was possible to smuggle a few bottles across. But that's out now with the searches."

Normally, U.S. citizens are allowed to bring one quart of liquor from abroad, but California bans its residents from doing so.

There was no officials sign here of how Mexico planned to cooperate in the narcotics drive under Operation Cooperation. Tijuana is regarded as the major distributionpoint for northbound traffic in heroin, marijuana and pills.

After the announcement Friday that Operation Intercept would be terminated, police agents closed all houses of prostitution in the city. Owners said they were told only that the shutdown was "because of superior orders." Officials declined to comment. Officially bordellos do not exist in Tijuana.

Released British Newsman Talked To Self For Sanity

By RONALD WEI

HONG KONG (AP) — British freelance newsman Norman Barrymaine says he kept his sanity during 19 months of solitary confinement in Red China by "talking to myself," making up "wonderful dicsussions" with a daughter in London and dictating news stories to an imaginary secretary."

Visibly weak from the ordeal, Barrymaine, 69, told reporters today that he signed "a few confessions admitting general spying" at the prolonged insistence of the Chinese Communists who took him from his 8-by-12-foot room each day dor two and a half months and grilled him for 6 to 14 hours.

He said the confessions were false, and "for reasons unknown to me I was never put on trial nor sentenced."

Barrymaine came to the news conference from Queen Mary Hospital, where he has been since he walked across the border last Saturday. He is suffering from dysentery and lost 20 pounds during his confinement.

He was arrested on Feb. 23, 1968, while touring Shanghai shortly after his boat docked and he secured a landing permit. He said he did not have a visa to enter the country.

Chinese security officers accused him of spying because he took a picture of some torpedo boats, Barrymaine said. He said he had hired a guide who "told me I could take whatever pictures I wanted to take."

Barrymaine said his release and that of the Reuters correspondent in Peking, Anthony Grey, definitely indicated "signs of improvement between Hong Kong and China." He said he planned to stay in Hong Kong for a while and to begin writing his story for the London Sunday Telegraph.

Traffic Near Normal At Mexico Crossings

TIJUANA, Mexico (AP) — Traffic across the international boarder inched closer to normal today as the United States eased antinarcotics controls, but Mexican businessmen reported commercial activity "far below" usual levels.

Washington announced Friday the termination of Operation Intercept, designed to curb the inflow of narcotics from Mexico.

The action followed criticism by U.S. congressional and Mexican government leaders that the operation was harming relations and trade between the two countries.

"It's still too early to say what effect Operation Cooperation will have on tourism," said Manuel Leyva, operator of one of Tijuana's largest liquor stores. "But right now business still is down by some 50 per cent."

This appeared to be the consensus among businessmen catering to American tourists here and in other Mexican border cities.

Cars were still being inspected as they crossed the border, although not as thoroughly as during Intercept. Searches appeared to be averaging about 30 seconds here Sunday afternoon.

Meanwhile, Mexico's defense minister said troops discovered and burned an estimated 65 tons of marijuana worth around $4 million on a 250-acre farm owned by an unidentified American.

Gen. Marceline Garcia Barragan said Saturday in Mexico City that the farm, in the state of Guerrero on Mexico's southwest coast, included a landing strip. He said the owner apparently escaped to the United States.

Traffic across the border was reported "light" at Laredo and El Paso, Tex., with no crossing jams as in the past. In Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, loudspeakers continued to urge Mexicans to do their shopping on their side of the border.

Generally, Mexican businessmen here appeared elated with the lifting of Operation Intercept, but were concerned about the future effects of Operation Cooperation.

"California residents are not allowed to take any liquor into the U.S.," said one liquor store owner. "In the old days it was possible to smuggle a few bottles across. But that's out now with the searches."

Normally, U.S. citizens are allowed to bring one quart of liquor from abroad, but California bans its residents from doing so.

There was no officials sign here of how Mexico planned to cooperate in the narcotics drive under Operation Cooperation. Tijuana is regarded as the major distributionpoint for northbound traffic in heroin, marijuana and pills.

After the announcement Friday that Operation Intercept would be terminated, police agents closed all houses of prostitution in the city. Owners said they were told only that the shutdown was "because of superior orders." Officials declined to comment. Officially bordellos do not exist in Tijuana.

Released British Newsman Talked To Self For Sanity

By RONALD WEI

HONG KONG (AP) — British freelance newsman Norman Barrymaine says he kept his sanity during 19 months of solitary confinement in Red China by "talking to myself," making up "wonderful dicsussions" with a daughter in London and dictating news stories to an imaginary secretary."

Visibly weak from the ordeal, Barrymaine, 69, told reporters today that he signed "a few confessions admitting general spying" at the prolonged insistence of the Chinese Communists who took him from his 8-by-12-foot room each day dor two and a half months and grilled him for 6 to 14 hours.

He said the confessions were false, and "for reasons unknown to me I was never put on trial nor sentenced."

Barrymaine came to the news conference from Queen Mary Hospital, where he has been since he walked across the border last Saturday. He is suffering from dysentery and lost 20 pounds during his confinement.

He was arrested on Feb. 23, 1968, while touring Shanghai shortly after his boat docked and he secured a landing permit. He said he did not have a visa to enter the country.

Chinese security officers accused him of spying because he took a picture of some torpedo boats, Barrymaine said. He said he had hired a guide who "told me I could take whatever pictures I wanted to take."

Barrymaine said his release and that of the Reuters correspondent in Peking, Anthony Grey, definitely indicated "signs of improvement between Hong Kong and China." He said he planned to stay in Hong Kong for a while and to begin writing his story for the London Sunday Telegraph.

Eleven other Britons are believed to be detained in Red China.

Why
can't things be the way they used to be?

Culver Pictures, Inc.

You know. When the Negro "knew his place."
When students stayed in the classroom.
When poverty was kept off page one.
Ah, the good old days.
But who's fooling whom? Was it really a better world? Or just a quieter one? A few years ago it was easy to hide from the evils around us.
To turn our backs and pretend it really wasn't so.
But God knows, it was. All that our modern communication system has done is bring it all out into the open. And about time.
The fact is, God has probably been much too patient with our world. "Love your neighbor," He told us long ago. Not enough of us were listening and that's what today's turmoil is all about.
And think about this: maybe—just maybe—God put us here right now because we're the ones who can start setting things straight.

Culver Pictures, Inc.

You know. When the Negro "knew his place."
When students stayed in the classroom.
When poverty was kept off page one.
Ah, the good old days.
But who's fooling whom? Was it really a better world? Or just a quieter one? A few years ago it was easy to hide from the evils around us.
To turn our backs and pretend it really wasn't so.
But God knows, it was. All that our modern communication system has done is bring it all out into the open. And about time.
The fact is, God has probably been much too patient with our world. "Love your neighbor," He told us long ago. Not enough of us were listening and that's what today's turmoil is all about.
And think about this: maybe—just maybe—God put us here right now because we're the ones who can start setting things straight.

During the same 12-month period, traffic increased only 2.4 per cent on the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge.

On Aug. 3, a record 22,761 vehicles crossed the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge. The previous record was 21,534, set on July 13.

Chavez Says Human Value Is Ignored

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI)—Caesar Chavez, leader of the 17,000-member United Farm Workers, said today California grape growers have taken the position that "the black and brown people who picked the food for American have no human worth."

He also said the Defense Department has not denied his allegation of intensifying the differences between his union and the growers by increasing by 800 per cent grape shipments to Vietnam in the last several years.

HOURLY WAGES

Chavez made the assertion last week in an appearance before a Senate subcommittee. His union and the growers have reached a stalemate on hourly wages. The union wants $2.00 and the growers have offered $1.70.

Chavez was in Hartford to talk to members of the Connecticut Council of Churches, and the Hartford Seminary. He said the grape boycott movement in Connecticut was just beginning to "move."

He predicted it would be "very successful."

10 PICKETS

He was picketed by 10 persons who distributed literature most of which was aimed at questioning the wages paid the pickers in California. The pickets' literature put the figure at $3.00 hourly, however, Chavez said that if this were the case there would be no reason why the growers would not be willing to pay $2.00 hourly.

He also said the Federal Department of Agriculture was lax in assessing accurately the pesticide level on table grapes sold in supermarkets and other stores. He said that studies on pickers by the California Health Department showed 630 of 750 pickers examined had some sign of pesticide poisoning.

Chavez said the growers have retained two well-known advertising agencies, one in San Francisco and the other in New York, to provide the growers with a better image. The cost he said was $1.5 million.

Council To Hold Ordinance Probe

A public hearing on a proposed new business license ordinance with a new set of license fees will be held when the San Anselmo City Council meets at 8 p.m. tomorrow at city hall.

License fees in the new ordinance would be based on gross receipts, with a maximum fee of $350 a year. The council itself may be split on the proposal. Councilman Robert M. Scott objected to the fee schedule two weeks ago when the hearing was set.

The council also will discuss restricting parking along Sir Francis Drake Boulevard westbound from the Hub to El Cerrito Avenue near the high school.

County Planning Staff Meets Commissioners

County planning director Paul C. Zucker and most of his staff met the county planning commissioners en masse this morning for the first time since 1966.

About 25 staff members were introduced and then sat in the audience section as Zucker outlined the department's work program with charts and maps.

Of the overall budget of $421,000 this year, countywide planning is getting more of the share than four years ago, said Zucker. This includes such work as the overall transportation study, study of environmental quality, and tourism potential.

On studies like environmental qualities, an attempt is being made to move away from the subjective and toward the objective by studies on ecology, for example, he added.

Commenting on the future of the budget, Zucker said he thinks he can hold the line, and will work toward a reduction by getting more outside grants, particularly for research work such as the Nicasio study.

Chairman Michael Praszker and commissioner Hugh Dougherty commended Zucker for a "complete and lucid" explanation of the work program.

Commissioner Niels Schultz Jr. said programs must be carefully weighed so that they will be practical and not too academic. "I'm not against experimenting but there must be a liklihood of some benefit."

Commissioner Jack G. Nixon said he wants to discuss the work program again at a later date so that commissioners can express their views on some of the programs.

The work program explained this morning will be presented to the Marin County Board of Supervisors at a workshop scheduled for 9 a.m. on Oct. 21.

30 Used Cars Sold At Auction

A county auction of 30 used cars grossed $8,000 Saturday morning at the Civic Center parking lot.

County purchasing agent Doug Edelen said the auction drew a sparse crowd of about 75 people, but all cars were sold except one. The highest price was $600 for a 1968 sedan, and the lowest was $125 for a 1962 sedan.

Edelen said the poor attendance was probably caused by "apathy in the used car market" and the opening of the World Series, which was televised about the same time as the auction. "However, the prices paid were not as bad as last year."

Two cars from the North Marin County Water District and two from the City of San Anselmo were included in the auction.

Americans spent $165 million for imported shrimp in 1968.

A SENTIMENTAL JOURNEY

The schooner Bowdoin, framed in a loop antenna, arrived in Provincetown, Mass., over the weekend on a sentimental journey from Camden, Me., to visit her builder, the last surviving member of Admiral Perry's 1909 expedition to the North Pole. Rear Adm. Donald McMillian, now lives in retirement in Provincetown. He sailed the schooner on her 26 voyages to the Arctic region after ship was built to his specifications. The present skipper, Capt. James Sharp, spent $25,000 to have the historic vessel restored.

Cranston For Federal Welfare Tab

I-J Special Report

SQUAW VALLEY — The entire cost of the nation's welfare programs should be paid by the federal government, according to Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif.

Speaking before the County Supervisors Association of California, Cranston said that total nationalization of welfare "would accomplish the same ends as block grants without stirring up the violent battle which is the inevitable consequence of trying to get Congress to appropriate block grant funding."

President Richard M. Nixon proposed in August that the federal government share tax revenue with local government to support the welfare system and give every poor family a basic income.

"Frankly, I do not believe that Congress will be willing to give 'no-strings-attached' money to the states or to local government," Cranston said.

Local tax dollars "freed from the welfare drain" under nationalization could be spent without federal strings, he said, but block grants by the federal government probably would be encumbered with "regulations and restrictions on its use.

Resistance To Dictatorship

ATHENS (AP) — An underground organization called the Greek Democratic Movement says it exploded two bombs outside a central Athens hotel last night to show officers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization that active resistance to Greece's military dictatorship still exists.

"We planted the bombs near the hotel so that the NATO officers staying there could hear them and know of our resistance," one telephone caller said.

The bombs caused no damage or casualties.

Broadcasters Firm On Antismoking Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — To the tobacco industry's dismay, broadcasters served notice today they plan to continue antismoking commercials even after radio and television advertising of cigarettes ends next September.

The disclosure by Vincent T. Wasilewski, president of the National Association of Broadcasters (NAB), marked a potentially serious setback to a careful year-long lobbying strategy by cigarette makers.

The strategy climaxed July 22 when Joseph F. Cullman III, president of the Tobacco Institute, told a Senate subcommittee that cigarette makers would voluntarily stop all broadcast advertising next September.

Observers believe the voluntary move had three aims—to preclude even harsher government restrictions on cigarette advertising, to give tobacco firms a $220 million financial windfall for use in diversification, and to squelch commercials warning that cigarettes can kill.

The Federal Communications Commission (FCC) has ordered all stations which broadcast cigarette ads to also air the antismoking messages. Cigarette industry leaders have privately condemned the health commercials as a prime factor in a slight drop in per capita cigarette consumption last year. Some said broadcast advertising was no longer worth the cost since it reaped commercials knocking the product.

But Wasilewski, in a letter to Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, Congress' leading anticigarette crusader, said broadcasters had decided that despite the loss of cigarette advertising, "antismoking messages will...continue to be aired," for at least four more years.

SOCIAL SECURITY

$1.5 Million Into Marin Each Month

By HARRY CRAFT
(First of two articles)

Any organization disbursing $1.5 million throughout Marin County every month has to be regarded as big business.

This is approximately the amount pumped into the county's economy 12 times a year by the Social Security Administration. Although it could be the figure is not larger partially because more people do not apply for benefits to which they are entitled, according to Dist. Mgr. Edwin H. Leuin of the San Rafael office.

The $1.5 million is drawn almost entirely from wage earners, their employers and the self-employed. Their contributions are pooled into three special trust funds for: Medicare hospital insurance after age 65; disability benefits, and retirement and survivors' payments.

(A fourth fund for supplemental medical insurance is fed by premiums paid half by older people who sign up — and most of them do — and half by the federal government).

Medicaid (Medi-Cal in California) has nothing to do with these programs. The state Department of Social Services administers this, and joint state and federal funds foot the bills.

Generally, wage earners and the self-employed are vaguely aware in their early years of Medicare and that they will get something someday toward retirement, simply because they have a Social Security number and regular deductions are made from their salary checks. No doubt mamy of them would rather keep the deducted cash for spending and let the retirement credits go.

Actually until a person reaches 60, he may not give much thought to his accruing benefits. Even then, unless he has been faced with the prospect of compulsory retirment from his job at 65, he may not take time to investigate until he approaches this age and receives a polite letter from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

That letter, sent about three months before his 65th birthday, will suggest an early visit to the local Social Security office, at 1245 Fourth Street, to discuss his forthcoming eligibility for Medicare. It is sent far enough ahead so there will be ample time to complete all the details of filing an application. If he waits, he risks delaying his benefits.

If a visit to the Social Security office is not possible, applications may be filed by telephone and completed by mail. A field representative is sent to the homes of incapacitated persons.

The San Rafael Social Security office services about 17,000 registrants receiving benefits of all kinds — Medicare, retirement and disability checks and survivors' and dependents' payments. It is staffed by 15 persons. Files are maintained on well over 11,000 persons over 65 in Marin and the number goes up each year. And at least 95 per cent of them are registered for Medicare.

The office is often confused with the state Department of Employment and the state Department of Social Services, occasionally receiving several inquiries a week about a job, unemployment checks or information on Medi-Cal.

Neither Medicare health benefits, which are free, nor supplemental medical insurance (for which the registrant pays $4 per month) are all inclusive. But registrants can have private protection policies adjusted to pick up the exclusions — still at a saving.

Social Security benefits which go unclaimed more than any others are those arising from loss of earnings because of disability, says Leuin.

Monthly benefit checks can be paid to disabled workers under 65 and their families; to persons disabled before 18 years of age who continued to be disabled (payable when a parent receives retirment benefits or when an insured parent dies); to disabled widows and dependent widowers; and in some cases to disabled surviving divorces wives of workers who were insured at death.

To have disability protection, most workers need Social Security credits for at least five years out of the 10-year period ending when their disability begins. Payments generally cannot start until the seventh full month of disability.

(Tomorrow: More about benefits)

Rainy Weather Shack Due Study

Striving to beat the rainy season, the Corte Madera Planning Commission will hold an informal design review for a new Ozark outhouse when it meets at 7:30 p.m. today in the town council chamber.

The present "outhouse" is a wooden shack used to shield the crossing guard at El Camino Avenue and Paradise Drive from bad weather. It was removed by the town council on complaints of the Marin Estates Homeowners Association that its privy-like appearance did nothing to enhance their neighborhood.

The commission also will hold public hearings on proposed amendments to the zoning ordinance regarding signs and parking space requirements.

Breakfast Speaker

Neil B. Little, manager of Marin County's leased housing program will speak at 8 a.m. tomorrow to a breakfast meeting of the Marin County Real Estate Board at the Corte Madera Lions Club.

New Review Policy For College Theater

With "Waiting For Godot" opening its 1969-70 drama season, College of Marin has inaugurated a new policy of not inviting public reviews of its productions.

James Dunn, head of the department of speech and drama, said reviewers from the daily and weekly press would be invited to see the shows and attend a subsequent symposium at which reviewers would give their opinions to the actors and other company members without public involvement.

"For a long time I've felt that actors of junior college age are not aided by public reviews," said Dunn. "I 've found that adverse criticism hurts them psychologially, while too much praise can lead to equally damaging overconfidence."

The director said he felt that the actors could benefit much from a question and answer session with the critics, while the reviewers would be able to devote more time to their critiques than allowed by newspaper space limitations.

Independent-Journal drama critic Karl Barron will participate in the symposium to be held for the cast of "Waiting For Godot" some night next week, Dunn said. The play, which opened Friday, will be presented in the college studio theater Thursday through Sunday at 8:30 p.m.

Program Of Meals To Be Considered

The San Rafael Board of Education will be asked to approve a program to provide meals for needy students when it meets at 7:30 p.m. today in the district office.

The board will also be asked to approve a pass or fail option for students in certain classes in English, social science, mathematics, business education and physical education departments. Under this plan, a student may elect not to receive a letter grade but just notification of whether he passed or failed the course.

Larkspur Scout Due Eagle Award

A 16-year-old member of Explore Post 24 will be honored with an Eagle Scout Court of Honor at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Henry C. Hall School auditorium in Larkspur.

The Eagle Scout award is the highest in scouting. Novacic's scouting activities have included assisting scoutmaster Lawrence Kramer of Larkspur in guiding canoe trips down the Russian River.

Loan Industry Warning On Tight Credit

BOSTON (UPI) — A leading spokesman for the savings and loan industry says unless the Nixon Administration "issues a firm commitment to aid housing, the already crippled home-building industry will enter the decade of the 1970s in an atmosphere of crisis."

Arthur H. Courshon, president of the National League of Insured Savings Institutions, said yesterday the administration had failed to deliver any results to prevent a deteriorating housing market.

"We are in a credit crunch every bit as serious as 1966," Courshon said. "Conditions in the housing market look bad, and if present tends continue, things will get worse before they're better."

Addressing the opening of the league's 12th annual meeting, Courshon said the highest interest rates in more than 100 years and spiraling costs were responsible for the declining housing starts of the past several months.

Petaluma Girl Runs Into Path Of Auto

Status Of Nonteacher Will Be Considered

Possible dismissal of a nonteaching employee will be considered in closed session by the Tamalpais High School District board during the board's regular meeting at 8 p.m. today in the district office.

The only other item on the agenda is a report from the salary equivalency committee.

Two Women Injured In Bridge Accidents

Two Marin County women received minor injuries in two separate accidents involving seven cars on Golden Gate Bridge last night, the California Highway Patrol said today.

Esther H. Furnas, 64, of 28 Foss Avenue, San Anselmo, received minor injuries but refused treatment at the scene after a car driven by her husband, John, hit one driven by Leslie Coleman Jacobson, 39, of 130 Lineden Lane, San Rafael. The patrol said a car driven by Henry Lacayo, 41, of Pacifica, was southbound at 7:45 p.m. and had to brake sharply. His car veered into the northbound lanes and overturned, hitting the Jacobson car which then was hit by the Furnas car. Lacayo was unhurt.

Thirty-five minutes earlier, Betty B. Blezard of 36 Pimlott Lane, Mill Valley, sustained minor injuries in a four-car pile-up in the southbound lanes. She was to see her own physician.

The patrol said a car driven by Peter E. Jakob, 28, of Forest Hills, N.Y., slammed into the by Thomas Courtland Blezard, rear of the Blezard car, driven 52. Blezard's car then hit the rear of one driven by John G. Stefko, 27, assigned to Letterman General Hospital, and his car was knocked into the rear of one driven by Thomas Joseph Blanco, 65, of Daly City.

Any $7,400 car is tight—new.

The sinewy Mercedes-Benz 280SE is built to be rattle-free even after 50,000 miles.

Lift the hood, and you'll see why.

One of the sweet pleasures of driving any brand-new car is that firm, buttoned-up feeling it has when it thumps across the inevitable potholes and corrugated railroad tracks.

Especially if the car you traded-in had taken to moaning and groaning over such indignities.

Mercedes-Benz engineers like the nice, tight, "new-car feel" so much they think it ought to last longer than new-car smell, new-car payments, and even a new-car warranty. In fact, they see no reason why you should not go right on enjoying it year after year after year.

And, since Mercedes-Benz engineers stubbornly refuse to waste time on annual face-lifts or superfluous gimmickry, they have ample opportunity to make such dreams come true.

The 280SE is rated the safest, most roadworthy car in the "luxury" field. A sound investment, too.

Born to last

Result: every Mercedes-Benz 280SE begins life in a shower of sparks. Its chassis and body are not bolted into being, like those of a conventional sedan, but solidified by thousands of welds into a single, rigid unit.

Flip up the hood or peer into the wheel wells behind the tires, and examine the frame. You can actually see the telltale pockmarks of the welds.

And you'll "feel" the difference they make from the first tar strip you hit. After 50,000 miles or so, you may begin to wonder if your 280SE will ever rattle.

When welding stops, hands in soft gloves caress the exterior of the body to detect bumps and burrs. They are smoothed away. Vital seams are soldered and buffed to oblivion.

Then the raw body is dunked whole, like a taffy apple, into a gigantic vat of primer. It emerges with 24 pounds of rust protection.

Next, it is baked, spray-painted, hand-sanded, sprayed again, then hand-sprayed. Even the insides of the hubcaps are coated. Total primer and paint anti-corrosion protection: over 44 pounds.

Unrelenting power

Bearings are delicately machined to within 4/10,000ths of an inch, and pistons and connecting rods are painstakingly matched and balanced. Yet this power plant is about as fragile as a bull. It's built to cruise above 100 mph on Germany's wide-open autobahns for hours on end (and often does).

Heroic handling

The legendary stamina of a Mercedes-Benz is a virtue you can appreciate only with the passing of time. But you needn't wait a moment to savor this car's true genius: its quick reflexes and heroic handling ability.

The 280SE bristles with sophisticated, ultra-performance features that simply do not exist on domestic sedans in the so-called "fine car" field.

Scrapping the solid "beam" rear-axle system of domestic sedans, it uses an articulated axle, so that each rear wheel can move up and down independently of the other, just as the front wheels do.

This endows the car with the agility of a scrambling quarterback. You can blast it over rutted gravel lanes; it behaves with almost eerie calm. You can thread it through the corkscrew turns of a mountain road—and enjoy yourself.

There's no sloppy play in the steering, either. No mushiness. When you hold the wheel, you are blessed with the "feel" of the road. When you turn the wheel, the car responds instantly. Suddenly, you are a more confident driver.

Taut, sensitive steering is retained even with Mercedes-Benz power steering—characterized by Car and Driver as "unquestionably the most precise unit of its kind ever developed."

Awesome brakes

Unless you have driven a 180-mph Grand Prix racing car or a Mercedes-Benz, chances are you have never experienced the awesome stopping power of really good brakes.

Disc brakes.

Mercedes-Benz engineers insist on them. Nor do they stint by putting disc brakes only at the front wheels, and settling for conventional drum brakes on the rear. They attach a massive, caliper-type disc brake to every wheel of every Mercedes-Benz.

Someday, doubtless, 4-wheel disc brakes will be offered on a domestic "luxury" car.

The pinnacle of safety

The responsiveness which makes the 280SE such a pleasure to drive is its best defense against blundering motorists. However, if the worst happens, the car is designed to shield you. Naturally, it meets all the U.S. safety regulations. But a Mercedes-Benz has additional safety features.

The entire passenger compartment is built as a sturdy "safety zone." Doors are designed to stay shut on impact. The front and rear of the car are engineered to crumple in a crash at a controlled rate, absorbing shock and reducing the threat of serious injury.

Car and Driver's sober conclusion: Of all the world's cars, the Mercedes-Benz line "represents the present pinnacle in safe car engineering."

Showroom experiments

The 280SE is as habitable as it is durable, roadworthy, and safe.

Slip behind the wheel, and flex your back. This is no marshmallow seat. It supports you. It should: it was contoured with help from orthopedic physicians. The springs inside are actually tuned to the car's suspension movements—to cancel thousands of tiny, tiring tremors every mile.

Check the rear shelf. Carpeted. Feel the underside of the dash. No spaghetti tangle of wires—it's fully finished off. Finger the wood trim. Real walnut, not plastic.

Many cars are designed to win admiration for their owners. Mercedes-Benz cars are designed to win admiration from their owners.

280SE vs. 280S vs. 280SEL

The 280SE sells for about $7,500* complete with automatic shift, power steering, vinyl upholstery, white walls, and AM/FM radio.

If you can live without the 15% power-boost from that "E"—for Einspritzmotor, or fuel-injection engine—you can make a tidy savings by ordering the standard 280S.

You can also order a 280SEL—the 280SE with a wheelbase four inches longer. (Four inches invested in legroom for the rear compartment, not squandered in useless overhang.)

IT WASN'T ALL PLAY

THE SUBURBAN SCENE

Swiss Sculptor Is Mill Valley Guest

By MOLLY MARIN

Clara Quien, the noted sculptor, of Taverna Ti, near Lugano, Switzerland, was the guest this weekend of Mrs. A. J. Almada of Mill Valley.

Mrs. Almada met her last year when she and her daughter, Mrs. Cary Carrillo of Huntsville, Ala., were traveling in Europe.

The sculptor came to this country for the wedding of her grandson in New Mexico and to visit her brother in Menlo Park and, hopes to lecture in the United States.

Besides being a sculptor whose work may be seen in many countries, Mrs. Quien lectures and teaches sculpture, languages and yoga. Some of her famed pieces include studies of Mahatma Gandhi, Nehru, the Shah of Iran and a very unusual Buddha showing him not as an idol but a human preacher.

MR. AND MRS. Arthur G. Lindauer of the Marin Country Club Estates in Novato have returned from a European trip.

They toured with 56 members of the Islam Temple Shriners and were accompanied by the potentate, Elvin C. Stendell and his wife. Other Marinites on the tour were the director of the tour and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Don Albertson of Kent Woodlands, Mrs. Frances Gower of Sausalito and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Monteiro of Novato.

The first trip to Europe for Selina and Art Lindauer, they toured London, Copenhagen, Stockholm, East and West Berlin, Rome, Paris, Madrid and Lisbon and the Portuguese riviera.

Something exciting always seems to happen on their trips, and while in Stockholm, 17 members of the tour crowded onto an elevator in the Grand Hotel not noticing that the elevator capacity was only 10. They went down to the basement and it took 45 minutes to be released — finally having to climb a ladder.

In Paris, the Lindauers visited with a former classmate at Polytechnic High School in San Francisco, Gino Accurti and his wife.

Aid For Easy Credit Victims

By JOAN SWEENEY

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Caught between easy credit and soaring prices for just about everything, some families suddenly find their living expenses and installment payments total more a month than their income.

Soon creditors begin pressuring, threatening to garnishee wages which, in turn, could cost the debtor his job. Often, home life deteriorates as the husband and wife each blame the other for their financial difficulties. Where can they turn for help?

In Los Angeles, the answer is Consumer Credit Counselors, (CCC), a nonprofit community service agency financed by banks, department stores and other credit sources to help rescue the debt-ridden from financial disaster.

"We can help between 65 and 70 per cent of those who come here, said J. H. Feustel, the office's head. But some are in such shape that we just can't help them."

But even with the guidance of CCC, the road out of debt is still a long one involving considerable self denial. A counselor ascertains a couple's monthly living expenses and installment payments, makes out a budget and persuades creditors to accept smaller monthly payments. In turn, the couple must promise to make regular monthly payments and to take on no new debt.

"The majority of people we get have been the finance company route three, four or five times," Feustel said. "One widow was obligated to nine finance companies by the time she came to CCC.

"The thing that usually leads to their difficulty is that their consumer eyes are bigger than their ability to earn." They don't ask 'how much is this', just 'how long can I take to pay for it'. They don't stop to think about the monthly payments and how much they are all going to add up to."

He described as typical clients a young couple with children and an average monthly take home pay of $400 to $500.

Sometimes the problem is the couple wants too much house or too much car for their income.

Or the couple starts out with both the husband and wife working but then the wife loses her job or becomes pregnant and can't work for a while and that income is cut off.

Other times, it is a failure to plan for emergencies.

"They have to cooperate and regiment themselves to living within the budget set up for them," Feustel said.

"Those who do pay up tell us, we've learned our lesson. We'll look the next time before we buy."

Suede Steps

Suede steps brightly into the party shoe scene for fall, reports Seventeen. The new suede shoes are brushed to peach-fuzz softness and snapped with straps or glistened with silvery frost. They are on a solid footing, sometimes even clunkier than ever. Heels often rise to the loftiest heights in years. The party platform, in silver to match a flared heel and buckle, makes a strong stand for the policies of the forties. Suede colors run the gamut from black and grey to red and green.

IT WASN'T ALL PLAY

Swiss Sculptor Is Mill Valley Guest

By MOLLY MARIN

Clara Quien, the noted sculptor, of Taverna Ti, near Lugano, Switzerland, was the guest this weekend of Mrs. A. J. Almada of Mill Valley.

Mrs. Almada met her last year when she and her daughter, Mrs. Cary Carrillo of Huntsville, Ala., were traveling in Europe.

The sculptor came to this country for the wedding of her grandson in New Mexico and to visit her brother in Menlo Park and, hopes to lecture in the United States.

Besides being a sculptor whose work may be seen in many countries, Mrs. Quien lectures and teaches sculpture, languages and yoga. Some of her famed pieces include studies of Mahatma Gandhi, Nehru, the Shah of Iran and a very unusual Buddha showing him not as an idol but a human preacher.

MR. AND MRS. Arthur G. Lindauer of the Marin Country Club Estates in Novato have returned from a European trip.

They toured with 56 members of the Islam Temple Shriners and were accompanied by the potentate, Elvin C. Stendell and his wife. Other Marinites on the tour were the director of the tour and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Don Albertson of Kent Woodlands, Mrs. Frances Gower of Sausalito and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Monteiro of Novato.

The first trip to Europe for Selina and Art Lindauer, they toured London, Copenhagen, Stockholm, East and West Berlin, Rome, Paris, Madrid and Lisbon and the Portuguese riviera.

Something exciting always seems to happen on their trips, and while in Stockholm, 17 members of the tour crowded onto an elevator in the Grand Hotel not noticing that the elevator capacity was only 10. They went down to the basement and it took 45 minutes to be released — finally having to climb a ladder.

In Paris, the Lindauers visited with a former classmate at Polytechnic High School in San Francisco, Gino Accurti and his wife.

Aid For Easy Credit Victims

By JOAN SWEENEY

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Caught between easy credit and soaring prices for just about everything, some families suddenly find their living expenses and installment payments total more a month than their income.

Soon creditors begin pressuring, threatening to garnishee wages which, in turn, could cost the debtor his job. Often, home life deteriorates as the husband and wife each blame the other for their financial difficulties. Where can they turn for help?

In Los Angeles, the answer is Consumer Credit Counselors, (CCC), a nonprofit community service agency financed by banks, department stores and other credit sources to help rescue the debt-ridden from financial disaster.

"We can help between 65 and 70 per cent of those who come here, said J. H. Feustel, the office's head. But some are in such shape that we just can't help them."

But even with the guidance of CCC, the road out of debt is still a long one involving considerable self denial. A counselor ascertains a couple's monthly living expenses and installment payments, makes out a budget and persuades creditors to accept smaller monthly payments. In turn, the couple must promise to make regular monthly payments and to take on no new debt.

"The majority of people we get have been the finance company route three, four or five times," Feustel said. "One widow was obligated to nine finance companies by the time she came to CCC.

"The thing that usually leads to their difficulty is that their consumer eyes are bigger than their ability to earn." They don't ask 'how much is this', just 'how long can I take to pay for it'. They don't stop to think about the monthly payments and how much they are all going to add up to."

He described as typical clients a young couple with children and an average monthly take home pay of $400 to $500.

Sometimes the problem is the couple wants too much house or too much car for their income.

Or the couple starts out with both the husband and wife working but then the wife loses her job or becomes pregnant and can't work for a while and that income is cut off.

Other times, it is a failure to plan for emergencies.

"They have to cooperate and regiment themselves to living within the budget set up for them," Feustel said.

"Those who do pay up tell us, we've learned our lesson. We'll look the next time before we buy."

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Is There Love In The Marriage She'd Break Up Over Sterility?

DEAR HELEN:

After all these years of saving myself for Mr. Right, I've had it!

Oh, I found him all right, and we were married last year. But here's the tragic part. After a year of trying to have a baby, my husband was told by several doctors that he is sterile.

It just isn't fair. Expressing his sorrow, my husband suggested we adopt, but I don't want a kid from some service.

I told him I wanted a divorce because who wants to be married to half a man who can't give me what I want — a baby? He almost cried. It's I who should cry. He is virile for nothing. Isn't this grounds for divorce? — HALF MARRIED

DEAR HALF:

Impotence, perhaps; sterility, no. But if you live up to your letter in other departments, I'd think your husband has grounds for separation — on charges of extreme cruelty. Doesn't love even enter into your picture of marriage? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My wife's family delights in cutting people down. They do it in the name of kidding, but I notice it's always directed at our children, not theirs.

Maybe a man shouldn't notice such things, but when my daughter is called Fatso and teased about losing a boy friend; and when my son is given a hair ribbon "for his ponytail" (his hair is in style, not too long), and when they put me down because they found out I was an Eagle Scout at 16, well, it's enough to make me want to start punching.

This goes on constantly. They'll never change.

The trouble with this kind of person is if you get mad, they say you can't take a joke. But if you come back at them with their kind of kidding, your wife tears into you on the way home, and her family calls you a back-biter.

I'm tired of hearing it's "just their way." My wife expects us to get together every weekend, and the kids are about to rebel, too. Suggestions? — SLICED THIN

DEAR S. T.:

You're three against one. Suggest that there are other and better ways to spend your weekends — and make it plain why. If your wife is the understanding type, she'll cut these visits down to once a month or less. — H.

P. S. And she'd better be the understanding type!

DEAR HELEN:

You told a girl an open mind was fine as it allowed your brains room to operate. But I've known a few people whose open minds should be closed for repairs. — OBSERVER

DEAR OBSERVER:

True. A mind should be open and cultivated enough for ideas to circulate, take root and grow, but not so open that nothing comes out but blasts of hot air.

Or, as we seamstresses say, a little bias makes your material stronger, but too much bias pulls it out of shape. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Preschool Stress May Harm Child

SEATTLE, Wash. (WMNS) — Instead of curing "all ills," time can be a formidable enemy to emotionally deprived small children, a child psychiatrist has warned.

Dr. Irving N. Berlin of the University of Washington School of Medicine cautioned against the comfortable, optimistic belief that preschool children invariably outgrow their psychological problems.

"There is now powerful evidence," the head of the division of child psychiatry said, "that continued, prolonged, or repeated stress before age three may result in irreversible damage," permanently interfering with a child's ability to learn and his capacity for friendship.

Dr. Berlin also warned against the comfortable belief of the middle class that only poor children suffer dangerous emotional stress.

Although learning problems may be more obvious among the poor, he said, "Suburban mothers who are depressed as a result of having unwanted children or who have marital or other problems may not be in a position to nurture a baby."

Hallmarks of the possibly emotionally-damaged baby are failure to thrive and failure to develop normally, Dr. Berlin evaluations and intervention can rescue such a child.

RETIREMENT IS not in the offing for Mr. and Mrs. John Muenzer of Novato who are celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary today. The couple, standing with their horse "Sweetheart" own the Novato Boarding and Training School in Novato. They were married at St. Vincent's Church in Petaluma.

Muenzers Celebrate Golden Anniversary

A reception was held at the Novato Community House yesterday honoring Mr. and Mrs. John Muenzer of Novato who are celebrating their golden wedding anniversay today.

More than 200 friends and relatives were invited by the Muenzers' son and daughter, Richard Muenzer of Redwood City and Mrs. Roy Sparling of Novato. They also have four grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Marie Schoningh, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schoningh, who owned a general merchandise store in Petaluma, and John Muenzer, born in Santa Rosa, were married in Petaluma at St. Vincent's Church. Marie's brother, Vincent Schoningh, was mayor of Petaluma from 1953 to 1957.

Mrs. Muenzer related that perhaps the happiest moment in their married life was when their son returned from the Navy after serving in World War II.

Mr. Muenzer served in the Navy in World War I and then worked as an auto mecahnic before moving to San Francisco where he had an auto washing business for 32 years.

The Muenzers have always had horses, and two years ago at the age when most people retire, they moved to Novato and bought a riding stable and now operate the Novato Boarding and Training School.

Asked when he would retire, Mr. Muenzer said, "when they put me in the coffin."

Mrs. Muenzer said she enjoyed gardening and "the kids," but she hasn't had much time for anything else.

Arranging Room

The first step in arranging a room is to decide what activities will be held in it, according to Magdalene Pfister, University of Nebraska Extension home furnishings specialist. Group furniture into activity areas such as study, conversation, and recreation. A test to help determine how satisfactory an arrangement is, is to study how the furniture has been moved for conversation or games after guests leave.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Is There Love In The Marriage She'd Break Up Over Sterility?

DEAR HELEN:

After all these years of saving myself for Mr. Right, I've had it!

Oh, I found him all right, and we were married last year. But here's the tragic part. After a year of trying to have a baby, my husband was told by several doctors that he is sterile.

It just isn't fair. Expressing his sorrow, my husband suggested we adopt, but I don't want a kid from some service.

I told him I wanted a divorce because who wants to be married to half a man who can't give me what I want — a baby? He almost cried. It's I who should cry. He is virile for nothing. Isn't this grounds for divorce? — HALF MARRIED

DEAR HALF:

Impotence, perhaps; sterility, no. But if you live up to your letter in other departments, I'd think your husband has grounds for separation — on charges of extreme cruelty. Doesn't love even enter into your picture of marriage? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My wife's family delights in cutting people down. They do it in the name of kidding, but I notice it's always directed at our children, not theirs.

Maybe a man shouldn't notice such things, but when my daughter is called Fatso and teased about losing a boy friend; and when my son is given a hair ribbon "for his ponytail" (his hair is in style, not too long), and when they put me down because they found out I was an Eagle Scout at 16, well, it's enough to make me want to start punching.

This goes on constantly. They'll never change.

The trouble with this kind of person is if you get mad, they say you can't take a joke. But if you come back at them with their kind of kidding, your wife tears into you on the way home, and her family calls you a back-biter.

I'm tired of hearing it's "just their way." My wife expects us to get together every weekend, and the kids are about to rebel, too. Suggestions? — SLICED THIN

DEAR S. T.:

You're three against one. Suggest that there are other and better ways to spend your weekends — and make it plain why. If your wife is the understanding type, she'll cut these visits down to once a month or less. — H.

P. S. And she'd better be the understanding type!

DEAR HELEN:

You told a girl an open mind was fine as it allowed your brains room to operate. But I've known a few people whose open minds should be closed for repairs. — OBSERVER

DEAR OBSERVER:

True. A mind should be open and cultivated enough for ideas to circulate, take root and grow, but not so open that nothing comes out but blasts of hot air.

Or, as we seamstresses say, a little bias makes your material stronger, but too much bias pulls it out of shape. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Preschool Stress May Harm Child

SEATTLE, Wash. (WMNS) — Instead of curing "all ills," time can be a formidable enemy to emotionally deprived small children, a child psychiatrist has warned.

Dr. Irving N. Berlin of the University of Washington School of Medicine cautioned against the comfortable, optimistic belief that preschool children invariably outgrow their psychological problems.

"There is now powerful evidence," the head of the division of child psychiatry said, "that continued, prolonged, or repeated stress before age three may result in irreversible damage," permanently interfering with a child's ability to learn and his capacity for friendship.

Dr. Berlin also warned against the comfortable belief of the middle class that only poor children suffer dangerous emotional stress.

Although learning problems may be more obvious among the poor, he said, "Suburban mothers who are depressed as a result of having unwanted children or who have marital or other problems may not be in a position to nurture a baby."

Hallmarks of the possibly emotionally-damaged baby are failure to thrive and failure to develop normally, Dr. Berlin evaluations and intervention can rescue such a child.

Christopher Exline Weds Diana M. Dalton

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Anthony Dalton Jr. of Santa Venetia and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Exline of San Rafael.

Maid of honor was the bride's sister Laurie and bridesmaids were Mrs. James Dalton of Visalia, Belinda Holmes, Mrs. Scott McGowan and Barbara Schalich, all of San Rafael .

Dan Herrera of San Rafael was the best man and ushers were Bill Bacigaliupi of Fairfax, Mike Roman of Novato, Dennis Hayes of San Rafael, James Dalton, the brides' brother of Visalia, and Paul Humphries of Santa Venetia.

The couple will live in Fairfax after a wedding trip to Lake Tahoe.

Diana is a Terra Linda High School graduate in her senior year at San Francisco State College. She is also employed by Academic Therapy Publications in San Rafael.

Her grandfather is George Soldavini of San Rafael.

Christopher, also a Terra Linda High School graduate, is in his senior year at Sonoma State College. He is employed at Marin General Hospital. Gregory, Timothy and Merianne are his brothers and sister.

Stewardess To Aid Nelapese

Off to Kathmandu in Nepal for three months is Pan American stewardess Joyce Lynn Cane of Sausalito, who will work at Bir Hospital under the auspices of the Thomas A. Dooley Foundation.

Joyce is a native of Illinois and was graduated from Presbyterian-St. Luke's Hospital School of Nursing in San Francisco in 1965. In Nepal she will help train Nepalese in nursing techniques and care for patients, as well.

RETIREMENT IS not in the offing for Mr. and Mrs. John Muenzer of Novato who are celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary today. The couple, standing with their horse "Sweetheart" own the Novato Boarding and Training School in Novato. They were married at St. Vincent's Church in Petaluma.

Muenzers Celebrate Golden Anniversary

A reception was held at the Novato Community House yesterday honoring Mr. and Mrs. John Muenzer of Novato who are celebrating their golden wedding anniversay today.

More than 200 friends and relatives were invited by the Muenzers' son and daughter, Richard Muenzer of Redwood City and Mrs. Roy Sparling of Novato. They also have four grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Marie Schoningh, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schoningh, who owned a general merchandise store in Petaluma, and John Muenzer, born in Santa Rosa, were married in Petaluma at St. Vincent's Church. Marie's brother, Vincent Schoningh, was mayor of Petaluma from 1953 to 1957.

Mrs. Muenzer related that perhaps the happiest moment in their married life was when their son returned from the Navy after serving in World War II.

Mr. Muenzer served in the Navy in World War I and then worked as an auto mecahnic before moving to San Francisco where he had an auto washing business for 32 years.

The Muenzers have always had horses, and two years ago at the age when most people retire, they moved to Novato and bought a riding stable and now operate the Novato Boarding and Training School.

Asked when he would retire, Mr. Muenzer said, "when they put me in the coffin."

Mrs. Muenzer said she enjoyed gardening and "the kids," but she hasn't had much time for anything else.

Arranging Room

The first step in arranging a room is to decide what activities will be held in it, according to Magdalene Pfister, University of Nebraska Extension home furnishings specialist. Group furniture into activity areas such as study, conversation, and recreation. A test to help determine how satisfactory an arrangement is, is to study how the furniture has been moved for conversation or games after guests leave.

Abandoned Coleman School Hosts Ghosts, Witches And Eerie Elves

Beware of sighing ghosts, cackling witches and mischievous elves gathering in the eerie abandoned Coleman School, corner of Grand Avenue and Linden Lane, San Rafael, as members of Jolly Rogers Chapter, Children's Home Society, ready the all new sixth annual Haunted House.

The Haunted House, a Halloween tradition, opens to the public Oct. 24 and will remain open through Halloween.

Local stores, decorators and Jolly Rogers members and husbands are preparing 24 rooms in the theme of a house besieged by spirits. This year all the old favorites have been abandoned in favor of new characters, including a life-size, wild gorilla. Visitors will enter the back door, as even the floor plan has been changed.

Creaking doors will open weekdays, from 3:30 to 9 p.m. Oct. 25 and 26, noon to 9 p.m.; and from 3:30 to 6 p.m. on Halloween.

A sneak preview is being held this year to provide Haunted House supporters a chance to take the spine-tingling tour. Members of the press, radio, television, and civic dignitaries, decorators and sponsors have been invited to a champagne preview party. Sixty boys from St. Vincent's School for Boys will also be guests of Jolly Rogers members. Mayors C. Paul Bettini, San Rafael, and Harley McAskill, Novato, will act as trophy judges at the event.

Co-chairmen of the 1969 Haunted House are Mmes. James McConnell and Wayne Easton. Assisting them are Mmes. Madam, You Could Be A Viscountess

LONDON (UPI) — Madam, you could be a baroness and not know it. Or a viscountess. Or a lady.

A bundle of British titles to earldoms, baronies and baronetcies is just waiting to be claimed—at least some of the titles due Americans.

Could be, Madam, that your husband never has checked.

Patrick Montague-Smith, editor of Debrett's, the Who's Who of British aristocracy, said there might be heirs to 40 or 50 hereditary peerages lying vacant—or dormant as it is properly called—and slightly less that number of baronetcies.

Hereditary peers are lords, be they dukes, marquesses, earls, viscounts or barons. Baronets are a sort of hereditary knight with "Sir" in front of their name.

Normally their title passes from father to eldest son, or the next male relative, until the family dies out and the title becomes extinct. Dormancy arises when an heir might be alive somewhere.

"Newlon D'Arcy, who was born in 1895 and lives in Winchester, Va., is almost certainly the 17th baronet but he is not interested enough to prove it," said Montague-Smith. "In any case, he hasn't any sons, only a daughter who can't succeed because few baronetcies can be inherited by women.

"So he is not really concerned with proving it, which would be an awfully long and costly task anyway."

The claimant has to prove in a petition to the crown that he is the senior living member of the family, which means seeking documentary evidence of the death of all previous male relatives, in this case back to 1774. Not only that, but the legitimacy of all the marriages in the family must be proved and all the children traced.

"One successful claimant is the Earl of Dundee," said Montague-Smith. "I believe they spent thousands of pounds and most of his and his father's lifetimes establishing the succession. I think he was helped by the way property had descended through the family."

King Charles II created the earldom in 1660 but it became dormant later that century when the family estates were seized by a rival, the Duke of Lauderdale, who destroyed all papers proving their right to the title. The family tried without success to establish its claim over the centuries until the present earl, 67, won in 1953. The committee of Privileges of the House of Lords heard his petition on behalf of the crown.

Could anyone be around who is a lord without knowing it?

"This might be possible," said Montague-Smith.

The Irish baronetcy of Moore of Ross Carbery may have an unknowing heir somewhere in the United States. The last one died in 1926, but a younger son had migrated to America and a descendant may be alive who is the present baronet.

Nobody knows who is the heir to the present Earl of Breadalbane. The earl, 50, has no immediate male relatives but many distant ones, including descendants of another migrant to America.

"It is the Campbell family and there are heaps of them, but no one has so far traced the heir," said Montague-Smith. "It would be a distant fourth cousin."

An American who did become a nobleman in 1953 was Adrian Ivor Dunbar, then 50, a handyman of Upper Fairmount, Md. He suddenly found himself Sir Adrian Dunbar of Mochrum, 12th baronet, and possessor of the 3,000-acre family seat of Mochrum Park in Scotland.

Abandoned Coleman School Hosts Ghosts, Witches And Eerie Elves

Beware of sighing ghosts, cackling witches and mischievous elves gathering in the eerie abandoned Coleman School, corner of Grand Avenue and Linden Lane, San Rafael, as members of Jolly Rogers Chapter, Children's Home Society, ready the all new sixth annual Haunted House.

The Haunted House, a Halloween tradition, opens to the public Oct. 24 and will remain open through Halloween.

Local stores, decorators and Jolly Rogers members and husbands are preparing 24 rooms in the theme of a house besieged by spirits. This year all the old favorites have been abandoned in favor of new characters, including a life-size, wild gorilla. Visitors will enter the back door, as even the floor plan has been changed.

Creaking doors will open weekdays, from 3:30 to 9 p.m. Oct. 25 and 26, noon to 9 p.m.; and from 3:30 to 6 p.m. on Halloween.

A sneak preview is being held this year to provide Haunted House supporters a chance to take the spine-tingling tour. Members of the press, radio, television, and civic dignitaries, decorators and sponsors have been invited to a champagne preview party. Sixty boys from St. Vincent's School for Boys will also be guests of Jolly Rogers members. Mayors C. Paul Bettini, San Rafael, and Harley McAskill, Novato, will act as trophy judges at the event.

Co-chairmen of the 1969 Haunted House are Mmes. James McConnell and Wayne Easton. Assisting them are Mmes. Gerald VonderAhe, room co-ordinator; Ruben Valtierra, decorator co-ordinator; Clifford Bunds, staffing chairman; Douglas Ascher, posters and flyers; Phillip Roark, costumes and make-up; Roger Brink, prizes; James Winter, publicity; Richard Miller, treasurer; James Sheaves, programs; Charles Massen, signs; Randall Bechtel, corresponding secretary; Robert Banfield, champagne reception; and Robert Taverna, clean up.

Open Feud Between Frank Robinson, Gil Hodges

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Robinson's demeaning charge that the New York dugout has looked lifeless during the first two games of the World Series has ignited an open feud between the Baltimore slugger and Mets' manager Gil Hodges.

"I'm very happy Frank is watching us," Hodges said evenly but coldly in the Mets' dressing room yesterday after his underdog forces had tied the series at one victory each. "I hope he continues to watch us—who knows what will happen in right field?

"I don't want to get involved with Frank Robinson but to me the Mets are normal people doing normal things on the bench."

It may look like that to the mild-mannered manager of the Mets but it doesn't look like that to the outspoken outfielder of the Orioles.

"I said Saturday I thought it was strange there was no enthusiasm on their bench when they got men on base in the seventh inning," Robinson said yesterday, "and there was no difference today. They got excited when they scored but there was no difference in between.

"I think it is very, very strange they don't show any enthusiasm."

And then he added quietly as he sat slumped in a chair in front of his locker in the Orioles' dressing room:

Robinson has taken care of right field extremely well in the first two games of the series but has done nothing at the plate, failing to collect a hit in seven trips as the Orioles won Saturday's opener 4-1, then bowed in the second game 2-1 Sunday.

It was expected that the starters tomorrow will be Gary Gentry, 13-12, for the Mets against Jim Palmer, 16-4, in the third game of this series in which the Mets have done their thing once and the Orioles still have failed to do theirs.

While the Mets yesterday got the expected sharp pitching that is the key to their chances of completing their miracle season by upending the favored Orioles, Baltimore had yet to get the big hits it needs from the Big Three.

That includes Frank and Brooks Robinson and Boog Powell, who have been collectively checked on two hits in 22 trips to the plate. Frank is hitless while Brooks Robinson and Powell each have collected one hit — a single.

Koosman, the left-handed ace of the Mets' pitching staff, came on yesterday after the Orioles had beaten right-hander Tom Seaver in Saturday's opener and pitched no-hit ball until Paul Blair opened the seventh inning with a single.

He allowed only one more hit, but finally had to be relieved in the ninth when two-out walks to Frank Robinson and Powell put the Orioles in threatening position to overcome the 2-1 lead the Mets had fashioned in their half of the ninth.

Ron Taylor came on for Koosman and got Brooks Robinson to slap a grounder to third. Ed Charles grabbed the ball, saw he couldn't get a force at third and fired across the diamond to first baseman Donn Clendenon for the final out.

Clendenon had put the Mets in front 1-0 with a leadoff homer in the fourth inning off Baltimore left-hander Dave McNally, but the Orioles got that back in the seventh when Blair singled, stole second and scored on a single by Brooks Robinson.

It stayed that way until the top of the ninth when with two out, Charles singled, raced to third on a hit-and-run single by Jerry Grote and trotted home when Al Weis stroked the first pitch to him for a single to left.

While Koosman produced the pitching the Mets need, Seaver couldn't Saturday as he allowed all four Baltimore runs before he was removed for a pinch hitter in the sixth inning. At the same time, Mike Cuellar stopped the Mets on six hits.

Little Kick, Big Penalties Kill 49ers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "That little kick set it up for them," said San Francisco 49er Coach Dick Nolan. "That and all those pass interference penalties."

The 49ers, now winless in 10 games this year including the exhibition season, had the Los Angeles Rams on the ropes yesterday, but Ram quarterback Roman Gabriel brought Los Angeles charging back for two late touchdowns and a 27-21 triumph.

San Francisco had taken an eight-point lead early in the fourth quarter, but then Gabriel went to work and, with the help of two key pass interference calls, got the Rams a first down on the San Francisco one. He took it over from there.

The 49ers, with less than five minutes remaining, defied the percentages at this point by electing to have John Brodie, who threw three touchdown passes, take to the air rather than try to run out the clock by staying on the ground.

The strategy backfired as Brodie's first three passes went incomplete, setting up the kick that spelled the 49ers' doom.

Tommy Davis got off a 32-yard punt that Alvin Haymond grabbed at his own 48 and carried back to the 49ers' 12 before he was hauled down from behind. Tommy Mason later scored from the one, putting the Rams ahead to stay.

Nolan took the blame for the passing strategy himself, saying: "We were in a position where I felt we had to throw to get out of there."

Neither Gabriel nor Brodie had an especially good passing day with Brodie hitting on 20 of 51 tosses for 254 yards and three interceptions while the Ram quarterback connected on 18 of 40 for 198 yards.

Both teams had trouble hearing signals because of the aroused crowd of 45,995 that once held up the game for several minutes because the Rams couldn't hear through the din after a pass interference call against the 49ers.

Clifton McNeil, who caught one touchdown pass while rookie Gene Washington snagged two, said twice in the first half he missed hearing Brodie call audibles altogether. "We missed a couple of passes we should have got. They hit us right in the hands," he moaned.

STORMY SEASON

Martin Is Fired As Twins' Pilot

NEW YORK (AP) — Battling Billy Martin, who piloted Minnesota to a division title in his first stormy season as a major league manager, was fired today.

Twins president Calvin Griffith, in New York for the World Series, announced his decision not to rehire Martin for the 1970 season after a telephone conversation with the fiery, 41-year-old manager, who was in Minneapolis.

NO SUCCESSOR

Griffith said he has no one in mind yet to replace Martin.

"Since my meeting on Thursday (with Martin) I have constantly deliberated his future with the Minnesota Twins. Today, I have decided not to renew his contract as manager.

"Prior to hiring him, realizing his explosive personality and his inexperience as a manager I had numerous meetings with him to set policy and guide lines. I feel he has completely ignored our understandings. Even though winning the Western Division title, I feel a change will benefit the future successful operation of the Minnesota Twins."

Asked if it was a hard decision to fire Martin, Griffith replied "it was the hardest one I've ever had to make about a manager."

Martin is the third Twins manager fired by Griffith in three years.

"Billy is popular to a certain degree. You know Billy can go into a crowd and charm the hell out of you, but he ignored me. I asked him to come in to me several times and he didn't. I think the Twins are as much a part of me as Billy Martin."

First, the outspoken former New York Yankees second baseman blasted club officials over the running of the farm system and then rapped Manager Ted Williams of Washington.

Then, he was being criticized for mingling too closely with his players, a situation that resulted in the much publicizied fight he had with 20-game winner Dave Boswell outside a Detroit bar last Aug. 6 after Boswell kicked and slugged outfielder Bob Allison.

MADE IT CLEAR

Boswell made it clear he would not play for Martin next year.

And finally, Griffith was dissatisfied with the three consecutive losses to Baltimore that eliminated the Twins in the divisional playoffs. He reportedly was particularly unhappy that Martin chose to start right-hander Bob Miller instead of lefty Jim Kaat in the third game, which the Twins lost 11-2.

San Rafael Boy Sets Lap Record

Fifteen-year-old Bill McNulty of San Rafael set a lap-record of 7.13 seconds at the Santa Rosa Quarter-Midget race track yesterday, clipping the old record by almost a full second in a qualifying run.

The old record was 8.12 seconds.

McNulty also won the trophy dash but was forced to leave the main event because of a broken steering wheel in his car.

Lamonica Passes Raiders To Win

DENVER (AP) — The weather outside was frightful, but Daryl Lamonica's forward passing was delightful as far as the Oakland Raiders were concerned.

With temperatures far below freezing and snow flurries sweeping a gridiron left muddy by another weekend storm, Lamonica's passes overwhelmed the Denver Broncos 24-14 yesterday. So the Raiders head into another week as the last unbeaten team in the American Football League.

THIRD

This was Denver's third consecutive loss after two season-opening victories.

Improved passing by Denver's Steve Tensi and Floyd Little's smashing runs helped to make it an interesting contest before 38,500 numbed onlookers. Bronco officials said about 11,000 who had bought tickets failed to show up.

A bad break put the Broncos in the hole about two minutes after the second period began. Oakland tackle Art Thoms blocked a hurried punt and his teammate, Bill Budness, scooped the ball on the Denver six.

SHORT PASS

Pete Banaszak caught a short pass as he fell across the goal line, the first of Lamonica's three touchdown passes.

The Broncos came back to tie the score when a short Oakland punt gave them the ball on the Raiders 41. Tensi's pass to Al Denson, one of the league's consistently top receivers, covered the last four yards for the score.

Fred Biletnikoff, Raider receiver, slipped behind the Denver defense late in the third quarter to catch a 20-yard pass and make it 17-7.

SECOND TD

Little's running, including one for 26 yards, and Tensi's 14-yard pass to Mike Haffner produced Denver's second touchdown with Floyd Battering through the middle for the last four.

But his mates responded with an even longer drive, going 80 yards as the veteran quarterback clicked on five passes, the last to Billy Cannon for the clincher.

McLaren, Hulme Win Again

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) — Bruce McLaren and Denis Hulme have continued their domination of 1969 Canadian-American Challenge Cup car racing with spectacular finishes in the Monterey Grand Prix.

They ran one-two yesterday, marking the eighth time they have topped the field in nine Can-Am events this year.

McLaren sped an average 104.8 miles an hour to finish the 152 miles at Laguna Seca in one hour, 27 minutes, 29.77 seconds and pocket first place money of $14,000.

Close behind him was teammate, and Colnbrooks, England neighbor, Hulme, who won $9,500 for second.

Both of them said they had an easy time winning. "We've not been pressed in any of the nine races this year and today was no exception," said McLaren.

They drove McLAren M8B Chevies. Chuck Parsons of Chicago was third in a Lola T162 to earn $7,300.

While McLaren and Hulme have alternated finishing one-two, McLaren holds a commanding lead in points gained at Monterey with only two features to go.

Mat Continues Domination In Sonoma

Soon they may change the name of the Sonoma National Golf Club Championship to the "Palacio Open."

Mat Palacio Jr. of San Rafael, 53-year-old veteran of the amateur golf trail, won the Sonoma crown for the fourth consecutive year yesterday with a 72-hole total of 291, eight strokes ahead of runnerup Bob Van Druff, another Marin County entrant.

In bagging his seventh Sonoma title, Palacio posted a par 72 round yesterday with nines of 37-35. His four rounds in the month-long tournament were 69, 78, 72 and 72.

Van Druff had a 74 yesterday for his 299 while John Flachman of St. Helena was third at 74-301 and Ray Olsen of Sonoma fourth at 77-308.

Palacio, an alumnus of University of San Francisco who says he is a "social golfer, I play for the fun of it," was using the same driver he used to win the California State Amateur championship in 1936, a tournament he has played in 24 times.

San Geronimo Golfer Wins Second Time

Ken Harnquist, 39, of Ross staged an Arnold Palmer-type finish Saturday, roaring from a four-stroke deficit to beat out John Roth by one stroke, 151-152, for his second straight San Geronimo National Golf Club championship.

Harnquist, a data processing consultant, trailed Roth 73-77 at the halfway mark of the two weekend, 36-hole tournament, but picked up five strokes Saturday with a 74 while Roth skidded to a 79.

Harnquist, who was runner-up in 1967 before he won the club title for the first time in 1968, picked up four strokes on the back nine Saturday. He gained a stroke with pars to Roth's bogeys on each of the 14th and 15th holes and shot into the lead on the 17th with a birdie to Roth's bogey. Both parred the final hole.

San Geronimo Golfer Wins Second Time

Ken Harnquist, 39, of Ross staged an Arnold Palmer-type finish Saturday, roaring from a four-stroke deficit to beat out John Roth by one stroke, 151-152, for his second straight San Geronimo National Golf Club championship.

Harnquist, a data processing consultant, trailed Roth 73-77 at the halfway mark of the two weekend, 36-hole tournament, but picked up five strokes Saturday with a 74 while Roth skidded to a 79.

Harnquist, who was runner-up in 1967 before he won the club title for the first time in 1968, picked up four strokes on the back nine Saturday. He gained a stroke with pars to Roth's bogeys on each of the 14th and 15th holes and shot into the lead on the 17th with a birdie to Roth's bogey. Both parred the final hole.

SURPRISE HOCKEY START

Just Look Who's In First Place

CHICAGO (UPI) — Guess who's all alone on top of the Western Division of the National Hockey League?

It happens to be the Oakland Seals who are off to a flying start for the 1969-70 season. Scoring all of their goals in the third period, the Seals came from behind to tie the Pittsburgh Penguins 2-2 Saturday night and then downed the Chicago Black Hawks 2-1 last night.

That gave Oakland three points, one more than St. Louis and Minnesota who are tied for second place. The Seals conclude their season-opening road trip with a game against the Bruins at Boston Garden Wednesday night before returning to the Oakland Arena for their home opener Friday with the Los Angeles Kings.

Center Mike Laughton scored twice within 38 seconds of the third period on power plays, once while Chicago's Jim Pappin was sitting out a penalty for hooking. Bill Hicke set up both goals.

Hicke retrieved a puck at the right side of the net and centered a pass to Laughton who beat goalie Denis DeJordy with a 20-foot wrist shot. Seconds later, Hicke broke away alone down the right wing and fed Laughton a perfect pass which resulted in the decisive tally.

Doug Mohns slapped a 30-foot shot through a screen of players and goalie Gary Smith midway in the final period for Chicago's score. Chicago had failed to score on its first five power play opportunities.

Goals by Bob Dillabough and Norm Ferguson lifted the Seals from a 0-2 deficit to a 2-2 tie with Pittsburgh late in the final period. The Penguins had scored twice on goalie Charlie Hodge while the Seals were shorthanded.

Redwood Gridders Down Tamalpais

By DAVE EINSTEIN

In a prelude to the holiday season, when it's better to give than receive, both Redwood and Tamalpais high schools tried desperately to give the football game away Saturday at Tam High in Mill Valley. The Indians finally succeeded, losing 28 to 19.

Only the incredible ball hawking of Tam's Clifford Hall and the winning instinct of Redwood quarterback Pete Cooney saved the Marin County Athletic League game from athletic bankruptcy.

JUST ONCE

Each team scored legitimately only once. Redwood put together a second quarter drive that covered 49 yards in eight plays. Cooney, who threw for two touchdowns and ran for another, nailed Steve Fleishman with a 39 yarder for the touchdown, which gave the Giants a 16 to 7 halftime lead.

Tam came back in the third quarter when Mark Dawson, who isn't supposed to be able to pass, hit Hall with a 51 yard strike that brought the Indians to within three points. That was the closest they came in the second half.

Hall caught four passes on the afternoon. Two thrown by Dawson, two by Cooney. That gives him four interceptions in two games, and the league lead in that department.

The rest of the scoring went this way:

Redwood scored its first and final touchdowns following nearly identical interceptions deep in Tam territory.

In each case the Giants needed only two plays to score. Jay Kehman got the first on a three yard dive. Cooney, exhibiting more finess with the same result, faked a handoff with less than two minutes left in the game, and rolled to his right four yards to the end zone.

SCORING BOMB

The other Redwood touchdown came after the Giants recovered a fumbled punt on the Indian 27, moments after the Dawson to Hall scoring bomb. Cooney, again wasting little time, hit Ross Gondak on the third play with a 12 yard shot for the touchdown.

Tam likewise scored first and last via the opposition's generosity. In fact, Redwood fumbled on the first play of the game. Tam scored, after seven plays, with Mark Costello sliding in from the three.

Hall contributed the last Tam points as he dashed 64 yards with a stolen pass midway through the final period.

San Rafael Wins Defensive Game

By GARY TISCHLER

For what it's worth, San Rafael High School topped Novato High, 10-0, in a Marin County Athletic League football game that seemed to have been played in the negative zone.

Nevertheless, some 2,000 avid fans showed up for the tussle at Novato High, but got little to become excited over as both teams displayed practically no offensive power.

NO PUNCH

Both the Hornets and the Bulldogs moved the ball sporadically, but it was a little like two prizefighters in a pillow fight, for all the results that came about.

If it weren't for Mike Howard's toe and Lowell Widmer's alertness, Novato and San Rafael might have played to their second scoreless tie in three years.

Howard kicked a 20-yard field goal in the third quarter, the league's third field goal of the year, and Widmer intercepted and ran back a Marti Moroski pass for 25 yards and a touchdown in the final period to account for all the scoring.

ON GROUND

Both teams almost had to stick to the ground for any kind of results, with both Widmer and Moroski having gray afternoons passing. Sophomore Scott Duncan did most of the damage for the Bulldogs while Ray Bresnan churned out 77 yards for the Hornets. Duncan wound up with 86 yards.

The Hornets never really threatened while the Bulldogs made promising motions several times, the best of which was an early Howard field goal that was called back by a penalty.

Marin 'Cats Whitewash Salesian '11'

It was business as usual for Marin Catholic High School's football defense as the Wildcats upped their season record to 2 wins, 1 loss and a tie with a 13-0 blanking of Salesian of Richmond before some 900 fans at Marin Catholic in Kentfield.

The Wildcats scored in the first and final periods to nail down the verdict.

Leo Fahey recovered a Mark Lewis fumble in the end zone to put the capper to a 28-yard drive set up after Rick Rutte blocked a Salesian punt two minutes into the first quarter.

Lewis was the top rusher for the Wildcats, picking up 81 yards in 16 carries.

Late Touchdown Wins For Sonoma Staters

By STEVE WYNNE

PETALUMA — The Sonoma tate College Cossack made it two in a row Saturday as they gained a last-minute 21-14 win over the Cal Aggie JV's at Petaluma's Durst Field.

The win was the Cossacks second in the initial season of the school's football program.

SSC defensive back John Bussman picked off a Scott Burchiel pass and raced 30 yards to paydirt to climax an afternoon of clutch defensive play by both teams.

EARLY LEAD

Sonoma State jumped to an early lead when halfback Herman Manuel sparked a 59-yard Cossack drive the first time SSC handled the ball. Manuel scrambled for 16 yards on two carries, then swept right end on a reverse for 49 yards and a 6-0 Sonoma State lead. Tom Hickman booted the PAT for 7-0.

The Aggies came right back to score as they drove 62 yards in six plays after returning the SSC kickoff to their own 38. Mike Abart hauled in a 13-yard pass from Vern Paine for the score. The two-point try failed and the Cossacks retained a 7-6 advantage.

Sonoma State scored again late in the first stanza after Bob Sears, former Novato High School player returned an Aggie punt 55 yards to the Cal 40. SSC quarterback Bill Cox elected to stay on the ground, using the running of Manuel and fullback Bernard Jones to drive the ball home. Jones scored on a trap play from the one and Hickman again kicked the PAT for 14-6.

TIE SCORE

The Aggies knotted it at 14-all before halftime as they scored on a pass from Burchiel to Bob Bellotti covering 46 yards. Burchiel passed to Mike Tenerowicz for the two-point conversion and a tie.

The second hald was a defensive stalemate until the Cossacks drove deep into Aggie territory late in the fourth quarter. Cal halted the Cossacks drive at its own 3 yard line and was trying to work out of there when Bussman hauled down the game-winning interception.

The Cossacks seem to have recovered completely from a 65-0 pasting at the hands of Arizona Western in their first football game ever a month ago. They have defeated two Far West Conference (which they will enter on a varsity level next season) junior varsity elevens.

Cadets Bombed By Tomales

In a season that has been strictly a disaster, the Cadets manage to show up for their funeral regularly.

The Cadets were buried again, without too much ceremony, with powerful Tomales High School doing the honors, 40-0, at San Rafael Military Academy Saturday before some 300 fans.

This time, the Cadets, who have yet to score a touchdown, came out ahead in yardage, but not by much. They gained 80 yards passing, lost 66 rushing for a net total of plus 14.

Meanwhile Tomales jumped to a 32-0 half-time lead and coasted the rest of the way.

Quarterback Fred Rodoni completed four of nine passes for 86 yards and three touchdowns; Ron Petroni, playing only for a half, scored twice and gained 172 yards in eight carries and Ron Valloza caught two touchdown passes to pace the Tomales onslaught.

Prep Eleven In Dramatic Victory

PETALUMA — Quarterback Steve Wlodarzcyk hit Mike Stephens with a 46-yard scoring pass with 57 seconds remaining Saturday night to give Rancho Cotate High School a dramatic 19-14 North Bay League Section II football win over the Healdsburg Greyhounds at Durst Field.

Healdsburg had led, 14-7 in the final period after Rancho Cotate had walked off the field at halftime with a 7-0 lead. But Mike Wlodarczyk made it 14-13 with a one-yard blast and then the Wlodarczyk-Stephens combo won it.

That gave the Cougars their first league win in as many outings to put them in second place behind league-leading Cardinal Newman High of Santa Rosa. Healdsburg is now 0-2.

In other NBL-II games over the weekend, Percy Grogans scored three touchdowns and set up two others as league-leading Cardinal Newman remained unbeaten with a 32-14 win over Sonoma and Analy pulled the upset of the week as it stunned Piner of Santa Roas, 6-0. In a non-league game, El Molino of Forestville, downed St. Helena, 23-6.

SURPRISE HOCKEY START

Just Look Who's In First Place

It happens to be the Oakland Seals who are off to a flying start for the 1969-70 season. Scoring all of their goals in the third period, the Seals came from behind to tie the Pittsburgh Penguins 2-2 Saturday night and then downed the Chicago Black Hawks 2-1 last night.

That gave Oakland three points, one more than St. Louis and Minnesota who are tied for second place. The Seals conclude their season-opening road trip with a game against the Bruins at Boston Garden Wednesday night before returning to the Oakland Arena for their home opener Friday with the Los Angeles Kings.

Center Mike Laughton scored twice within 38 seconds of the third period on power plays, once while Chicago's Jim Pappin was sitting out a penalty for hooking. Bill Hicke set up both goals.

Hicke retrieved a puck at the right side of the net and centered a pass to Laughton who beat goalie Denis DeJordy with a 20-foot wrist shot. Seconds later, Hicke broke away alone down the right wing and fed Laughton a perfect pass which resulted in the decisive tally.

Doug Mohns slapped a 30-foot shot through a screen of players and goalie Gary Smith midway in the final period for Chicago's score. Chicago had failed to score on its first five power play opportunities.

Goals by Bob Dillabough and Norm Ferguson lifted the Seals from a 0-2 deficit to a 2-2 tie with Pittsburgh late in the final period. The Penguins had scored twice on goalie Charlie Hodge while the Seals were shorthanded.

Redwood Gridders Down Tamalpais

By DAVE EINSTEIN

In a prelude to the holiday season, when it's better to give than receive, both Redwood and Tamalpais high schools tried desperately to give the football game away Saturday at Tam High in Mill Valley. The Indians finally succeeded, losing 28 to 19.

Only the incredible ball hawking of Tam's Clifford Hall and the winning instinct of Redwood quarterback Pete Cooney saved the Marin County Athletic League game from athletic bankruptcy.

JUST ONCE

Each team scored legitimately only once. Redwood put together a second quarter drive that covered 49 yards in eight plays. Cooney, who threw for two touchdowns and ran for another, nailed Steve Fleishman with a 39 yarder for the touchdown, which gave the Giants a 16 to 7 halftime lead.

Tam came back in the third quarter when Mark Dawson, who isn't supposed to be able to pass, hit Hall with a 51 yard strike that brought the Indians to within three points. That was the closest they came in the second half.

Hall caught four passes on the afternoon. Two thrown by Dawson, two by Cooney. That gives him four interceptions in two games, and the league lead in that department.

The rest of the scoring went this way:

Redwood scored its first and final touchdowns following nearly identical interceptions deep in Tam territory.

In each case the Giants needed only two plays to score. Jay Kehman got the first on a three yard dive. Cooney, exhibiting more finess with the same result, faked a handoff with less than two minutes left in the game, and rolled to his right four yards to the end zone.

SCORING BOMB

The other Redwood touchdown came after the Giants recovered a fumbled punt on the Indian 27, moments after the Dawson to Hall scoring bomb. Cooney, again wasting little time, hit Ross Gondak on the third play with a 12 yard shot for the touchdown.

Tam likewise scored first and last via the opposition's generosity. In fact, Redwood fumbled on the first play of the game. Tam scored, after seven plays, with Mark Costello sliding in from the three.

Hall contributed the last Tam points as he dashed 64 yards with a stolen pass midway through the final period.

San Rafael Wins Defensive Game

By GARY TISCHLER

For what it's worth, San Rafael High School topped Novato High, 10-0, in a Marin County Athletic League football game that seemed to have been played in the negative zone.

Nevertheless, some 2,000 avid fans showed up for the tussle at Novato High, but got little to become excited over as both teams displayed practically no offensive power.

NO PUNCH

Both the Hornets and the Bulldogs moved the ball sporadically, but it was a little like two prizefighters in a pillow fight, for all the results that came about.

If it weren't for Mike Howard's toe and Lowell Widmer's alertness, Novato and San Rafael might have played to their second scoreless tie in three years.

Howard kicked a 20-yard field goal in the third quarter, the league's third field goal of the year, and Widmer intercepted and ran back a Marti Moroski pass for 25 yards and a touchdown in the final period to account for all the scoring.

ON GROUND

Both teams almost had to stick to the ground for any kind of results, with both Widmer and Moroski having gray afternoons passing. Sophomore Scott Duncan did most of the damage for the Bulldogs while Ray Bresnan churned out 77 yards for the Hornets. Duncan wound up with 86 yards.

The Hornets never really threatened while the Bulldogs made promising motions several times, the best of which was an early Howard field goal that was called back by a penalty.

Marin 'Cats Whitewash Salesian '11'

It was business as usual for Marin Catholic High School's football defense as the Wildcats upped their season record to 2 wins, 1 loss and a tie with a 13-0 blanking of Salesian of Richmond before some 900 fans at Marin Catholic in Kentfield.

The Wildcats scored in the first and final periods to nail down the verdict.

Leo Fahey recovered a Mark Lewis fumble in the end zone to put the capper to a 28-yard drive set up after Rick Rutte blocked a Salesian punt two minutes into the first quarter.

Lewis was the top rusher for the Wildcats, picking up 81 yards in 16 carries.

Late Touchdown Wins For Sonoma Staters

By STEVE WYNNE

PETALUMA — The Sonoma tate College Cossack made it two in a row Saturday as they gained a last-minute 21-14 win over the Cal Aggie JV's at Petaluma's Durst Field.

The win was the Cossacks second in the initial season of the school's football program.

SSC defensive back John Bussman picked off a Scott Burchiel pass and raced 30 yards to paydirt to climax an afternoon of clutch defensive play by both teams.

EARLY LEAD

Sonoma State jumped to an early lead when halfback Herman Manuel sparked a 59-yard Cossack drive the first time SSC handled the ball. Manuel scrambled for 16 yards on two carries, then swept right end on a reverse for 49 yards and a 6-0 Sonoma State lead. Tom Hickman booted the PAT for 7-0.

The Aggies came right back to score as they drove 62 yards in six plays after returning the SSC kickoff to their own 38. Mike Abart hauled in a 13-yard pass from Vern Paine for the score. The two-point try failed and the Cossacks retained a 7-6 advantage.

Sonoma State scored again late in the first stanza after Bob Sears, former Novato High School player returned an Aggie punt 55 yards to the Cal 40. SSC quarterback Bill Cox elected to stay on the ground, using the running of Manuel and fullback Bernard Jones to drive the ball home. Jones scored on a trap play from the one and Hickman again kicked the PAT for 14-6.

TIE SCORE

The Aggies knotted it at 14-all before halftime as they scored on a pass from Burchiel to Bob Bellotti covering 46 yards. Burchiel passed to Mike Tenerowicz for the two-point conversion and a tie.

The second hald was a defensive stalemate until the Cossacks drove deep into Aggie territory late in the fourth quarter. Cal halted the Cossacks drive at its own 3 yard line and was trying to work out of there when Bussman hauled down the game-winning interception.

The Cossacks seem to have recovered completely from a 65-0 pasting at the hands of Arizona Western in their first football game ever a month ago. They have defeated two Far West Conference (which they will enter on a varsity level next season) junior varsity elevens.

Cadets Bombed By Tomales

In a season that has been strictly a disaster, the Cadets manage to show up for their funeral regularly.

The Cadets were buried again, without too much ceremony, with powerful Tomales High School doing the honors, 40-0, at San Rafael Military Academy Saturday before some 300 fans.

This time, the Cadets, who have yet to score a touchdown, came out ahead in yardage, but not by much. They gained 80 yards passing, lost 66 rushing for a net total of plus 14.

Meanwhile Tomales jumped to a 32-0 half-time lead and coasted the rest of the way.

Quarterback Fred Rodoni completed four of nine passes for 86 yards and three touchdowns; Ron Petroni, playing only for a half, scored twice and gained 172 yards in eight carries and Ron Valloza caught two touchdown passes to pace the Tomales onslaught.

Prep Eleven In Dramatic Victory

PETALUMA — Quarterback Steve Wlodarzcyk hit Mike Stephens with a 46-yard scoring pass with 57 seconds remaining Saturday night to give Rancho Cotate High School a dramatic 19-14 North Bay League Section II football win over the Healdsburg Greyhounds at Durst Field.

Healdsburg had led, 14-7 in the final period after Rancho Cotate had walked off the field at halftime with a 7-0 lead. But Mike Wlodarczyk made it 14-13 with a one-yard blast and then the Wlodarczyk-Stephens combo won it.

That gave the Cougars their first league win in as many outings to put them in second place behind league-leading Cardinal Newman High of Santa Rosa. Healdsburg is now 0-2.

In other NBL-II games over the weekend, Percy Grogans scored three touchdowns and set up two others as league-leading Cardinal Newman remained unbeaten with a 32-14 win over Sonoma and Analy pulled the upset of the week as it stunned Piner of Santa Roas, 6-0. In a non-league game, El Molino of Forestville, downed St. Helena, 23-6.

AFL ROUNDUP

Could Be Slippery Title Road

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Houston Oilers found that out yesterday when a heavy rain caused them endless problems at Kansas City and helped the Chiefs to a 24-0 victory which knocked the Oilers out of sole possession of first place in the American Football League's Eastern Division.

The only touchdown Kansas City needed came early in the first quarter when Houston punter Roy Gerela fumbled the wet ball on his own two-yard line and the Chiefs' Bob Stein recovered, setting up a two-yard TD run by Mike Garrett.

The shutout was the first ever suffered by Houston in its six seasons in the AFL, and the loss dropped the Oilers into a first place tie with the New York Jets. Kansas City boosted its record to 4-1 and remained a half-game behind Oakland in the Western Division.

Oakland whipped Denver, 24-14, and New York defeated Cincinnati, 21-7, in the only other Sunday action. San Diego beat Miami, 21-14, and Buffalo whipped Boston 23-16, in Saturday night games.

Joe Namath hit George Sauer with a 14-yard scoring pass and scored once himself on a one-yard sneak in pacing the Jets' triumph. Paul Crane, a linebacker, also tallied for the Jets on a 12-yard run with a blocked punt while Emerson Boozer gained 129 yards rushing in the best ground-gaining performance of his career.

John Hadl threw touchdown passes of 40 and 26 yards to Gary Garrison in the second quarter to spark San Diego's victory over Miami.

NFL HIGHLIGHTS

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lem Barney, the Detroit Lions' All-National Football League defensive back, should be happy the Green Bay Packers weren't picking on him. As it was, they practically turned him into a one-man disaster area.

"We weren't working on Barney as an individual," Green Bay Coach Phil Bengston said yesterday after the Packers whipped the Lions 28-17. "We just worked on certain defenses, and Barney was the victim."

That is putting it mildly.

Carroll Dale, Barney's responsibility in Detroit's man-on-man defense, caught seven passes from Bart Starr for 167 yards and two touchdowns. Besides the scoring strikes of 40 and four yards, the Packers got touchdowns on short runs by Travis Williams and Dave Hampton as they ran their record to 3-1 and made Detroit 2-2.

In other NFL action, Minnesota, 3-1, drubbed Chicago, 0-4, 31-0 and remained in a first-place tie with Green Bay in the Central Division; Los Angeles, 4-0, edged San Francisco, 0-3-1, 27-21; Dallas, 4-0, outlasted Atlanta, 1-3, 24-17; the New York Giants, 3-1, nipped Pittsburgh, 1-3, 10-7; Cleveland, 3-1, topped New Orleans, 0-4, 27-17, and Washington, 2-1-1, downed St. Louis, 2-2, 33-17.

Philadelphia, 1-2 plays at Baltimore, 1-2, tonight in a game postponed from yesterday because of the World Series.

The Minnesota defense held Chicago's great Gale Sayers to 15 yards in 13 carries and set up touchdowns with a blocked punt, a blocked field goal and an intercepted pass to record its first shutout since the Vikings entered the NFL in 1961.

Craig Morton completed 15 of 20 passes for 239 yards and a touchdown as Dallas, first in the Capital Division, built up a 24-3 lead early in the final period and then held off Atlanta.

Fran Tarkenton's seven-yard touchdown pass to Joe Morrison, a 14-yard field goal by Pete Gogolak and a defense that once held Pittsburgh on a fourth-and-goal situation on the New York two kept the Giants in a first-place tie with Cleveland in the Century Division.

Leroy Kelly scored two touchdowns, one on a four-yard pass from Bill Nelson in the second quarter when Cleveland rolled up 20 points, in the Browns' victory over New Orleans.

Washington rode the arm of Sonny Jurgensen and the foot of Curt Knight to victory over St. Louis. Jurgensen threw two touchdown passes and Knight kicked field goals 37, 28, 28 and eight yards.

Fans Still Talking About Pac-8 Thriller

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Pacific-8 Conference reaches the halfway mark in its football schedule Saturday with three schools unbeaten in league play and two of those, California and UCLA clashing in a nationally televised game in Memorial Coliseum.

Southern California, which kept its slate clean on a last-second field goal at the Coliseum Saturday in beating Stanford 26-24, travels to Notre Dame.

Washington, looking for its first victory in four starts, entertains Oregon State, Washington State is at Stanford and Oregon's Ducks fly with the Air Force Academy Falcons at Colorado Springs.

THRILLER

The USC-Stanford thriller was the conversation piece for the Pac-8 Monday morning quarterbacks today. The loss was a heartbreaker for the Indians who got off to a 12-0 lead and held a 24-23 edge when Steve Horowitz kicked a 37-yard field goal with 1:03 remaining.

But instead of seeing Stanford whip the Trojans for the first time since 1957, the 82,812 fans saw Ron Ayala boot a 34-yard field goal which made it through the uprights by about half a foot with the clock showing 0:00.

UCLA, which has a 5-0 overall record to Southern Cal's 4-0, and which has scored the most total points and allowed the fewest of any Pac-8 team, crushed Washington State at Spokane 46-14.

THREE TDs

California, 3-1 overall, picked up its first Pac-8 victory by thumping Washington 44-13 at Berkeley. It was the Huskies' fourth loss in as many starts, including two in the loop.

But the Golden Bears lost their new quarterback star, Steve Curtis, who suffered a broken clavicle when he was tackled in the second quarter. He will be out for the season.

Gary Fowler carried for Cal touchdowns on runs of one, five and 57 yards, and Randy Wersching kicked a trio of field goals from 40, 27 and 41 yards.

FUMBLES

Oregon State was idle Saturday, while Oregon fumbled its way to a 36-34 loss at Eugene, Ore. to San Jose State, which had lost three straight and was an underdog.

Halfback Bobby Moore scored 20 of Oregon State's points with three touchdowns and a two-point conversion pass reception. Quarterback Ivan Lippi ran for two San Jose touchdowns and passed to Art Ellis for another.

Oregon's loss brought the Pac-8's record against nonconference foes to 12-7 for the season thus far.

St. Vincent's Gridders Rally For Victory

St. Vincent's of Petaluma, bottled up for much of the first half, broke through in the final period to score a 12-2 football victory over Willits High School in Mendocino Saturday.

St. Vincent's had trailed, 2-0, for three quarters after Willits scored a safety by tackling quarterback Gene Benedetti in the end-zone in the first period.

Benedetti, directed the final-period onslaught. Chris Bacher gave St. Vincent's the lead with a one-yard plunge and Steve Johnson clinched it, catching a Benedetti pass for a seven-yard touchdown.

Benedetti, a sophomore, completed 13 of 22 passes for 221 yards and Johnson caught 11 of the passes for 220 yards. St. Vincent's held Willits to minus 40 yards total offense while piling up 387 yards.

AFL ROUNDUP

Could Be Slippery Title Road

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Houston Oilers found that out yesterday when a heavy rain caused them endless problems at Kansas City and helped the Chiefs to a 24-0 victory which knocked the Oilers out of sole possession of first place in the American Football League's Eastern Division.

The only touchdown Kansas City needed came early in the first quarter when Houston punter Roy Gerela fumbled the wet ball on his own two-yard line and the Chiefs' Bob Stein recovered, setting up a two-yard TD run by Mike Garrett.

The shutout was the first ever suffered by Houston in its six seasons in the AFL, and the loss dropped the Oilers into a first place tie with the New York Jets. Kansas City boosted its record to 4-1 and remained a half-game behind Oakland in the Western Division.

Oakland whipped Denver, 24-14, and New York defeated Cincinnati, 21-7, in the only other Sunday action. San Diego beat Miami, 21-14, and Buffalo whipped Boston 23-16, in Saturday night games.

Joe Namath hit George Sauer with a 14-yard scoring pass and scored once himself on a one-yard sneak in pacing the Jets' triumph. Paul Crane, a linekbacker, also tallied for the Jets on a 12-yard run with a blocked punt while Emerson Boozer gained 129 yards rushing in the best ground-gaining performance of his career.

John Hadl threw touchdown passes of 40 and 26 yards to Gary Garrison in the second quarter to spark San Diego's victory over Miami.

NFL HIGHLIGHTS

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lem Barney, the Detroit Lions' All-National Football League defensive back, should be happy the Green Bay Packers weren't picking on him. As it was, they practically turned him into a one-man disaster area.

"We weren't working on Barney as an individual," Green Bay Coach Phil Bengston said yesterday after the Packers whipped the Lions 28-17. "We just worked on certain defenses, and Barney was the victim."

That is putting it mildly.

Carroll Dale, Barney's responsibility in Detroit's man-on-man defense, caught seven passes from Bart Starr for 167 yards and two touchdowns. Besides the scoring strikes of 40 and four yards, the Packers got touchdowns on short runs by Travis Williams and Dave Hampton as they ran their record to 3-1 and made Detroit 2-2.

In other NFL action, Minnesota, 3-1, drubbed Chicago, 0-4, 31-0 and remained in a first-place tie with Green Bay in the Central Division; Los Angeles, 4-0, edged San Francisco, 0-3-1, 27-21; Dallas, 4-0, outlasted Atlanta, 1-3, 24-17; the New York Giants, 3-1, nipped Pittsburgh, 1-3, 10-7; Cleveland, 3-1, topped New Orleans, 0-4, 27-17, and Washington, 2-1-1, downed St. Louis, 2-2, 33-17.

Philadelphia, 1-2 plays at Baltimore, 1-2, tonight in a game postponed from yesterday because of the World Series.

The Minnesota defense held Chicago's great Gale Sayers to 15 yards in 13 carries and set up touchdowns with a blocked punt, a blocked field goal and an intercepted pass to record its first shutout since the Vikings entered the NFL in 1961.

Craig Morton completed 15 of 20 passes for 239 yards and a touchdown as Dallas, first in the Capital Division, built up a 24-3 lead early in the final period and then held off Atlanta.

Fran Tarkenton's seven-yard touchdown pass to Joe Morrison, a 14-yard field goal by Pete Gogolak and a defense that once held Pittsburgh on a fourth-and-goal situation on the New York two kept the Giants in a first-place tie with Cleveland in the Century Division.

Leroy Kelly scored two touchdowns, one on a four-yard pass from Bill Nelson in the second quarter when Cleveland rolled up 20 points, in the Browns' victory over New Orleans.

Washington rode the arm of Sonny Jurgensen and the foot of Curt Knight to victory over St. Louis. Jurgensen threw two touchdown passes and Knight kicked field goals 37, 28, 28 and eight yards.

St. Vincent's of Petaluma, bottled up for much of the first half, broke through in the final period to score a 12-2 football victory over Willits High School in Mendocino Saturday.

St. Vincent's had trailed, 2-0, for three quarters after Willits scored a safety by tackling quarterback Gene Benedetti in the end-zone in the first period.

Benedetti, directed the final-period onslaught. Chris Bacher gave St. Vincent's the lead with a one-yard plunge and Steve Johnson clinched it, catching a Benedetti pass for a seven-yard touchdown.

Benedetti, a sophomore, completed 13 of 22 passes for 221 yards and Johnson caught 11 of the passes for 220 yards. St. Vincent's held Willits to minus 40 yards total offense while piling up 387 yards.

W — Benedetti, tackled in end-zone for safety.

SV — Bacher, 1-yard run (run failed)

Never Underestimate The Power Of A Small Trump

If you take all your aces and kings, when you are a defender, nobody will tear the epaulettes off your shoulders or break your sword over his knee; but by the same token nobody will pin medals on your chest or give you the key to the city. You may not win such honors even if you manage to get the setting trick with an eight-spot, but at least this columnist will put in a good word for you with the medal and key people.

BRIGHTENS UP

West opened the king of spades and brightened when he saw his partner's ten. West continued with the ace of spades, but slumped back in his chair when all hands followed suit. There was no advantage in leading a third spade, West said to himself, because declarer would simply overruff his partner.

West switched to the eight of clubs, hoping for some sort of minor miracle. Nothing miraculous took place. Declarer won the club in dummy and led the ten of hearts for a finesse.

The trump finesse was sure to work whether or not East played the queen of hearts on dummy's ten. South was able to draw three rounds of trumps and could then give up a diamond to win the game and rubber.

MISSED OPPORTUNITY

West missed his chance to defeat the contract because he didn't see the power of his eight of trumps. After taking the top spades, West should cash the ace of diamonds and then lead a third spade.

East would then defeat the contract by ruffing with the nine of hearts, knowing that he would be overruffed by declarer. The nine of hearts would drive out South's jack, and South would then be able to lead out the ace and king to pick up the queen.

AT THE END

But at the end of this process, West's eight of hearts would be the top trump and would eventually take the setting trick.

It's unusual to gain from putting your partner's trumps in the middle, but there are times when this maneuver offers the only hope.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid three spades.

There is no crime in bidding two clubs with the intention of raising spades later, but this gives the next player to bid two of a red suit. You would not want to let the opponents find a cheap sacrifice bid of five of a red suit.

City Council Has A Deep Problem

LEICESTER, England (AP) — The city of Leicester has bought a hole in the ground and now is wondering what to do with it.

British Railways, government-owned, looked around its cupboard and found a 1,796-yard long tunnel from Leicester to Glenfield, unused. The rail line through it has been abandoned for years.

So B. R. put it up for sale for five pounds (12 dollars).

Saturday's Answer

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Steady Nerves Are Needed By Investors

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Would we be farther ahead if we sold our rental property (at times a problem) and invested the $15,000 profit in stocks? We like Standard Oil of New Jersey because of its Alaskan holdings. You often tell people to diversify; I'd rather put it all in one issue for a bigger impact on my stock. — C. H.

A. There are over 200 million shares of Jersey Standard outstanding. Of these, approximately 30,000 change hands daily. Your contemplated $15,000 investment would purchase 200 shares — less than 1 per cent of total daily volume — creating little or no impact on share price.

The investment merits of Jersey Standard — a long-time favorite of mine — have certainly been enhanced by its participation in the Alaskan oil bonanza. In the recent lease auction Jersey added 3 new blocks, for bids totaling $41 million, to its substantial North Slope acreage. In addition, participation through General American Oil was acquired in four other blocks. The icebreaker tanker S.S. Manhattan, chartered by subsidiary Humble Oil, successfully navigated the Northwest Passage, and plans for adding six similar vessels are under discussion.

Yet with all these bullish developments share price dropped two points following the auction. If your temperament is such that the erratic action of the stock market is more acceptable than the unpredictable behavior of tenants and taxes then I would endorse the change.

Q. I'm a greenhorn at investing but would like to put $200 a month into stocks. My first investment, Chadbourn Inc., was made a week ago. What is your opinion on this company? — T. B.

A. Chadbourn's management has estimated that results for the year ended July 31 were up sharply. Sales are projected at $67 million from $49 million and earnings at 70 cents a share from 39 cents. The pace of acquisition shows no sign of abating. Acquired companies have fallen into major categories: yarn consumers and yarn producers. Additional purchases in the 13-14 range are suggested.

Dutch Taxes Up

THE HAGUE (UPI)—The Dutch Treasury in 1968 received a total of $6,108,000,000 in taxes, an increase of 10.5 per cent over 1967.

FOR SAFER HOMES

Doing "good turns" throughout the day is the job of Juanita Reynoso, a key employee who checks cylinder house locks at Kwikset Division of Emhart Corp. at Anaheim. Emhart officials say that easily sprung locks encourage the amateur burglar. (UPI Telephoto)

Blue Chips Pace A Sharp Advance

NEW YORK (UPI)—Blue chips paced a sharp stock market advance today in active trading. Analysts noted that Wednesday's "Vietnam Moratorium" has been a spur to new peace hopes on Wall Street.

Volume of more than 12,500,000 shares exceeded Friday's pace.

Steels attracted demand as steel shipments this year are expected to set a record.

Oils swung in both directions, with some issues moving a point or more. Conglomerates showed considerable strength in a number of instances, but gold mining shares, which generally run counter to the market's trend, were under pressure.

Prices also swung higher on the American Stock Exchange in moderately active trading.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

Bank of America Dedication Slated Thursday In Petaluma

Once again there will be two branches of Bank of America in Petaluma when the bank dedicates its new East Petaluma office in the Washington Square Shopping Center next Thursday evening.

It will become the first banking facility ever located on the east side of town and will officially open for business next Monday morning. Michael L. Serpillo will be the manager.

Thursday evening activities, to be attended by bank and local officials, will include a public open house from 7 to 9 p.m. There will be a contest to guess the age of a redwood tree by counting its rings. A picture of the giant redwood will be in the lobby. First, second and third prizes are $50, $25 and $10 savings accounts respectively.

For many years Petaluma had two Bank of America branches, located directly across the street from each other downtown. Both were combined into a modern, new building earlier this year.

THERE HAS BEEN a sale of Mill Valley Bootery at 32 Miller Avenue, Mill Valley.

Gordon Crook has sold out to Frank J. Warren, who has stores in Stockton and Manteca. There will be no noticeable change in the store's operation. Same lines will be carried. Manager King Browne and salesman Dana Rudebeck will continue working here. Store name will remain the same.

Crook has had the business since 1965. Previously he was a salesman for 12 years with International Shoe Co.

E. MORELAND THOMPSON of Corte Madera has joined Di Giorgio Corp. as corporate tax manager and will also act as liaison in the administration of local taxes of Di Giorgio subsidiary companies. For 20 years he was with Kern County Land Co., most recently as tax manager and assistant treasurer.

JOHN T. ELLIS of Greenbrae has joined Dempsey-Tegeler and Co., member of the New York Stock Exchange, as a registered representative. For the past six years he has managed Cost Plus Imports in San Francisco.

BARRY H. BOVEE, executive vice president of Pacific Coast Utilities Service, Inc. at Northgate Industrial Park, has been elected president of the Government Service Contractors Association.

FORMER TIBURON RESIDENT Vincent E. Hughes has been named executive vice president of Peninsula National Bank in Burlingame. He and his family now live in Belmont.

MRS. EMELIE L. WILSON of Marinwood, district manager and school-library representative for Field Enterprises Educational Corp., has been awarded the company's 100-Order Club pin for her fiscal year production. Field Enterprises is publisher of World Book Encyclopedia and Childcraft.

DURING OCTOBER, Redwood Bank in San Rafael is displaying the oil paintings of Mrs. Jean Victor of Mill Valley, painter, art teacher and member of the Marin Society of Artists and the Terra Linda Art Association.

ANNUAL IMPORTED CAR SHOW sponsored by the San Francisco Imported Car Dealers Association will run for six days beginning Nov. 4 at Brooks Hall in San Francisco. Latest model cars manufactured in nearly 50 factories in six foreign countries will be on display. Every major imported car maker will be represented. On exhibit will also be many of the world's glamor cars and classic Concours winners.

THERE SHOULD BE a change of ownership at Rudy's Liquors, 1835 Fourth Street, San Rafael, about the first of November.

Ira Wiggam, who has had the store more than five years, is selling out to Raymond F. Sciutti of San Rafael. He plans on taking a long vacation before going back into business.

Sciutti, formerly in stocks and bonds in San Francisco, will continue to operate Rudy's under the same name.

RICHARD A. OLRICH of San Rafael has been promoted to manager of Wells Fargo Bank's Greenbrae office, succeeding Clinton Jones of Kentfield, who has been assigned to the head office. Olrich joined the bank in 1964 and successively has been credit officer in Petaluma, assistant manager of the 447 Sutter Street office in San Francisco and assistant manager of the Third and Brannan office there.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Steady Nerves Are Needed By Investors

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Would we be farther ahead if we sold our rental property (at times a problem) and invested the $15,000 profit in stocks? We like Standard Oil of New Jersey because of its Alaskan holdings. You often tell people to diversify; I'd rather put it all in one issue for a bigger impact on my stock. — C. H.

A. There are over 200 million shares of Jersey Standard outstanding. Of these, approximately 30,000 change hands daily. Your contemplated $15,000 investment would purchase 200 shares — less than 1 per cent of total daily volume — creating little or no impact on share price.

The investment merits of Jersey Standard — a long-time favorite of mine — have certainly been enhanced by its participation in the Alaskan oil bonanza. In the recent lease auction Jersey added 3 new blocks, for bids totaling $41 million, to its substantial North Slope acreage. In addition, participation through General American Oil was acquired in four other blocks. The icebreaker tanker S.S. Manhattan, chartered by subsidiary Humble Oil, successfully navigated the Northwest Passage, and plans for adding six similar vessels are under discussion.

Yet with all these bullish developments share price dropped two points following the auction. If your temperament is such that the erratic action of the stock market is more acceptable than the unpredictable behavior of tenants and taxes then I would endorse the change.

Q. I'm a greenhorn at investing but would like to put $200 a month into stocks. My first investment, Chadbourn Inc., was made a week ago. What is your opinion on this company? — T. B.

A. Chadbourn's management has estimated that results for the year ended July 31 were up sharply. Sales are projected at $67 million from $49 million and earnings at 70 cents a share from 39 cents. The pace of acquisition shows no sign of abating. Acquired companies have fallen into major categories: yarn consumers and yarn producers. Additional purchases in the 13-14 range are suggested.

Dutch Taxes Up

THE HAGUE (UPI)—The Dutch Treasury in 1968 received a total of $6,108,000,000 in taxes, an increase of 10.5 per cent over 1967.

FOR SAFER HOMES

Doing "good turns" throughout the day is the job of Juanita Reynoso, a key employee who checks cylinder house locks at Kwikset Division of Emhart Corp. at Anaheim. Emhart officials say that easily sprung locks encourage the amateur burglar. (UPI Telephoto)

Blue Chips Pace A Sharp Advance

NEW YORK (UPI)—Blue chips paced a sharp stock market advance today in active trading. Analysts noted that Wednesday's "Vietnam Moratorium" has been a spur to new peace hopes on Wall Street.

Volume of more than 12,500,000 shares exceeded Friday's pace.

Steels attracted demand as steel shipments this year are expected to set a record.

Oils swung in both directions, with some issues moving a point or more. Conglomerates showed considerable strength in a number of instances, but gold mining shares, which generally run counter to the market's trend, were under pressure.

Bank of America Dedication Slated Thursday In Petaluma

Once again there will be two branches of Bank of America in Petaluma when the bank dedicates its new East Petaluma office in the Washington Square Shopping Center next Thursday evening.

It will become the first banking facility ever located on the east side of town and will officially open for business next Monday morning. Michael L. Serpillo will be the manager.

Thursday evening activities, to be attended by bank and local officials, will include a public open house from 7 to 9 p.m. There will be a contest to guess the age of a redwood tree by counting its rings. A picture of the giant redwood will be in the lobby. First, second and third prizes are $50, $25 and $10 savings accounts respectively.

For many years Petaluma had two Bank of America branches, located directly across the street from each other downtown. Both were combined into a modern, new building earlier this year.

THERE HAS BEEN a sale of Mill Valley Bootery at 32 Miller Avenue, Mill Valley.

Gordon Crook has sold out to Frank J. Warren, who has stores in Stockton and Manteca. There will be no noticeable change in the store's operation. Same lines will be carried. Manager King Browne and salesman Dana Rudebeck will continue working here. Store name will remain the same.

Crook has had the business since 1965. Previously he was a salesman for 12 years with International Shoe Co.

E. MORELAND THOMPSON of Corte Madera has joined Di Giorgio Corp. as corporate tax manager and will also act as liaison in the administration of local taxes of Di Giorgio subsidiary companies. For 20 years he was with Kern County Land Co., most recently as tax manager and assistant treasurer.

JOHN T. ELLIS of Greenbrae has joined Dempsey-Tegeler and Co., member of the New York Stock Exchange, as a registered representative. For the past six years he has managed Cost Plus Imports in San Francisco.

BARRY H. BOVEE, executive vice president of Pacific Coast Utilities Service, Inc. at Northgate Industrial Park, has been elected president of the Government Service Contractors Association.

FORMER TIBURON RESIDENT Vincent E. Hughes has been named executive vice president of Peninsula National Bank in Burlingame. He and his family now live in Belmont.

MRS. EMELIE L. WILSON of Marinwood, district manager and school-library representative for Field Enterprises Educational Corp., has been awarded the company's 100-Order Club pin for her fiscal year production. Field Enterprises is publisher of World Book Encyclopedia and Childcraft.

DURING OCTOBER, Redwood Bank in San Rafael is displaying the oil paintings of Mrs. Jean Victor of Mill Valley, painter, art teacher and member of the Marin Society of Artists and the Terra Linda Art Association.

ANNUAL IMPORTED CAR SHOW sponsored by the San Francisco Imported Car Dealers Association will run for six days beginning Nov. 4 at Brooks Hall in San Francisco. Latest model cars manufactured in nearly 50 factories in six foreign countries will be on display. Every major imported car maker will be represented. On exhibit will also be many of the world's glamor cars and classic Concours winners.

THERE SHOULD BE a change of ownership at Rudy's Liquors, 1835 Fourth Street, San Rafael, about the first of November.

Ira Wiggam, who has had the store more than five years, is selling out to Raymond F. Sciutti of San Rafael. He plans on taking a long vacation before going back into business.

Sciutti, formerly in stocks and bonds in San Francisco, will continue to operate Rudy's under the same name.

RICHARD A. OLRICH of San Rafael has been promoted to manager of Wells Fargo Bank's Greenbrae office, succeeding Clinton Jones of Kentfield, who has been assigned to the head office. Olrich joined the bank in 1964 and successively has been credit officer in Petaluma, assistant manager of the 447 Sutter Street office in San Francisco and assistant manager of the Third and Brannan office there.

Deep Concerns Behind Haircut Rule Protests

Is it possible that 700 people will turn out for a school board meeting, and more than 1,000 will sign a protest petition, merely because an athletic department haircut regulation is over-ruled by the superintendent in the case of the Redwood High School cross-country team?

Cross-country running draws so few onlookers that it can hardly be classified as a spectator sport. Yet there were this many present at a Tamalpais High School District board meeting on the issue, and this many signers of a protest petition.

The answer is, of course, that more than the haircut rule is at issue.

WHAT CAUSED the big turnout, and the many petition signers, is well put in a letter that a mother, Carol H. Pasquinelli of Corte Madera, wrote to the president of the district board. She said, in part:

"I think you'll find there are two main issues and (Supt. Robert D.) Torrey's action only served as the catalyst to arouse the public. . . .

"The first issue has to do with the gradual but steady downfall and laxness of discipline in the whole school. . . . We look on this rescinding of the haircut rules as another straw on an ever-growing pile of thrown-out or not-adhered-to rules. It is the final straw for us. . . .

"THIS BRINGS US to the second point of concern . . . Several questions come to mind — none of them pleasant:

"1. Would (cross-country coach Douglas B.) Basham have gone against his contract by allowing the three long-haired boys to run if one boy, in particular, were not the outstanding runner he is? Would Mr. Basham react the same way with an 'also-ran'?

"2. What will Mr. Torrey do when and if a group of parents decide their boys should be allowed to participate in a sports program regardless of their grades? Or the students decide they, not the coach, should decide which of them will be on the starting team? Or the Redwood Bark editors decide they want to pattern the paper after the Berkeley Barb? Or the drama class votes to put on 'Oh, Calcutta'? . . .

"3. Are we going to have another University of California or San Francisco State in our high schools where a few students and/or faculty members are able to bring the whole educational process to a halt while they air their grievances and demands? . . .

"4. Are teachers or administrators no longer going to be able to set standards they can expect to be kept without fear of a few forcing their standards in their stead?

"These are the things we fear. We do not like the look of Redwood. We do not like the direction it has taken in the past few years. . ."

WE BELIEVE Mrs. Pasquinelli put very well the concerns that brought such a turnout for the "hair" discussion. Parents — the majority of them, we feel certain — are trying to tell the school board: You have gone too far with abandoning rules. The experiment of permissive education has been tried and found wanting. Education is a disciplinary process; it cannot proceed without discipline, and discipline is impossible without rules strictly enforced.

We trust the Tamalpais High School District board will get the message. It might pay other school boards to get it too, before they are confronted with their own versions of the "hair" episode. And it might be well for faculties — from superintendents on down the line — to ponder it carefully.

Autumnal Disrobing

Autumn is the season when deciduous trees become immodest and let the winds undress them, leaf by leaf. Just prior to this drama, a far greater drama within the microcosm of the leaves themselves has unfolded.

With the coming of shorter, colder days, the flow of sap gradually slows down and each leaf builds cork seal at the end of its stem. Cut off from their supply of nourishing sap, the leaf cells die of mass starvation. Within the cells, the chlorophyll-containing chloroplasts also die and degenerate, losing their green color in the process. As the deep green disappears, the yellows, oranges, red and purples are revealed. Some of these colors have been in the leaves all along — Masked by the green — but others, such as the deep reds, are a breakdown product of certain sugars in the cells.

Whether one regards the falling leaves of autumn with the calculating eye of a botanist or the dreamy eye of a poet, they are a fascinating subject.

School Buses Make Long Haul, Arousing Wrath Of Legislator

By JAMES K. WOODWORTH

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The power of the lobbby for education in California's State Capitol continues to amaze even those old-timers who have seen about everything there is to see as far as lobbying is concerned.

The elder statesman of the State Senate, Hugh Burns, D-Fresno, is the latest to "discover" how little those people involved in education fear the wrath of the public or legislators.

IN A RECENT release, Burns questioned the propriety of using a Los Angeles school bus, and later a second bus owned by the University of California, for transporting students to the Delano area where they participated in a picket line set up by the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee against table grape growers.

Burns has called for an investigation of what he terms the illegal use of the school bus and the second, state-owned, vehicle to transport pickets to a labor dispute. He has called on the attorney general to probe such uses and announced he will introduce a resolution at the next legislative session, calling for a study of state and federal funds expended to provide the transportation.

BURNS APPEARED shaken by wonderment as he reported the students "intruded at Delano at a time when the legislature and the state administration was under bitter attacks by the Los Angeles school officials for not having provided state financial aid to their schools in amounts they insisted were critically needed."

"Despite the continuing cries of financial distress," Burns asserted, "it is at least interesting that the Los Angeles schools can afford to operate buses to transport students to a labor dispute 150 miles from their district.

Marin Needs Lawn Bowling Greens

I see in Oakland and San Francisco that state championship lawn bowling tournaments were being held last week. Why is it that no lawn bowling greens are available in Marin County in any of our fine cities' parks? There are lawn bowling greens in San Francisco, Oakland, Berkeley, Richmond, Hayward and in many towns in the Peninsula. This is a fine game for senior citizens, both men and women, as well as for younger people.

I used to belong to a lawn bowling club in Oakland for many years and would again enjoy this recreation if there was a bowling green somewhere in Marin County. Are there others in Marin County who are interested?

Multiple Standards Confuse Society

We live in a funny kind of society; recently Coach (Robert J.) Troppmann resigned in protest against the long hair of athletes and by implication lack of discipline and infraction of rules. Those who disparage this gentleman's position trout out the usual cliches about "individual choice, freedom of expression and sense of identity."

Now let us look at the other side of the coin. If we wish to partake of a good dinner in one of the better establishments in San Francisco and we showed up in hiking shorts and unshaven, we would politely be denied admittance (hasn't anyone heard about coat and tie?- — yet somehow no one seems to scream about sense of identity to the matire d'!

In another part of the I-J we read about young persons being arrested for the very harmless pastime of sunbathing in the nude. . . . How come no one has raised the cry of "a search for individuality" on this occasion?

With multiple standards of this kind, it is no wonder that there is a complete lack of direction as to what constitutes rules on discipline. . . .

TRY AND STOP ME

THE NEXT TIME some fool driver defends himself after averting a crash by assuring you, "I had the right of way," remind him of this little poem: "Here lie the bones of Johnny Gray; he died protecting the right of way. He was right as could be as he sped along, but he's just as dead as if he'd been wrong."

THE EDITOR of the religious page of a big city newspaper — plus his wife — attempted unsuccessfully to brazen their way into a sold-out hockey game during the play-off season. After their rebuff, he complained bitterly, "That so-and-so at the gate wouldn't forgive us our press passes."

"I see your daughter now drives her own car," observed Mr. Stanton's nieghbor. "How long did it take her to learn?"

West German Election Clears Way For Possible End To Cold War

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — Events of historic potential can now be seen in focus.

Their effect can well be to nearly end the Cold War.

1. The new liberal, venturesome Willy Brandt-led coalition, expected to be installed soon in Bonn, is determined to widen its ties with Communist East Germany, make friends with Poland and make peace with all Eastern Europe.

2. The downfall of Charles de Gaulle and the political rise of Brandt open the prospect of moving toward political unification in Western Europe, of strengthening the flagging Common Market and bringing about the entry of Britain into the market as a full partner.

3. President Nixon and Brandt are simultaneously embarked on the same goal: to replace confrontation with negotiation on every significant aspect of the Cold War.

Each is intent on getting the substance of East-West detente, not merely its appearance. It is evident that the foreign policy of Bonn and Washington will be better coordinated than it has been for some time.

4. The Kremlin shows signs of being responsive to Brandt's pre-election gestures. It is tapping down its usual anti-Bonn propaganda and is indicating a desire to deal with Brandt. Washington expects an early response from Moscow on the nuclear arms talks, and the Soviets have already said they, too, are willing to discuss with the West any outstanding political disputes, including West Berlin.

THESE EVENTS were not concerted. Their origins were unrelated, but they are coming together at a time when they have the best prospects of accomplishing far more than would otherwise be possible.

In the recent elections, the German voters added significantly to the climate of improved relations with both East and West. They decisively rejected the neo-Nazis and thus gave new assurance to the whole world that German democracy remains healthy and secure.

The right-wing National Democrats got only 4.5 per cent of the total vote — a lower percentage of ultrarightist votes than in some western democracies — and failed to get a single seat in the Bundestag. Brandt's Social Democrats alone gained strength and, with the liberal Free Democrats, can take power for the first time since postwar German democracy was born in 1949. The SPD has totally shed its Marxist background and leadership. It is a party of social reform and foreign policy innovation. It gives young German voters a sense of participation and direction.

IF THE BUNDESTAG approves Chancellor Brandt and his Cabinet when it meets Oct. 21, it will be a relatively fragile coalition. It will have a margin of only 12 seats.

But it has two sources of strength. The Free Democrats voted unanimously to enter the coalition. The goals of the SPD seem to be in tune with developing national opinion, and if Brandt provides the leadership of which many believe he is capable he will bring more voters to his support once he is in charge.

WE ARE NOT suggesting the millennium is at hand nor that the events now foreshadowed will fall readily into place. But big things are stirring. For the first time since the Cold War began the three strong powers most directly concerned — the United States, Germany and Russia — seem to be heading in the same direction.

Brandt is talking about "improving relations" with Moscow, and Moscow appears to welcome it. Andrei Gromyko is talking about "improving relations" with the United States, and President Nixon welcomes it.

In the half of the world that counts most — from Washington to Moscow — historic initiatives are taking place.

Old Dominion Deserting Faith For A Republican

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. — With the rest of this historic commonwealth, residents of this Tidewater area are trying to accustom themselves to the idea that the governor they elect next month may well be a Republican.

It is an idea which is not easy to entertain in Virginia. Not since the reconstruction era has the governor been other than a Democrat. For most of the recent past he has been a Democrat acceptable to the late Sen. Harry F. Byrd.

Now, however, the prospects of Linwood Holton, Harvard-educated attorney from Big Stone Gap, are bright indeed. Many of the experts are saying that Republican Holton would win if the election were held this week.

HOLTON HAS what the sportswriters call "momentum." His campaign was lifted last week by boosts from the state AFL-CIO and the Virginia Crusade for Voters, a Negro group with its headquarters and center of power in Richmond.

Democratic candidate William C. Battle, on the other hand, is trying to heal the wounds of two election preliminaries. The first Democratic primary eliminated Lt. Gov. Fred G. Pollard, the rather conservative favorite of Byrd's courthouse cronies across the Old Dominion. In the run-off which followed, Battle defeated liberal-populist Henry E. Howell, state senator from nearby Norfolk.

Battle's problem is that he is threatened with the loss of Democratic support on the left and on the right. In Richmond last week 150 prominent Democrats, many of them conservative businessmen, announced their defection to the Holton camp.

That is the sort of action which, while previously less formalized, has been giving Virginia's support to recent Republican presidential candidates, while state offices have remained in Democratic hands.

BOTH OF the candidates are classified as moderates in the political spectrum. They outlined generally similar views on education at a joint appearance here last week before the state's school boards association.

There are already plenty of oddities in the campaign, however, with nearly a month to go before election day.

For example Holton, who is a Republican in the mold of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, ran a rather liberal campaign when he was defeated four years ago by Gov. Mills E. Godwin. Now Holton is getting endorsement from labor and the blacks, but he is also drawing support from the right for a more conservative campaign this time.

BATTLE, WHILE he is the son of a former Virginia governor, was pushed into politics by former President John F. Kennedy. Nevertheless, he is being hurt by an adverse fallout from the old Byrd "machine." Some of the defections to Holton from the Democratic left are based on the idea that a GOP victory would necessitate a complete revamping of the Democratic party, with the elimination of all remnants of the Byrd organization.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO
Oct. 13, 1959

Fairchild Semiconductor Corp. announced it would construct an instrument plant in Marin, site undetermined, that eventually would employ about 500 persons.

State Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, presented Marin's case for a North Bay college, stressing Novato as a site, before the California Public Works Board.

20 YEARS AGO
Oct. 13, 1949

Gov. Earl Warren indicated he would appoint Jordan L. Martinelli as Marin's new superior court judge.

Multiple Standards Confuse Society

We live in a funny kind of society; recently Coach (Robert J.) Troppmann resigned in protest against the long hair of athletes and by implication lack of discipline and infraction of rules. Those who disparage this gentleman's position trout out the usual cliches about "individual choice, freedom of expression and sense of identity."

Now let us look at the other side of the coin. If we wish to partake of a good dinner in one of the better establishments in San Francisco and we showed up in hiking shorts and unshaven, we would politely be denied admittance (hasn't anyone heard about coat and tie?- — yet somehow no one seems to scream about sense of identity to the matire d'!

In another part of the I-J we read about young persons being arrested for the very harmless pastime of sunbathing in the nude. . . . How come no one has raised the cry of "a search for individuality" on this occasion?

With multiple standards of this kind, it is no wonder that there is a complete lack of direction as to what constitutes rules on discipline. . . .

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

THE NEXT TIME some fool driver defends himself after averting a crash by assuring you, "I had the right of way," remind him of this little poem: "Here lie the bones of Johnny Gray; he died protecting the right of way. He was right as could be as he sped along, but he's just as dead as if he'd been wrong."

THE EDITOR of the religious page of a big city newspaper — plus his wife — attempted unsuccessfully to brazen their way into a sold-out hockey game during the play-off season. After their rebuff, he complained bitterly, "That so-and-so at the gate wouldn't forgive us our press passes."

"I see your daughter now drives her own car," observed Mr. Stanton's nieghbor. "How long did it take her to learn?"

"About two and a half cars," replied Mr. Stanton sadly.

West German Election Clears Way For Possible End To Cold War

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — Events of historic potential can now be seen in focus.

Their effect can well be to nearly end the Cold War.

Four momentous developments are suddenly combining to make possible what many assumed would be out of reach for years.

1. The new liberal, venturesome Willy Brandt-led coalition, expected to be installed soon in Bonn, is determined to widen its ties with Communist East Germany, make friends with Poland and make peace with all Eastern Europe.

2. The downfall of Charles de Gaulle and the political rise of Brandt open the prospect of moving toward political unification in Western Europe, of strengthening the flagging Common Market and bringing about the entry of Britain into the market as a full partner.

3. President Nixon and Brandt are simultaneously embarked on the same goal: to replace confrontation with negotiation on every significant aspect of the Cold War.

Each is intent on getting the substance of East-West detente, not merely its appearance. It is evident that the foreign policy of Bonn and Washington will be better coordinated than it has been for some time.

4. The Kremlin shows signs of being responsive to Brandt's pre-election gestures. It is tapping down its usual anti-Bonn propaganda and is indicating a desire to deal with Brandt. Washington expects an early response from Moscow on the nuclear arms talks, and the Soviets have already said they, too, are willing to discuss with the West any outstanding political disputes, including West Berlin.

THESE EVENTS were not concerted. Their origins were unrelated, but they are coming together at a time when they have the best prospects of accomplishing far more than would otherwise be possible.

In the recent elections, the German voters added significantly to the climate of improved relations with both East and West. They decisively rejected the neo-Nazis and thus gave new assurance to the whole world that German democracy remains healthy and secure.

The right-wing National Democrats got only 4.5 per cent of the total vote — a lower percentage of ultrarightist votes than in some western democracies — and failed to get a single seat in the Bundestag. Brandt's Social Democrats alone gained strength and, with the liberal Free Democrats, can take power for the first time since postwar German democracy was born in 1949. The SPD has totally shed its Marxist background and leadership. It is a party of social reform and foreign policy innovation. It gives young German voters a sense of participation and direction.

IF THE BUNDESTAG approves Chancellor Brandt and his Cabinet when it meets Oct. 21, it will be a relatively fragile coalition. It will have a margin of only 12 seats.

But it has two sources of strength. The Free Democrats voted unanimously to enter the coalition. The goals of the SPD seem to be in tune with developing national opinion, and if Brandt provides the leadership of which many believe he is capable he will bring more voters to his support once he is in charge.

WE ARE NOT suggesting the millennium is at hand nor that the events now foreshadowed will fall readily into place. But big things are stirring. For the first time since the Cold War began the three strong powers most directly concerned — the United States, Germany and Russia — seem to be heading in the same direction.

Brandt is talking about "improving relations" with Moscow, and Moscow appears to welcome it. Andrei Gromyko is talking about "improving relations" with the United States, and President Nixon welcomes it.

In the half of the world that counts most — from Washington to Moscow — historic initiatives are taking place.

Old Dominion Deserting Faith For A Republican

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. — With the rest of this historic commonwealth, residents of this Tidewater area are trying to accustom themselves to the idea that the governor they elect next month may well be a Republican.

It is an idea which is not easy to entertain in Virginia. Not since the reconstruction era has the governor been other than a Democrat. For most of the recent past he has been a Democrat acceptable to the late Sen. Harry F. Byrd.

Now, however, the prospects of Linwood Holton, Harvard-educated attorney from Big Stone Gap, are bright indeed. Many of the experts are saying that Republican Holton would win if the election were held this week.

HOLTON HAS what the sportswriters call "momentum." His campaign was lifted last week by boosts from the state AFL-CIO and the Virginia Crusade for Voters, a Negro group with its headquarters and center of power in Richmond.

Democratic candidate William C. Battle, on the other hand, is trying to heal the wounds of two election preliminaries. The first Democratic primary eliminated Lt. Gov. Fred G. Pollard, the rather conservative favorite of Byrd's courthouse cronies across the Old Dominion. In the run-off which followed, Battle defeated liberal-populist Henry E. Howell, state senator from nearby Norfolk.

Battle's problem is that he is threatened with the loss of Democratic support on the left and on the right. In Richmond last week 150 prominent Democrats, many of them conservative businessmen, announced their defection to the Holton camp.

That is the sort of action which, while previously less formalized, has been giving Virginia's support to recent Republican presidential candidates, while state offices have remained in Democratic hands.

BOTH OF the candidates are classified as moderates in the political spectrum. They outlined generally similar views on education at a joint appearance here last week before the state's school boards association.

There are already plenty of oddities in the campaign, however, with nearly a month to go before election day.

For example Holton, who is a Republican in the mold of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, ran a rather liberal campaign when he was defeated four years ago by Gov. Mills E. Godwin. Now Holton is getting endorsement from labor and the blacks, but he is also drawing support from the right for a more conservative campaign this time.

BATTLE, WHILE he is the son of a former Virginia governor, was pushed into politics by former President John F. Kennedy. Nevertheless, he is being hurt by an adverse fallout from the old Byrd "machine." Some of the defections to Holton from the Democratic left are based on the idea that a GOP victory would necessitate a complete revamping of the Democratic party, with the elimination of all remnants of the Byrd organization.

Movie Makers Love Marin, But It's Not Fully Reciprocated

Marin is getting to be quite a film center. Because of its wooded hillsides and varied terrain and coastline, producers say Marin is ideal for TV commercials.

In fact, the Bay Area, particularly Marin, ranks with Hollywood and parts of Florida as one of three favorite sites for film makers, according to an executive who has been filming in this area for 16 years.

These disclosures came after the incident on Lucas Valley Road last month when irate motorists were held up for 30 minutes at a time, waiting for filming of some auto commercial.

County supervisors ordered a ban on the use of county roads for filming, then relented, but ordered that traffic may not be held up for more than two or three minutes.

NOT ONLY ROADS but public buildings in Marin are being used for films. They swarmed through the Civic Center and the San Rafael courthouse last week, taking shots for full-length movies

The movie people assured the county there would be little or no inconvenience to the county or the public.

Most observers agree that Twentieth Century-Fox did an excellent job of keeping disruption to a minimum. For example, if passersby happened to walk through a scene being shot, they'd patiently retake it. If cars came up the Civic Center driveway, the cameramen would hold up until the cars had gone. When workmen used a hatchet to sharpen one end of a post for use as a prop, a cleanup man would be right behind to sweep up the wood chips.

THE FACT REMAINS, however, that when 25 or 50 movie people including stars and starlets converge on a building, they cannot help but disrupt. It's not so much the physical disruption by movie crews but a natural curiosity that impels people to stop and watch.

When a Jim Hutton or a Leslie Nielsen enacts a dramatic entrance up the Civic Center escalator, or is wheeled through the corridors on a stretcher, a hundred people, employees and visitors, line up along the three tiers of the building to inspect or gape.

It's probably a good idea hereafter to set up stricter policies on the use of public buildings, such as only on weekends when offices are closed, or limit the time to several hours instead of days.

HERE'S SOOTHING news for county employees who are especially allergic to bee stings. The county medical director recommends an ointment called Topic, which can be bought in drug stores. It's a clear ointment that comes in plastic tube containers.

Another is an anti-histamine pill called Benydril, but this should be used by doctor's prescription, according to county medical officials.

You Have To Jettison Cargo If You Can't Afford To Keep It

The DC-3 was a great old airplane. I recall taking one, heavily loaded, out of Okinawa's Yontan Airfield during World War II, on a direct flight to Guam over 1,200 nautical miles away.

The aircraft wasn't built to hold enough fuel to make that distance, so tanks were put in the cabin and rigged with Rube Goldberg plumbing to feed extra fuel into the main system

Besides cargo, there were six passengers — men going home from the fighting — with ranks from sergeant to colonel.

AT 9,000 FEET and three hours out of Okinawa, the left engine quit.

Turning, going back, the old bird groaned and began to sink. We were too heavy. With the left engine feathered and the right at maximum continuous power, we were going down 400 feet a minute. At that rate we'd be ditching in about 20 minutes.

Our jerry-built cabin tanks still had about 4,000 pounds of fuel and that was our first order of business. The engineer went back, opened the rear door, stuck out a hose attached to the tanks and turned the valve.

With relief I watched our descent rate gradually decrease to 200 feet a minute as our cabin fuel spewed out into the Pacific.

NEXT WAS the cargo. The passengers pitched in and helped. Forming a fire-brigade line, they passed pieces from one to another and tossed them over the side. The cargo was mostly personal gear, some of it belonging to the passengers themselves. Yet without the slightest hesitation, every piece went out the door.

At 1,500 feet our descent stopped and we made it back to Yontan.

On the ground and sitting in the cook tent enjoying a cup of coffee, I apologized to the passengers for the loss of their baggage. The colonel, a tall thin man with an oak bark face, finished a sip and slowly put his cup on the table.

"DON'T APOLOGIZE," he said. "We couldn't afford to keep it."

Down through the years his words have stayed with me. Often I have thought of them. Often they have applied to many situations in my life. And often I have put them to good use.

Just as we, when we had two good engines, could afford the luxury of an overload, each of us carries around with him excessive pieces of baggage which may make life pleasanter but they are, in the final analysis, in any survival sense, simply expendable luxuries.

The most dangerous luxuries we carry are the intellectual baggage — the intellectual geegaws and knickknacks that clutter and confuse the mind and distract it from the basics.

HERE'S A COUPLE of luxuries touching the law and order issue, as examples. It is a luxury indeed to believe that law and order can exist without force — despite the profundities to the contrary of some of our sociologists and psychologists. Don't misconstrue this as a call for the rack and the iron maiden but only a recognition of the necessity of force. To deny it is the luxury of naivete.

Another luxury is our lopsided concern with justice. We seek perfect trials rather than fair trials. The results are excessive delays — months, even years — and justice is denied and law and order is again corrupted.

Though we indulge ourselves in the luxury of misdirected human kindness — diluting the force essential for order and delaying the "speedy" trials vital to justice — we should be aware these are luxuries we can ill afford to keep — for long.

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

Everything that bars freedom and fullness of communication sets up barriers that divide human beings into sets and cliques, into antagonistic sects and factions, and thereby undermines the democratic way of life. — John Dewey.

General Mood Anti-Russian In The Baltics

By ROGER BERNHEIM
Toronto News Service

A visitor to this part of northern Europe is not left long in doubt that the Russians are unpopular here.

The Intourist guides, eager to keep their jobs with all their attendant privileges, docilely pass along the Soviet myth that the Baltic states voluntarily became part of the Soviet Union and recount glowing tales of how, thanks to Soviet aid, the Baltic during the past 20 years has developed from a backward, feudalistic and completely played-out region to an area which is blossoming and progressing in every respect.

But the other Balts with whom I spoke sang a different tune. Aside from a few official contacts, my talks were with chance acquaintances in aircraft, taxis, on park benches and in coffee houses and restaurants. In no case did I pose direct political questions to these people, preferring to let them determine the course of the conversation.

It is obvious that a ten-day trip through the Baltic states, each of which is larger than Switzerland, can do no more than provide general impressions — and even these are confined to the three capital cities because of Soviet travel restrictions. The fact that the general mood is anti-Russian and directed against the large numbers of Russians who have streamed into the Baltic area and settled there, is so evident and pronounced that in general not even the Russians one meets here take the trouble to dany it.

But it is more difficult to determine to what extent this mood, directed against the alien settlers, applies to the Baltic states' membership in the Soviet Union and their adherence to Communism. The people with whom I spoke were generally reserved on these questions and their opinions varied.

There is an uncommonly strong wil to national self-assertion here. The sense of differentness, of national individuality, combatted by Moscow as a heresy, is kept alive not only by the prewar generation but also by the youth, in fact most especially by the younger people, who spoke to me repeatedly of their poets, their artists, their scientists and especially of their Songfest, an event held every five years which serves as a rallying point for Estonian, Latvian and Lithuanian patriotism.

Even the few Communist Party members with whom I spoke made no bones about the fact that their immediate homeland means at least as much to them as does the Kremlin.

In the streets, shopwindows and offices of the Baltic capitals one finds hardly any pictures of Lenin, whose image may be seen on virtually every street corner in Moscow and is mandatory in every Soviet public place. Nor did I see a single poster with Communist political slogans, such as one finds everywhere in Moscow and other Russian cities.

I visited a number of art exhibitions — two in Riga, three in Tallinn and two in Vilna — and saw neither portraits of Lenin nor pictures of any other Soviet or Communits leader, nor did I encounter any pictures of Baltic national heroes. The exhibitions were illuminating in other respects as well. They showed the works of living Baltic artists and two exhibitions offered a survey of contemporary painting in Estonia. Not one of the pictures viewed in Vilna and Tallinn showed earmarks of socialist realism, which all the pictures viewed in Riga were painted in that style.

In Vilna and Tallinn many paintings were abstract, many other surrealistic, and those of the representational genre had their elements organized according to formal principles, as in the West, rather than naturalistic considerations. These exhibitions were in no way different from those which are commonplace in the West, with the minimal exception that a few (though not all) of the paintings with religious subjects were titled "Composition."

The two exhibitions in Riga were entirely different. Lenin was absent there as well, but one of the showings offered nothing but heroic socialist realism, gigantic and storming the future, while in the other a painter displayed clean and unimaginative landscapes just as are prescribed by the party. This marked difference between the exhibitions in Riga and those of the other two capitals seemed to me characteristic of the atmosphere in the Latvian city.

There, too, I heard few friendly words about the Russiand, but people were not as quick to express their opinions and did not immediately emphasize that they are Latvians rather than Russians. They were reserved in their statements and, if they spoke at all about this political problem complex, would look around from time to time to see if anyone else was listening — something I did not encounter even once in Tallinn or Vilna.

This distinctly gloomy atmosphere in Riga is generally ascribed to the effects of a man named Pelsche, who was head of the Latvian Communist Party from 1959 to 1966. Latvian born, Pelsche was for many years active in Stalin's security police and today is a member of Moscow's Politburo and chairman of the important Control Committee of the Communist Party.

One can get no precise figures on the number of Russians who have come to the Baltic states since the end of World War II. Reliable estimates go into the hundreds of thousands, out of a total population of about 6.5 million. In the city of Vilna, for example, the Lithuanians are now in minority. The Russians came at first as special advisers, to help the Balts in an industrial buildup which was forced upon them despite resistance even from Communist Party circles, a buildup which led to neglect of a formerly thriving agriculture.

Today the Balts complain that the Russians, after completing their work, failed to return home but were joined by ever increasing numbers of the compatriots who settled in the Baltic region because they obviously preferred it to their own country. According to the Balts, the Russiand also assumed the role of a kind of ruling class and "bringers of civilization." Now, so goes the complaint, they are holding fast to the excellent posts which were given to them in the course of the postwar forced industrialization, despite the fact that there have long been more than enough Balts quite capable of taking over those positions.

The Russians are also given preference in the assignment of new housing, which is all the more infuriating because the present shortage is at least in part due to the influx of the Russians themselves.

Despite enormous efforts, Soviet propaganda has evidently failed to wipe out the Balts' memory of the fact that Moscow forcibly annexed the Baltic states in 1940 under cover of the Hitler-Stalin Pact and that the so-called referendum at that time was a pure farce. Even an Intourist guide, in the course of his obligatory historical summary, found it necessary to glide embarrassedly over those events, merely saying that a "complicated" situation arose in the course of which the Baltic "fell to the Soviet Union."

There is also a keen memory of the fact that, before the war, the standard of living in Estonia and Latvia was higher than in the Soviet Union and that the economy, promarily thanks to successful cattle breeding and dairy farming, was by no means as backward as the Soviets maintain.

Nevertheless the Balts are trying to accommodate themselves to the realities of life under the Soviets. And Soviet party leaders even seem prepared to help them a bit in doing so, for example by permitting them to paint and display pictures which could not go on public view in Moscow today. For the rest, however, the Soviet press incessantly warns the people of the Baltic states against "nationalism" and issues endless calls for them to finally throw off the "remnants of bourgeois ideology."

The Balts are fully aware that they have no prospects of regaining their independence in the foreseeable future. If any proof of this were needed, the Soviet invasions of Hungary and Czechoslovakia provided it.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Accidents Sometimes Produce Hidden, Emotional Injuries

VAN DELLEN

Emotions play strange tricks on the body, especially in response to stress. After an accident the cut or bruise heals completely, but the emotional symptoms persist or worsen.

Now and then there is a considerable lapse of time between the stressful situation and the onset of symptoms.

One was a middle-aged woman who could not talk except to utter a few words in a low, strained voice. She communicated mainly through gestures and pointed to her throat as the source of trouble.

STEVENSON QUESTIONED her at length and found that shortly before the trouble began, the woman's husband found her chatting with a male neighbor over the back yard fence. He was extremely jealous and shouted, "Don't ever let me catch you talking to him again."

The unreasonable order was carried out to the nth degree. Not only did she stop speaking to the neighbor, but to everyone else. A complete recovery followed the realization of what had occurred.

ANOTHER WOMAN devleloped a severe tic on the right side of the face. After several interviews, Stevenson found that the tic developed after the patient's father had slapped her on that side of the face.

The tic represented her wince as she received the blow. The slap had caused no physical injury.

MOST OF THESE people develop symptoms that are associated frequently with anxiety, including rapid pulse and breathing, excessive sweating, insomnia, loss of appetite, loss of libido and impaired memory.

POSTSSIUM SUPPLIES

P. O. writes: Are certain foods better sources of potassiim than others?

REPLY

Yes. For example, nearly all vegetables and dried fruits are excellent sources of potassium. Furthermore, the well-balanced diet usually provides what is needed. The situation changes, however, when the person is taking a diuretic, because more than normal amounts of sodium and potassium are eliminated via the kidneys. Additional potassium salts may be needed to prevent fatigue and muscular weakness.

ITCHING HIVES

H. H. writes: What is the best way to take the itching out of hives?

REPLY

Home remedies include calamine lotion, soda bicarbonate compresses, and antihistaminic creams or lotions. If no relief is obtained the physician may give an injection of adrenalin, or tablets of one of the antihistaminic products or adrenal steroids.

HANDS IN ICE WATER

C. T. writes: Will putting the hands in ice water many times a day (as part of the job) lead to a disease?

REPLY

Not if the skin and circulation are normal and you are not a hyperreactor to cold. We can assume this is so if you have been doing this work for some time without adverse effects.

CONTACT ALLERGY

S. B. writes: What is the cause of contact dermatitis?

REPLY

A sensitivity to items that come into contact with the skin. These may be animal dander chemicals, cosmetics, or metals such as nickel. In some instances, the offending agent irritates the skin and in this respect does not represent a true allergy.

Mystery Of Dead Fish Is Solved

LUENEBURG, Germany (AP) — Hundreds of dead fish floating on the Elbe River in West Germany may have been poisoned by an unidentified substance dumped by a sugar refinery in East Germany, police say.

They said the poison probably had been diluted enough not to cause damage by the time it reached the Elbe from the Aland River, a tributary. But farmers were warned against watering livestock in the Elbe.

General Mood Anti-Russian In The Baltics

By ROGER BERNHEIM
Toronto News Service

A visitor to this part of northern Europe is not left long in doubt that the Russians are unpopular here.

The Intourist guides, eager to keep their jobs with all their attendant privileges, docilely pass along the Soviet myth that the Baltic states voluntarily became part of the Soviet Union and recount glowing tales of how, thanks to Soviet aid, the Baltic during the past 20 years has developed from a backward, feudalistic and completely played-out region to an area which is blossoming and progressing in every respect.

But the other Balts with whom I spoke sang a different tune. Aside from a few official contacts, my talks were with chance acquaintances in aircraft, taxis, on park benches and in coffee houses and restaurants. In no case did I pose direct political questions to these people, preferring to let them determine the course of the conversation.

It is obvious that a ten-day trip through the Baltic states, each of which is larger than Switzerland, can do no more than provide general impressions — and even these are confined to the three capital cities because of Soviet travel restrictions. The fact that the general mood is anti-Russian and directed against the large numbers of Russians who have streamed into the Baltic area and settled there, is so evident and pronounced that in general not even the Russians one meets here take the trouble to dany it.

But it is more difficult to determine to what extent this mood, directed against the alien settlers, applies to the Baltic states' membership in the Soviet Union and their adherence to Communism. The people with whom I spoke were generally reserved on these questions and their opinions varied.

There is an uncommonly strong wil to national self-assertion here. The sense of differentness, of national individuality, combatted by Moscow as a heresy, is kept alive not only by the prewar generation but also by the youth, in fact most especially by the younger people, who spoke to me repeatedly of their poets, their artists, their scientists and especially of their Songfest, an event held every five years which serves as a rallying point for Estonian, Latvian and Lithuanian patriotism.

Even the few Communist Party members with whom I spoke made no bones about the fact that their immediate homeland means at least as much to them as does the Kremlin.

In the streets, shopwindows and offices of the Baltic capitals one finds hardly any pictures of Lenin, whose image may be seen on virtually every street corner in Moscow and is mandatory in every Soviet public place. Nor did I see a single poster with Communist political slogans, such as one finds everywhere in Moscow and other Russian cities.

I visited a number of art exhibitions — two in Riga, three in Tallinn and two in Vilna — and saw neither portraits of Lenin nor pictures of any other Soviet or Communits leader, nor did I encounter any pictures of Baltic national heroes. The exhibitions were illuminating in other respects as well. They showed the works of living Baltic artists and two exhibitions offered a survey of contemporary painting in Estonia. Not one of the pictures viewed in Vilna and Tallinn showed earmarks of socialist realism, which all the pictures viewed in Riga were painted in that style.

In Vilna and Tallinn many paintings were abstract, many other surrealistic, and those of the representational genre had their elements organized according to formal principles, as in the West, rather than naturalistic considerations. These exhibitions were in no way different from those which are commonplace in the West, with the minimal exception that a few (though not all) of the paintings with religious subjects were titled "Composition."

The two exhibitions in Riga were entirely different. Lenin was absent there as well, but one of the showings offered nothing but heroic socialist realism, gigantic and storming the future, while in the other a painter displayed clean and unimaginative landscapes just as are prescribed by the party. This marked difference between the exhibitions in Riga and those of the other two capitals seemed to me characteristic of the atmosphere in the Latvian city.

There, too, I heard few friendly words about the Russiand, but people were not as quick to express their opinions and did not immediately emphasize that they are Latvians rather than Russians. They were reserved in their statements and, if they spoke at all about this political problem complex, would look around from time to time to see if anyone else was listening — something I did not encounter even once in Tallinn or Vilna.

This distinctly gloomy atmosphere in Riga is generally ascribed to the effects of a man named Pelsche, who was head of the Latvian Communist Party from 1959 to 1966. Latvian born, Pelsche was for many years active in Stalin's security police and today is a member of Moscow's Politburo and chairman of the important Control Committee of the Communist Party.

One can get no precise figures on the number of Russians who have come to the Baltic states since the end of World War II. Reliable estimates go into the hundreds of thousands, out of a total population of about 6.5 million. In the city of Vilna, for example, the Lithuanians are now in minority. The Russians came at first as special advisers, to help the Balts in an industrial buildup which was forced upon them despite resistance even from Communist Party circles, a buildup which led to neglect of a formerly thriving agriculture.

Today the Balts complain that the Russians, after completing their work, failed to return home but were joined by ever increasing numbers of the compatriots who settled in the Baltic region because they obviously preferred it to their own country. According to the Balts, the Russiand also assumed the role of a kind of ruling class and "bringers of civilization." Now, so goes the complaint, they are holding fast to the excellent posts which were given to them in the course of the postwar forced industrialization, despite the fact that there have long been more than enough Balts quite capable of taking over those positions.

The Russians are also given preference in the assignment of new housing, which is all the more infuriating because the present shortage is at least in part due to the influx of the Russians themselves.

Despite enormous efforts, Soviet propaganda has evidently failed to wipe out the Balts' memory of the fact that Moscow forcibly annexed the Baltic states in 1940 under cover of the Hitler-Stalin Pact and that the so-called referendum at that time was a pure farce. Even an Intourist guide, in the course of his obligatory historical summary, found it necessary to glide embarrassedly over those events, merely saying that a "complicated" situation arose in the course of which the Baltic "fell to the Soviet Union."

There is also a keen memory of the fact that, before the war, the standard of living in Estonia and Latvia was higher than in the Soviet Union and that the economy, primarily thanks to successful cattle breeding and dairy farming, was by no means as backward as the Soviets maintain.

Nevertheless the Balts are trying to accommodate themselves to the realities of life under the Soviets. And Soviet party leaders even seem prepared to help them a bit in doing so, for example by permitting them to paint and display pictures which could not go on public view in Moscow today. For the rest, however, the Soviet press incessantly warns the people of the Baltic states against "nationalism" and issues endless calls for them to finally throw off the "remnants of bourgeois ideology."

The Balts are fully aware that they have no prospects of regaining their independence in the foreseeable future. If any proof of this were needed, the Soviet invasions of Hungary and Czechoslovakia provided it.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Accidents Sometimes Produce Hidden, Emotional Injuries

VAN DELLEN

Emotions play strange tricks on the body, especially in response to stress. After an accident the cut or bruise heals completely, but the emotional symptoms persist or worsen.

Now and then there is a considerable lapse of time between the stressful situation and the onset of symptoms.

One was a middle-aged woman who could not talk except to utter a few words in a low, strained voice. She communicated mainly through gestures and pointed to her throat as the source of trouble.

STEVENSON QUESTIONED her at length and found that shortly before the trouble began, the woman's husband found her chatting with a male neighbor over the back yard fence. He was extremely jealous and shouted, "Don't ever let me catch you talking to him again."

The unreasonable order was carried out to the nth degree. Not only did she stop speaking to the neighbor, but to everyone else. A complete recovery followed the realization of what had occurred.

ANOTHER WOMAN develoloped a severe tic on the right side of the face. After several interviews, Stevenson found that the tic developed after the patient's father had slapped her on that side of the face.

The tic represented her wince as she received the blow. The slap had caused no physical injury.

MOST OF THESE people develop symptoms that are associated frequently with anxiety, including rapid pulse and breathing, excessive sweating, insomnia, loss of appetite, loss of libido and impaired memory.

POSTSSIUM SUPPLIES

P. O. writes: Are certain foods better sources of potassiim than others?

REPLY

Yes. For example, nearly all vegetables and dried fruits are excellent sources of potassium. Furthermore, the well-balanced diet usually provides what is needed. The situation changes, however, when the person is taking a diuretic, because more than normal amounts of sodium and potassium are eliminated via the kidneys. Additional potassium salts may be needed to prevent fatigue and muscular weakness.

ITCHING HIVES

H. H. writes: What is the best way to take the itching out of hives?

REPLY

Home remedies include calamine lotion, soda bicarbonate compresses, and antihistaminic creams or lotions. If no relief is obtained the physician may give an injection of adrenalin, or tablets of one of the antihistaminic products or adrenal steroids.

HANDS IN ICE WATER

C. T. writes: Will putting the hands in ice water many times a day (as part of the job) lead to a disease?

REPLY

Not if the skin and circulation are normal and you are not a hyperreactor to cold. We can assume this is so if you have been doing this work for some time without adverse effects.

CONTACT ALLERGY

S. B. writes: What is the cause of contact dermatitis?

REPLY

A sensitivity to items that come into contact with the skin. These may be animal dander chemicals, cosmetics, or metals such as nickel. In some instances, the offending agent irritates the skin and in this respect does not represent a true allergy.

Mystery Of Dead Fish Is Solved

LUENEBURG, Germany (AP) — Hundreds of dead fish floating on the Elbe River in West Germany may have been poisoned by an unidentified substance dumped by a sugar refinery in East Germany, police say.

They said the poison probably had been diluted enough not to cause damage by the time it reached the Elbe from the Aland River, a tributary. But farmers were warned against watering livestock in the Elbe.

North Koreans Killed In Fight

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — Two North Korean infiltrators were killed and two South Korean soldiers were wounded yesterday in a firefight below the central sector of the demilitarized zone, the South Korean Defense Ministry said today. A third North Korean escaped back across the zone.

The two-hour battle was the first reported in the section of the DMZ. South Korean troops defend since Sept. 20. The section the U.S 2nd Infantry Division defends has been quiet since July 21.

A U.S. spokesman said he believes the drop in North Korean infiltration across the DMZ in contrast to the frequent border clashes in the same months,last year, may be the result of improved defense capabilities.

Columbus Too Fast For Mayor

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Columbus had to jump back on his float yesterday so that Mayor Joseph Alioto could help him down.

It was all part of San Francisco's Columbus Day parade in the North Beach.

Christopher Columbus, impersonated by Joseph Cervetto of San Rafael, always greets the mayor at the reviewing stand. But this time he dismounted a mite too quickly and had to remount the float for the mayor's customary courtesy.

Cycle Officer Hurt In Crash

Officer Richard D. Treadwell, 39, of 2402 Center Road, Novato, reported he was chasing a speeder along Highway 1 when his kick stand hit the ground, sending the motorcycyle off the roadway.

Treadwell was treated at Marin General Hospital for numerous cuts. The speeder escaped. The accident occurred at 4:45 a.m.

North Koreans Killed In Fight

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — Two North Korean infiltrators were killed and two South Korean soldiers were wounded yesterday in a firefight below the central sector of the demilitarized zone, the South Korean Defense Ministry said today. A third North Korean escaped back across the zone.

The two-hour battle was the first reported in the section of the DMZ. South Korean troops defend since Sept. 20. The section the U.S 2nd Infantry Division defends has been quiet since July 21.

A U.S. spokesman said he believes the drop in North Korean infiltration across the DMZ in contrast to the frequent border clashes in the same months,last year, may be the result of improved defense capabilities.

Columbus Too Fast For Mayor

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Columbus had to jump back on his float yesterday so that Mayor Joseph Alioto could help him down.

It was all part of San Francisco's Columbus Day parade in the North Beach.

Christopher Columbus, impersonated by Joseph Cervetto of San Rafael, always greets the mayor at the reviewing stand. But this time he dismounted a mite too quickly and had to remount the float for the mayor's customary courtesy.

Treadwell was treated at Marin General Hospital for numerous cuts. The speeder escaped. The accident occurred at 4:45 a.m.

Kennedy To Offer Peace Initiative

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said today the present direction of Nixon administration policy will not achieve peace in Vietnam.

Kennedy told reporters he will offer his own ideas on how peace can be achieved in a speech he plans in Boston Wednesday, the day of the Vietnam moratorium.

The speech will be to the World Affairs Council, which he said is largely an organization of businessmen interested in international relations.

Kennedy said he supports the moratorium, feeling it can serve a useful purpose.

"It has very broad support from religious leaders, businessmen and workers, as well as from young people," he commented.

Asked if he agrees with Republican statements that progress towards peace depends on unity behind President Richard M. Nixon's policies, Kennedy replied:

"I have always thought we could obtain unity by working out a concensus on which all could agree, not by following a course blindly.

Kennedy said he was surprised by a recent Gallup poll showing 57 per cent in favor of the resolution by Sen. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., calling for a withdrawal of all American troops from Vietnam by Dec. 1 next year.

"That is a measure of the frustration," Kennedy said.

Sen. Peter H. Dominick, R-Colo., asked the Senate to "give the Communists. Nixon the support of a unified voice" for his current Vietnam policy.

"I am deeply distressed during these troubled times in our nation's history to hear the discordant voices of some in this body seeking to discount and discredit the great efforts being made by President Nixon toward peace," Dominick said.

Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., said the Wednesday moratorium "must not be confused with the senseless violence" of young radicals in Chicago.

"The moratorium seeks to end violence, not to expand it, it seeks serious discussion, not the screaming of slogans," McGovern told the Senate. "It is a national town meeting of conscience against the destructive war in Vietnam."

Sen. Robert J. Dole, R-Kans. —with 33 co-sponsors—offered a resolution declaring that the United States "must maintain its one fundamental goal" of self-determination for South Vietnam.

Dole's resolution, declaring Senate support for the position take by President Nixon, is aimed at North Vietnam and the Communists in the south. The resolution urges them to acknowledge that a just settlement offers the best hope for lasting peace.

It asks the Communists to display at the Paris peace talks "the same flexibility and desire for compromise" which the United States and South Vietnam "have clearly demonstrated over the past year."

It also asks for a report on the status of U.S. prisoners held by

Riot Victim Facing Months Of Paralysis

Charged with attempted murder an aggravated battery in the attack Saturday on Richard Elrod, 35, was Brian Flanagan, 22, of Southampton, N.Y. Flanagan was held today in $10,000 bail.

Elrod was involved in a scuffle when members of the Weatherman faction of SDS demonstrated in the downtown Loop area. His neck was broken and his body paralyzed.

The march was the culmination of four days of violence at demonstrations called by the Weatherman, an SDS faction which had vowed to "bring the war home" to Chicago.

Organizers predicted 5,000 to 15,000 persons would take part. No more than 500 took part in any demonstration.

Some 250 persons were arrested during the four days, about half of them Saturday. Most were charged with mob action, disorderly conduct and resisting arrest.

Last night was quiet and police said out-of-town demonstrators not in jail had left the city.

10,000 Attend Arts Festival

More than 10,000 persons attended the two-day MillValley Fall Arts Festival in Old Mill Park last weekend, according to publicity director Anne Coggins.

Mrs. Coggins said preliminary revenue totals showed more than $2,000 collected in 25-cent adult admissions and $250 for brochures.

"And then there were all those kids," she said. "When you count the kids running around . . . who knows how many came to the show." The only problem, she said, was with parking. "We had cars backed up almost to the freeway."

Final revenue and attendance figures for the show in which 289 artists and craftsmen exhibited will be available by the end of this week, she said.

Woman's Injuries Minor In Accident

A 25-year-old Lagunitas woman suffered minor injuries Friday morning when her car went over a small embankment on Lucas Valley Road near the San Geronimo Road intersection.

The California Highway Patrol said that Julie G. Cohn, of P.O. Box 33, was treated for leg cuts by her own physician after the 11:15 a.m. accident.

Special Session

The San Anselmo Planning Commission will hold a special meeting at 8 p.m. Wednesday to discuss applications by Grant Perkins and John P. McInnis for planned development zoning of parcels now in residential and commercial districts off Essex Street, and for moving lot lines on the parcels to allow construction of 34 apartments on the property.

Ex-Convict Arrested In Assault

A San Anselmo ex-convict has been booked into Marin County Jail after a San Rafael woman told police he raped her Saturday morning, San Anselmo police reported today.

William Frederick Hardke, 29, of 9 West Court, was booked on suspicion of rape and parole violation. He was to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

The 20-year-old woman said she and a couple met Hardke at a San Rafael bar, then went to his house at 2 a.m. for breakfast. She said the other couple left, and when she and Hardke went to his car he attacked her, striking her in the face and threatening to hit her again if she did not submit.

After the rape, Hardke reportedly drove the woman to her ex-husband's home, where she called police after he left. He was arrested at his apartment at 8:15 a.m., police said.

Hardke was paroled from San Quentin Prison in June after serving a term for armed robbery.

Appeal Lost In Death Of Tom Mboya

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — A Kikuyu tribesman convicted of the murder of Tom Mboya lost his appeal to East Africa's highest court today and now faces death by hanging.

The Court of Appeals for East Africa listened to a quiet attack on the state's case today by defense attorney S.N. Waruhiu. Then the court president, Sir Charles Newbold, said: "We see no reason whatsoever to interfere with the conviction of the appellant and this appeal is dismissed."

The defense attorney argued that Njoroge might be an accessory who took the murder weapon and hid it after the shooting "for a good friend or influential person" with the expectation of a reward.

Contending that the lower court erred in finding his client guilty of shooting and killing Mboya on July 5, Waruhiu noted no witness could identify him positively as the man seen running from the scene.

He further contended that testimony about the accused's actions, after the crime, going to a party and lingering around the murder scene, were hardly those of a man who had just committed murder.

Njoroge, 32, was convicted Sept. 10 of killing Mboya, Kenya's minister for economic planning and development and one of Africa's leading politicians.

The slaying touched off tribal clashes between the Luo, Mboya's tribe, and the Kikuyu, the dominant tribe and that of President Jomo Kenyatta.

The murder weapon, a pistol, was found under Njoroge's bed with his fingerprints on it, according to testimony. But only one of the two assessors, who take the place of a jury here and whose views are not binding on the judge, felt the evidence was strong enough to convict him of murder.

G.R. M'Mwirichia, a Kikuyu and one of the assessors, said he could not rule out the possibility the murder weapon was planted on Njoroge the day after the killing.

Appeal Lost In Death Of Tom Mboya

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — A Kikuyu tribesman convicted of the murder of Tom Mboya lost his appeal to East Africa's highest court today and now faces death by hanging.

The Court of Appeals for East Africa listened to a quiet attack on the state's case today by defense attorney S.N. Waruhiu. Then the court president, Sir Charles Newbold, said: "We see no reason whatsoever to interfere with the conviction of the appellant and this appeal is dismissed."

The hearing lasted three hours and 20 minutes.

The defense attorney argued that Njoroge might be an accessory who took the murder weapon and hid it after the shooting "for a good friend or influential person" with the expectation of a reward.

Contending that the lower court erred in finding his client guilty of shooting and killing Mboya on July 5, Waruhiu noted no witness could identify him positively as the man seen running from the scene.

He further contended that testimony about the accused's actions, after the crime, going to a party and lingering around the murder scene, were hardly those of a man who had just committed murder.

Njoroge, 32, was convicted Sept. 10 of killing Mboya, Kenya's minister for economic planning and development and one of Africa's leading politicians.

The slaying touched off tribal clashes between the Luo, Mboya's tribe, and the Kikuyu, the dominant tribe and that of President Jomo Kenyatta.

The murder weapon, a pistol, was found under Njoroge's bed with his fingerprints on it, according to testimony. But only one of the two assessors, who take the place of a jury here and whose views are not binding on the judge, felt the evidence was strong enough to convict him of murder.

G.R. M'Mwirichia, a Kikuyu and one of the assessors, said he could not rule out the possibility the murder weapon was planted on Njoroge the day after the killing.

Nader Slates Bay Area Talk

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Consumer advocate Ralph Nader will make his first Bay Area appearance at 8 p.m. on Oct. 24 at Marina Junior High School.

His appearance is being sponsored by the Sausalito-based Association of California Consumers, a statewide affiliation of consumer groups, and tickets are being handled by the association's office.

The association's executive director, Sylvia Siegel, said Nader's appearance is part of the association's consumer education program. The association, she said, "has given up trying to get consumer protection" from the Reagan administration.

Nader will be introduced by Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco.

Lagunitas Policy Manual Due Review

The Lagunitas School District board will review its policy manual regarding the responsibilities of the board and the superintendent at a meeting at 7:30 p.m. today at Lagunitas School.

The status of the Tamalpais High School transportation committee study will also be reviewed.

Riot Victim Facing Months Of Paralysis

Charged with attempted murder an aggravated battery in the attack Saturday on Richard Elrod, 35, was Brian Flanagan, 22, of Southampton, N.Y. Flanagan was held today in $10,000 bail.

Elrod was involved in a scuffle when members of the Weatherman faction of SDS demonstrated in the downtown Loop area. His neck was broken and his body paralyzed.

The march was the culmination of four days of violence at demonstrations called by the Weatherman, an SDS faction which had vowed to "bring the war home" to Chicago.

Organizers predicted 5,000 to 15,000 persons would take part. No more than 500 took part in any demonstration.

Some 250 persons were arrested during the four days, about half of them Saturday. Most were charged with mob action, disorderly conduct and resisting arrest.

The rampage began Wednesday when demonstrators burst from a rally in Lincoln Park and stormed through the near North Side, breaking windows and fighting with police.

Some 2,600 National guardsmen were released from duty yesterday by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie, who ordered them to stand by after Wednesday night's violence.

Ex-Convict Arrested In Assault

A San Anselmo ex-convict has been booked into Marin County Jail after a San Rafael woman told police he raped her Saturday morning, San Anselmo police reported today.

William Frederick Hardke, 29, of 9 West Court, was booked on suspicion of rape and parole violation. He was to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

The 20-year-old woman said she and a couple met Hardke at a San Rafael bar, then went to his house at 2 a.m. for breakfast. She said the other couple left, and when she and Hardke went to his car he attacked her, striking her in the face and threatening to hit her again if she did not submit.

After the rape, Hardke reportedly drove the woman to her ex-husband's home, where she called police after he left. He was arrested at his apartment at 8:15 a.m., police said.

Hardke was paroled from San Quentin Prison in June after serving a term for armed robbery.

Special Session

The San Anselmo Planning Commission will hold a special meeting at 8 p.m. Wednesday to discuss applications by Grant Perkins and John P. McInnis for planned development zoning of parcels now in residential and commercial districts off Essex Street, and for moving lot lines on the parcels to allow construction of 34 apartments on the property.

10,000 Attend Arts Festival

More than 10,000 persons attended the two-day MillValley Fall Arts Festival in Old Mill Park last weekend, according to publicity director Anne Coggins.

Mrs. Coggins said preliminary revenue totals showed more than $2,000 collected in 25-cent adult admissions and $250 for brochures.

"And then there were all those kids," she said. "When you count the kids running around . . . who knows how many came to the show." The only problem, she said, was with parking. "We had cars backed up almost to the freeway."

Final revenue and attendance figures for the show in which 289 artists and craftsmen exhibited will be available by the end of this week, she said.

Woman's Injuries Minor In Accident

A 25-year-old Lagunitas woman suffered minor injuries Friday morning when her car went over a small embankment on Lucas Valley Road near the San Geronimo Road intersection.

The California Highway Patrol said that Julie G. Cohn, of P.O. Box 33, was treated for leg cuts by her own physician after the 11:15 a.m. accident.
